British Airlift Gurkha Troops To Crush Rebellion In Borneo

Republicans Ask JFK To Oust Castro

Charge Regime Deceived Public About Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans called on President Kennedy Saturday for action toward the "complete elimination" of Communist military power in Cuba and the overthrow of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

In one of a series of resolutions adopted unanimously at a windup session of a two-day conference, the Republican National Committee accused the Democratic administration of deceiving the American people about the presence of missiles in Cuba at a time it said GOP spokesmen had exposed their presence there.

CONDEMN GRAB

The Republicans lashed out at what they called "suppression and distortion of truth" by the administration in its informational policies.

They condemned what they said was Kennedy's grab for excessive power in the presidency.

They criticized what they termed a staggering increase in federal spending, pledging their party to support tax reduction only if it is coupled with cuts in spending.

All of this added up to a preview of the issues Republicans seem likely to pound away at during 1963's tuning-up process for the 1964 presidential and congressional campaigns.

Regrouping for these battles, the GOP members lifted the flap of their party tent to admit the Republican National Citizens Committee—a brainchild of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower—into associate membership.

They gave National Chairman William E. Miller a rousing endorsement to continue managing party affairs until the 1964 national convention.

They set up an ambitious budget for next year's expenditure of about $3 million to cover expenses of the national and Senate and House campaign committees.

Aroused by the claim of Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., that the timing of Kennedy's quarantine action against Cuba's import of offensive weapons had cost them 20 House seats in the November election, the Republicans made it clear they will pump this issue.

They said in a resolution that the Eisenhower administration had "inaugurated a policy that would have led to the elimination of the Communist regime in Cuba."

Miller told a news conference the Eisenhower plan had called for air cover for the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in April 1961. He said Kennedy called off the air cover.

JFK Accused Of 'Hands-Off Cuba' Policy

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Miami News said Saurday night the Kennedy administration has adopted a "hands-off Cuba" policy in exercising a tight censorship on radio broadcasts to that country.

Commentators broadcasting to Cuba from the United States have been ordered to make no disparaging remarks about Fidel Castro, the News reported, and a ban has been placed on any material designed to raise the hope of freedom inside Cuba.

Earlier the News' Latin-American editor, Hal Hendrix, said anti-Castro exile organizations also could expect a clampdown on any warlike activities directed against Cuba from U.S. bases.

"Contrary to President Kennedy's earlier pledge to 'continue working with' exile leaders seeking to restore freedom in Cuba, U.S. authorities have been instructed to tighten surveillance of anti-Castro activities and give no assistance to any groups," Hendrix said.

"Such organizations as the Cuban Student Revolutionary Directorate, which has staged one spectacular Cuba hit-run raid on the Havana shoreline has been advised that the United States will tolerate no more of these excursions."

Defiant raiders who continue their operations will face charges of violating the U.S. Neutrality Act, the News said, and may even be drafted or subjected to close scrutiny of their federal income tax status. Under the radio censorship, the News said, no exile organization can obtain air time for so-called "doctrine" broadcasts.

PROTEST IS LODGED

Five Frenchmen Slain In Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)— Five Frenchmen and an Algerian were killed in three violent incidents in Orleansville on Saturday, resulting in a vigorous diplomatic protest by France to Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's government.

The incidents came only four days after the French goverment reported it would keep a sharp eye on Bel Bella's ability to maintain order in his country. This is a primary French condition for future foreign aid.

The French Embassy said in a statement that the dead Moslem was a uniformed soldier of Wilaya (military zone) No. 4, which has not yet been brought under control of the Algerian government's official army. It said the Moslem was shot by a French sentry while trying to penetrate into a military camp in the predawn darkness.

CHILDREN WOUNDED

Wilaya 4, the Moslem combat unit in the area during the revolution, is reported still to hold the dominating position despite the presence of elements of Ben Bella's national people's army, which spent the war outside the Algerian frontiers.

The second incident occurred about noon when a band of Algerian soldiers killed three French gendarmes assigned to guard a busload of French school children. Two children were wounded.

MISSILE DETECTORS

Nature Plays Hob With Warning Net

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Nature's northern lights are playing hob with the nation's giant new missile detector radar at nearby Clear, Alaska.

And the situation is likely to get worse, not better.

Dr. Victor Hessler, professor of geophysics at the University of Alaska, told newsmen touring Air Force facilities in Alaska: "The disturbances in the earth's magnetic field which caused the auroras also cause blips on the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System—BMEWS—screen at Clear.

"This is quite confusing at times and the problem is only partly solved. From our studies of the auroras we can tell the Air Force when these disturbances are likely to occur, but we can't tell them how to distinguish between the magnetic disturbances and missile attacks."

The spectacular northern lights apparently result from bursts of energy from the sun known as solar flares. These flares, which can be severe enough to interrupt radio communications, come in cycles with a peak of intensity every 11 years.

The last peak was in 1958. Since then the activity has been falling slowly toward a low expected in 1963-64. After that, the intensity should increase again, hitting another peak in 1969.

This means that the 400x165-foot radar antenna recently built at Clear and the sister BMEWS screen at Thule, Greenland, are likely to become increasingly confused during the next seven years. If a massive missile attack were launched during the period of intense solar activity U.S. technicians could lose several precious minutes trying to decide whether to send the alarm for a retaliatory blow.

Body Of One Miner Found By Rescuers

Efforts Continue To Reach Others Trapped In Mine

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP) — Rescue workers recovered the body of one coal miner Saturday, then pushed relentlessly ahead toward 36 others trapped in a mammoth explosion more than two days ago.

Discovery of the body, however, gave no indication of the fate of the other miners caught 650 feet underground by the blast in a mine near this southwestern Pennsylvania town, about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

MINE VETERAN

The body of Hurley C. Stalmaker, 50, of Adah was recovered near a coal train 3,900 feet from the face of the mine, which is the point of the mining operations.

Stalmaker, a 19-year mine veteran, was motorman of the train which was headed toward the face when the explosion ripped U.S. Steel Corp.'s Robena No. 3 mine Thursday afternoon.

A U.S. Steel spokesman said a coal train usually also is manned by a brakeman, but there was no sign of any other bodies. A funeral director reported earlier three other bodies had been spotted.

Stalmaker's body first was sighted early Saturday morning, but deadly methane gas prevented workers from reaching it until nearly eight hours later.

"Our progress may seem slow, but we are encountering gas which we must move and a few small fires," said James Girod, assistant general superintendent in charge of rescue operations.

Girod said he could not say what the chances are of finding the other men alive.

Girod explained that the operation was progressing about 100 feet per hour and that workers must explore 1,700 feet of headings for every 100 feet they push forward.

Advance teams, wearing self-contained breathing apparatus, have remained about 800 feet ahead of the main rescue operations.

Famous British Women Drivers Are 'Grounded'

LONDON (UPI) — England's two most famous women drivers were off the streets Saturday and Britons breathed a sigh of relief.

Miss Margaret Hunter, an elderly schoolteacher who is the most famous, said Saturday she had postponed her latest attempts to pass a driver's test because her damaged car has not been fixed.

Miss Hunter, 65, has been taking driving lessons for nearly 20 years and has yet to pass the test.

In one of her recent incidents her driving instructor leaped out of the car with a shout of "I've had enough; this is suicide." Later she collided with a truck, wrecking her car.

The other famous driver is Mrs. Dorothy Ann Binning, a 77- year-old widow. She has been driving for 46 years but a court told her last month she would go to prison for a series of traffic offenses unless she sold her car.

Saturday she told a court she had sold her car and she left a free woman — but barred for life from driving again.

Fair And Cool

If the forecast holds good, today will be another pretty and cold day. The prediction for the Twin Cities and surrounding area is for clear to partly cloudy skies and cold temperatures.

The expected high today is 56 with the low tonight probably about 30.

Saturday's top was 62 with a low of 35 recorded. Clear skies prevailed Saturday.

Winds Whip Snow Drifts; Over 50 Die

By United Press International

Cold air knifed the midwest Saturday on the heels of a snowstorm that left more than 50 persons dead from Indiana to the Appalachians and stranded thousands of travelers. Heavy fog clogged transportation in the west.

The temperature dropped into the teens in North Dakota and was in the 30s across much of the country. Gale warnings were out for the Great Lakes.

WORST IN YEARS

Brisk winds whipped the up to 26-inch snowfall, described as one of the East's worst storms in years. Snow flurries and squalls lingered along the shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario and from Pennsylvania to Maine.

The heart of the storm had pushed northward into Canada to east of Hudson Bay by early Saturday.

The toll from the snowstorm included 18 dead in Michigan, 17 in Ohio, 6 in Pennsylvania, 3 each in Tennessee, Illinois, Indiana and West Virginia, and 1 in New York state for a total of 54.

Snow plows opened some of Ohio's main arteries that had been blocked since Friday night by 5 to 6 foot drifts. Thousands of motorists forsook the farm homes and public buildings where they had taken refuge and resumed their joruneys.

In Pennsylvania, Mrs. Lois Hixson of Scottsdale gave birth to a daughter in a fire truck on a snow-covered road. Her husband's car stalled and an ambulance also broke down.

Traffic returned to normal on the Pennsylvania Turnpike where 2,000 persons were stranded in service stations Friday. In Indiana toll road also was clear, but some secondary roads remained blocked.

CHRISTMAS FUND

Sickness Is Big Goodfellows Plea

"My father has been out of work now for three years and has been in the hospital most of that time," writes a West Monroe girl who is one of nine children.

"There are nine children in the family but only eight of them (ranging in age from three to 16 years) are living at home," she continues in her plea to Goodfellows.

This was another of several letters sent by needy persons seeking aid to help brighten their Christmas holidays.

SEND DONATIONS

Along with the needy letters, donations continue to be sent to Goodfellows. Donations for the fund to assist families in need should be sent to Goodfellows, in care of the News-Star—World, Monroe.

Another plea was received from a mother who wrote, "I am asking for some help for my family—there are six of us. My husband is disabled and I am in bad health. He gets a old - age check, but it isn't enough to pay our bills and buy food."

She closes, "Without some help we won't have any Christmas."

Goodfellows is a local fund to provide for Christmas food, clothing and toys to needy families who otherwise would have barren Christmases. All work is voluntary and Goodfellows have no overhead expenses. Nor is cash ever given to recipients.

"I am a widow," one request letter reads, "and live by myself. The welfare helps me to pay my house rent and utilities but I only have two dollars left after bills are paid. I have a blood clot in my leg and can't stand for long at a time. I ask you to please help me with some food and clothes." This is typical of the needy cases in the Twin Cities who will be helped by Goodfellows.

An inmate at the state prison writes, asking help for his family. "I am doing three years down here and won't be out Christmas to help my family have a good Christmas. We have five children. My wife is on welfare but is barely getting by with the check she gets and wrote and told me she is looking for a job so she can get the kids some clothes and toys for Christmas. Anything you can do for them will be appreciated."

DR. JUDD DECLARES

'Struggles Must Come To An End'

"All struggles eventually must come to a climax, much like a man with a bad disease — either he recovers from the illness or he dies," Dr. Walter H. Judd, told the first meeting of the second annual Executive's Dinner Club of Monroe Saturday night at the Paragon Club.

John Rudisill, newly - elected president of the Monroe club, opened the meeting by introducing Mayor W. L. Howard, Garland Shell, vice president of the Dinner's Club, and George Sneelings, Monroe attorney, who in turn introduced the guest of honor.

Dr. Judd, Congressman from Minnesota, is a native of Rising City, Neb. He obtained his B.A. and M.D. degrees at the University of Nebraska.

After serving as an officer in World War I, Dr. Judd spent about 10 years as a medical missionary in China, where he worked his way up from a practicing surgeon to the post of superintendent of hospitals in North China. However his hospitals were destroyed in 1937 by the Japanese and he returned to America where he tried for the next three years to warn of Japanese aggression.

In 1942 he was elected to Congress from Minnesota's fifth district.

His experience has enabled him to become what many consider the leading authority on China and the Far East.

Dr. Judd said that the world may be divided into three parts —(1) the Communist countries; (2) the new independent countries; and (3) the North Atlantic

Rebels Hit At Rich Oil Field Areas

BRUNEI, (AP) — The British army airlifted hard-fighting Gurkha troops to this tropical sultanate on Borneo Saturday night to help crush a revolt for independence from Britain. Striking before dawn, rebels hit at Brunei's rich oil installations.

Seven persons were reported killed in the opening skirmishes of the revolt, sparked by an Indonesian-educated lawyer who—in Manila—proclaimed himself prime minister of Brunei and its British-administered neighbors, North Borneo and Sarawak.

OPEN ATTACKS

Opening their attacks at 2 a.m., the rebels hit at British-operated oil installations in this capital but no damage or casualties were reported.

They also were reported to have struck at Brunei's major oil fields around Seria, about 45 miles southwest of here. These fields have been turning out about 33 million barrels of oil a year. Oil is Brunei's chief resource. The rebel leader threatened to blow up the oil fields unless the British gave in to his demand for independence.

Two companies of Gurkhas—numbering 230 men—left Singapore in eight planes on a 700-mile flight to Brunei. More were scheduled to fly Sunday.

(Brunei cable offices closed down at their usual hour Saturday night but the government of Sarawak announced in Kuching the situation in Brunei was under government control and that order had been restored with 100 persons under arrest. It said, however, the situation in the oil field

Red China May Keep Forces At 2 India Points

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said Saturday Red China wants to keep civil police posts at two points in northeast India after its troops withdraw. These are the Himalayan villages of Dhola and Longju, about 120 miles apart.

Nehru did not say in a report to Parliament what he was going to do about these claims, and members were not permitted to question him about his intentions, but his government made clear its rejection of Peking's bid for a far greater prize in Ladakh, in the west.

The government said in a booklet issued for world distribution it believed the Chinese Communists' main aim in attacking this country was to keep control of a strategic section of eastern Ladakh, through which runs a highway linking China's Sinkiang Province and Tibet.

"It would be fatal to compromise with aggression or submit to the military dictates of an aggressor," the booklet said.

A Peking broadcast announced that the Chinese troops will withdraw further Sunday on both eastern and western sectors in a pullback begun a week ago toward what the Chinese term the lines of actual control of Nov. 7, 1959. This was called a demonstration of Red China's desire to settle the boundary question peacefully.

"We hope," the radio said, "that the Indian government will take to heart the friendship between the Chinese and Indian people and African-Asian solidarity and will quickly make corresponding efforts."

BID OPENING SLATED DEC. 18

Elaborate Band Room Is Part Of Planning For West Monroe High School Expansion

By HOWARD PAGE
World Staff Writer

Bids will be opened here Dec. 18 on West Monroe High School additions which include an elaborate music building expected to cost approximately $180,000.

Also included in the project is a two - story classroom addition for 12 regular classrooms and three science rooms.

Contractors are being permitted to submit separate or combined bids on the music building and classroom addition. An alternate bid is being asked on the brick veneering of the athletic field house.

Bids will be opened by the Ouachita Parish School Board in a special session.

Officials have estimated that the total cost of the project will exceed $350,000. It will be financed from the $7 - million bond issue.

However, only $340,209.48 remains from the $400,000 budgeted for West Monroe High School from the bond issue.

A survey by the Morning World has revealed that the proposed structure for West Monroe will far exceed music facilities in other Twin City high schools.

For instance, Neville High School completed a new band building earlier this year at a total cost of $58,074.22 — including a bid of $54,787 on the building and $3,287.22 for the architect's fee.

However, the West Monroe music building will house both band and choral.

Neville's choral rehearsals and instruction are conducted in a separate room within the main high school building.

Ouachita parish High School has a band room and a choral room, both located within the school building. Facilities include one large rehearsal room for each —band and choral; along with storage space. There are no special individual practice rooms.

Neville's new, modern band building, costing only approximately one - third the anticipated amount for the West Monroe music structure, includes one large rehearsal area, five practice rooms, private office for the band director, instrument repair room, storage space for instruments and uniforms, and two dressing rooms. The building is brick and of AAA construction.

Officials of the Monroe City School System described it as "highly adequate in every detail for high school band needs."

Plans on the West Monroe music building call for a structure 100 feet long and 146 feet wide, with 14,304 square feet of floor space. Outside of the building will be brick and stone.

The department for band includes a music library, private office for the director, five practice rooms, instrument repair room, instrument storage room, and a large rehearsal room for the entire band. The large rehearsal room, which is 61 feet by 44 feet with a 16 - foot ceiling, has cabinets along the walls to provide storage for uniforms and instruments.

Walls in the band department are tapered for sound correction, with the ceiling also having special acoustical corrections.

Lobby from the front entrance leads to both the main band and choir rehearsal rooms.

Also located off the lobby is a theory and music appreciation classroom, 28 feet by 35 feet, four inches, for use by both band and choir.

Smaller individual practice areas in the band department include one ensemble room, 14 by 23 feet; one ensemble room, 13 by 16 feet, six inches; one practice room, 12 by nine feet; another practice room, 11 by 12 feet; and still another practice room, 10 by nine feet.

Completing the band department of the building are separate dressing room facilities for boys and girls, with these facilities also to be used by the choir department.

A special recording room, 14 feet, eight inches by eight feet, four inches, is located between the main band and choir rehearsal rooms for use by both. This room will be used to record rehearsals while they are in progress.

The choir department of the building includes a large rehearsal room, 47 by 43 feet with a 16 - foot ceiling. It includes a platform of six risers to elevate the choir. One wall of this room is lined with cabinets for storing choir robes and music.

The choir director has a private office, 15 by 11 feet. And there is another private office, 14 by 11 feet, for the assistant choir director.

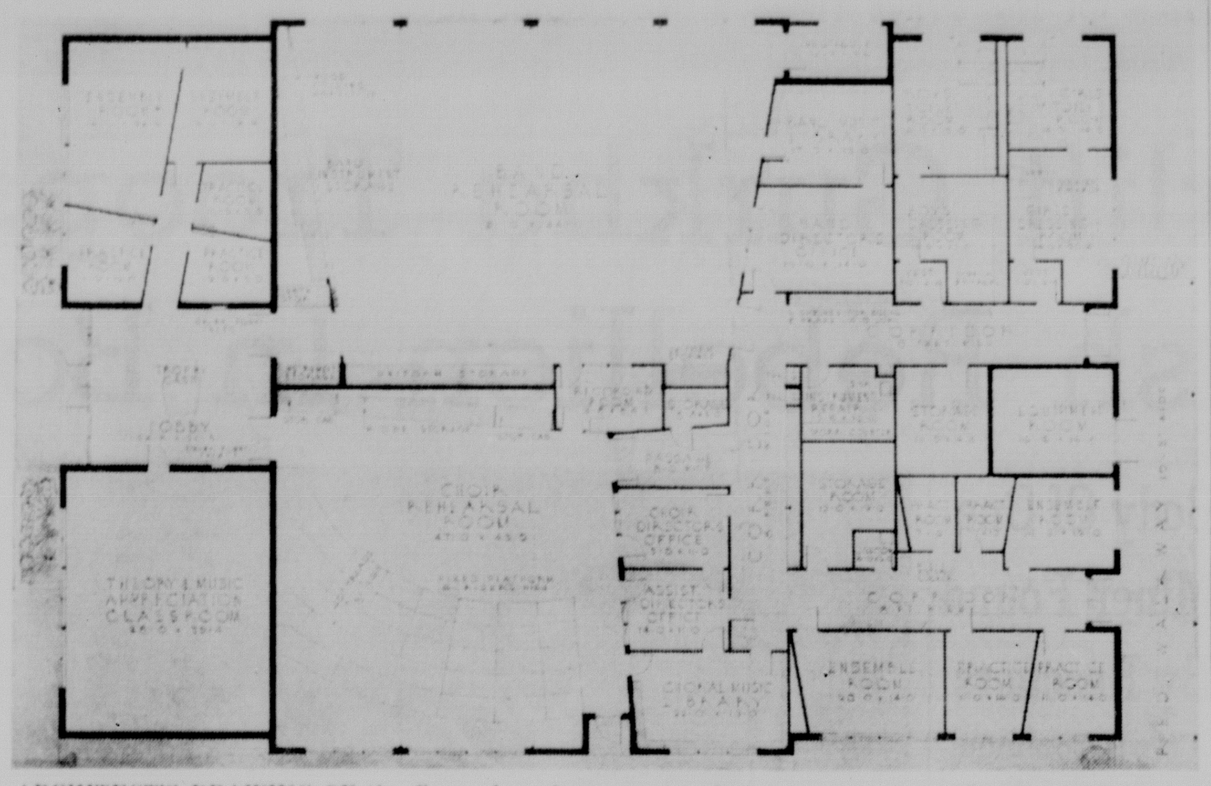
However, West Monroe High School does not have an assistant choir director.

Special room for the choir music library is 22 by 13 feet. There are also six private practice areas, including one ensemble room, 20 by 14 feet, a second ensemble room, 14 feet, six inches by 12 feet; and four practice rooms — two measuring 11 by 14 feet each, and two others measuring seven by 10 feet each.

There are two storage rooms—one 13 by 19 feet and the other 13 by 14 feet, eight inches—and an equipment room, 16 feet, six inches by 14 feet, eight inches.

Interior partitions of the building are mostly masonry, with some brick and birchwood paneling. Ceilings are of acoustical tile, with three inches of insulation above the ceilings.

A covered walkway extends along the north end of the building.



ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF the floor plan for the proposed new music building for West Monroe High School is shown here. Bids on the building, which is expected to cost approximately $180,000, will be opened Dec. 18. Large area at the top of the drawing is the main band rehearsal room, while the similar area at the bottom is the choir rehearsal room. In the upper left hand corner are individual ensemble and practice rooms for band, while the lower left hand corner of the drawing shows the large theory and music appreciation classroom which will be used by both band and choral. Smaller rooms to the right of the large rehearsal rooms include offices, storage rooms, equipment rooms, individual music library rooms for band and choral, a recording room, ensemble and practice rooms for choral, and separate dressing room facilities for boys and girls.

Chief Justice Is Critical Of Orleans Rift

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Orleans Parish Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's battle with the parish's eight district judges drew criticism Saturday from Chief Justice John B. Fournet of the Louisiana Supreme Court.

Fournet, without mentioning the rift directly, told the mid-winter meeting of the Louisiana Bar Association "we have only too recently witnessed the unfortunate undermining of public confidence in the important and vital role of the judiciary through the airing of charges that were expanded through news media far beyond the comprehension of the average citizen."

Speaking at a session on the new inter-professional code between doctors and lawyers, he said, "Both professions can suffer irreparable injury by hasty and ill-considered public airing of complaints or criticisms against a member of either profession."

Garrison has accused the judges of withholding funds needed for vice crackdowns.

The two-day meeting, which ended Saturday, also included talks by Dr. Ralph H. Riggs of Shreveport, president of the state medical society, nd Oliver P. Stockwell, Lake Charles, president of the state bar group.

Judge Admits Confessions In Assault Case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Criminal Dist. Judge Bernard J. Bagert Saturday ruled as admissible evidence the confessions and statements made by four Negro men being tried on rape charges.

The judge ruled the confessions and statements had been made voluntarily. He also said the foundation for their introduction must be established in presence of the jury before they can be admitted.

The jury was not present when the legality of admission of the confessions was first brought before the judge.

Two defendants have claimed they were forced to confess by police beatings. Police denied the claim.

DOWNTOWN MONROE

Jaycees To Stage Christmas Parade

Monroe's first Christmas parade in many years, will be staged throughout the downtown area next Saturday at 5:30 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce it was announced Saturday by Tom Hassion, Jaycee chairman for the event.

Hassion said, in making the announcement, "The parade will remain religious in nature and would contain no commercial displays." The parade will include floats from the Salvation Army, Pilot Club, Red Cross, St. Matthew's School, McClendon Baptist Church, and the YWCA.

Marching units and bands from Neville High School, Ouachita Parish High School, Jefferson Junior High School, Ouachita Parish Junior High School, and the American Legion will also participate.

The Jaycees are building a special float to bring Santa Claus to the Monroe area with candy and goodies for the children. All civic clubs, churches, and youth groups have been invited to participate in the event, and the Jaycee spokesman stated more units may enter by contacting any member of the Jaycees, or calling publicity director Ted Hatfield.

Awards to the outstanding float and band will be presented by the Greater Monroe Downtown Association.

Hoffa Is Swept Back In Office By Local Union

DETROIT (UPI) — It was no surprise but Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was swept back into office Saturday as president of local 299 of the union, a job he has held since 1937.

The contenders were thoroughly thrashed. Ira D. Cooke, a Dearborn, Mich., truckdriver and Charles O'Brien, a union business agent and sometime Hoffa bodyguard, polled 280 and 76 votes respectively, to Hoffa's 3,615 votes.

The local has 16,000 members. The low number of those voting in the election was attributed to the snowstorm which hit Michigan earlier in the week.

Morse Praises JFK Backing Of Stevenson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., commended President Kennedy Saturday for blocking what the senator called a "hatchet job" on Adlai Stevenson. Morse also warned against any attempt to promote those reponsible.

Morse said in a statement that if any person involved in the "hatchet job attempted on Mr. Stevenson" is every nomined by the President for a post requiring Senate confirmation, Morse will see that "such a person undergoes the most intensive possible scrutiny of his role in it."

Morse, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he is personally gratified that Stevenson will continue as ambassador to the United Nations with the full confidence and support of the President.

"President Kennedy has acted wisely in refusing to let so able and valuable a public servant as Mr. Stevenson be smeared out of office," the senator added.

Morse did not mention any names, but said the stir created by a magazine article "involved only members of the President's official family."

"It has been up to the President to settle it which I am satisfied he has now done," his statement added.

Kennedy wrote Stevenson a letter voicing "fullest confidence" in his ambassador.

The incident stemmed from an article in the Saturday Evening President. They quoted anonymous officials as saying that at the outset of the Cuban crisis Stevenson dissented from Kennedy's decision to throw a naval blockade around Cuba and advocated a softer approach.

1962 'LADY OF BRACELET'

Patricia Fulton Wins Yearbook Honor At NSC

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — A dark haired, brown - eyed beauty from West Monroe is the 1962 "Lady of the Bracelet" at Northwestern State College.

She is Miss Patricia Fulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Fulton, sophomore home economics student who was crowned by President John Kyser after four hours of competition in the annual pageant of the "Potpourri," student annual.

This years pageant included competition in bathing suits in a closed afternoon session, and evening gowns, talent contest, and a question period in the formal evening program.

Miss Fulton is 19, five feet, five inches, and weighs 120 pounds. For the talent contest she performed an interpretative dance.

Second place went to Miss Sharon Steelman, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William D. Steelman of 1503 Cove St., Bossier. Miss Steelman is a freshman in the nursing program.

Miss Georgia Ann Blair, daughter of Mrs. Ann Blair of 647 Kirby Place, Shreveport, was winner of the bathing suit division and Miss Majorie Regions, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Regions Jr. of Natchitoches, won the talent contest. Miss Edwina Krable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Krable of Jena was voted most congenial by the 21 other contestants.

Judges for the pageant were Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Natchitoches; Jack Fitzgerald, Kenner; Richard Gay and Mrs. Betty Humphries, Shreveport; William Benson, Nashville, Tenn., and students Mrs. Glenda Marsham and Leonard Blanton.

The contest was planned and directed by Miss Betty Neely, assisted by Mrs. Leah Rogers. Bobby Cortinez is editor of the student annual.

BUS DRAGS SMALL CAR

LONDON (UPI)—When a bus driver got out to see why people were yelling at him he discovered a small compact car had become hooked in his rear bumper in the fog and that he was dragging it through London.

Rebels Hit At Rich Oil Field Areas

areas of Seria and the Kuala Belait district was still serious. The statement added that Sarawak had sent police units to Limbang on the Brunei border, "where the situation is obscure," and to Miri, a Sarawak center which refines Brunei's oil. The British high commissioner for Brunei, Sir Dennis White, interrupted his leave in London and flew back to his post.

A. M. Azahari, the self-proclaimed revolt leader, set up headquarters in the Philippines.

He established the sultan of Brunei, Sir Omar Ali Saifuddin, as revolutionary ruler of all three territories. But in a broadcast over Brunei radio the sultan denounced the uprising and indicated those responsible for it would be punished.

Sir Omar addressed the nation in the afternoon. This capital city was quiet by then.

The three territories which the rebellion seeks to weld together have a population of nearly 1.3 million. Brunei, smallest of the three, with a population of about 83,000 in its 2,226 square miles, has been a British protectorate since 1888.

Azahari, head of Brunei's chief political party — Parti Rakyat (People's party)—also announced formation of a revolutionary government of the new independent nation of North Borneo—meaning Brunei, Sarawak and North Borneo.

He said his rebel forces also had opened hostilities in Sarawak and North Borneo but there was no confirmation of this, other than a few border skirmishes launched from Brunei.

Azahari said his rebels numbered between 20,000 and 25,000 men and were fighting under the name Tentera Nasional Kalimantan Utara (North Borneo National Army).

This army previously has been identified here as being pro-Indonesian.

But Azahari said his revolution is "neither foreign inspired nor influenced." He said it was a nationalist revolution set off by "British stubborness," claiming Britain refused his people the right of self-determination.

The three territories, occupying the north and northwest coasts of this Southeast Asian island, are scheduled to be included next August in a federation with Singapore and Malaya. It is to be called Malaysia—longtime dream of Malaya's Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

Azahari and his political party have been opposed to the federation. Instead he wants an independent nation sharing this island with Indonesian Borneo, which takes up the entire southern, central and northeastern portions.

All three territories have been administered or controlled by Britain since the latter part of the last century.

Azahari said he intended to fly to the United Nations Wednesday "to present my case to the General Assembly and ask for recognition."

Girl Walks 5 Miles To Wed

WEM, England (AP) — Pretty Norma Blake walked five miles to comply with the law so she could marry her American fiance in the wedding of her dreams Saturday.

Norma, 21, and Gerry Reishus, 25, of Marshall, Minn., flew 3,500 miles from America so that they could marry in the old parish church of Wem.

Then Norma found that her father's farmhouse is 15 yards outside the parish boundary. If she stayed there, she wouldn't qualify to marry in the church where she always had hoped to wed.

The Rev. Basil Morson, rector of Wem, told Norma she would have to sleep within the parish boundaries if she wanted the wedding of her dreams. So while her fiance stayed at her parents' home, Norma walked 500 yards every evening to sleep at the home of a friend in the village.

"I worked it out that my daily journeys totalled five miles," blonde, attractive Norma smiled.

She wore a long-sleeved white wedding gown with a wineglass-shaped skirt and white veil headdress for her wedding. She carried a spray of white lillies of the valley, snowdrops and carnations.

countries.

He pointed out that the conspiracy remains unchanged in the Communist countries of the Soviet Union and China and their main objective is still world conquest.

"The job of the third group of countries (North Atlantic nations) is to unite and strengthen the second group, which are primitive and suffering from a lack of trained personnel," the former missionary stated.

"This should be the main target of our foreign policy," he continued, "not to make compromises and consessions with the Communist powers, who are trying to overrun the weaker nations in an attempt to conquer free powers."

The Minnesota Congressman emphasized that the U. S. should have learned several lessons from its past dealings with the Soviets, most recently on the Cuban issue.

He pointed out that "Communists never start an operation without probing first, and when they are confronted by resistance, they immediately back down — most important, they always grab for much more than they actually want, and then settle for less than half."

Mrs. Miller, 66, Dies; Rites Pend

Mrs. Alice Berry Miller, 66, West Monroe resident, died Saturday afternoon in a local hospital after a long illness.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but will be under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home.

Mrs. Miller is survived by one sister, Mrs. Rosa Belle Rawls, of West Monroe.

Mrs. Miller is a native of West Monroe and made her residence here on Owens Street.

Anti-Missile Nike Launched On West Coast

POINT MUGU, Calif. (UPI)—The Army Saturday fired the Nike Zeus anti-missile missile, achieving "most" of its objectives despite the fact some technical difficulty forced destruction of the missile after third stage ignition.

The mid-afternoon shot from this Pacific missile range base saw the slender Nike Zeus burst aloft from a billow of flame in the nation's continued effort to find an interceptor for intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Air Mine Rescue Problem

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP)—Two rescue team captains working at the Robena No. 3 mine said Saturday night their major problems were the large amount of territory to explore and the advancement of air.

The two, John Tosic, 47, of Castle Shannon, and James Beck, 28, of Bethel Park, both Pittsburgh suburbs, said they were progressing at about the same rate of speed.

"That's fast enough, the work is safe," Beck said.

The two men were interviewed during a 10-minute news conference.

Tosic described a rescue team's operation this way: "We explore the fresh air base. We advance in, carrying our own oxygen and report back."

Beck said the work was "hazardous in a way, but everyone down there is in danger. It is an atmosphere of no oxygen and carbon monoxide gases."

Asked about the gas conditions, Beck said, "They couldn't get any worse. The company's got a big problem to dilute them."

Neither team captain would speculate on the maximum or minimum amount of time it would take to reach the 36 trapped miners. They said they were unable to determine this.

Asked what he thought about while underground, Beck said: "First off, I think of my safety and the team members with me."

Both team captains said they hoped to reach the men alive.

"As long as they are unaccounted for, they are still alive," said Beck. "That's the way we work."

Sheriff Loses 2-Way Radios

PRYOR, Okla. (AP)—The sheriff's two-way radios were repossessed Saturday, for nonpayment.

Workemen for Motorola Communications & Electronics, Inc., Tulsa, began dismantling the 50-foot antenna atop the courthouse Saturday morning.

Also removed were the base station in the sheriff's office and three mobile units.

Motorola said a $1,410 payment, due last June had not been paid. The delinquent payment and another installment next month would have paid off the balance.

There is no money in the county's general fund because the excise board has slashed budgets.

Diabetes Test Results Noted At Northeast

A total of 3,684 persons have been tested for diabetes at the School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College under a program sponsored jointly by the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association and the Jaycees.

Sixty - one of these tested proved to be positive, and the family physicians have been notified. Those tested also were informed.

Included in those tested were 842 public school students in the Monroe area. Distributed by the Monroe Jaycees, the tests were sent to the teachers for handling. Sixteen of these students had positive tests.

The Breaux Bridge Jaycees collected 538 tests (with 10 being positive) from public school students Other tests were received by mail.

The Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association buys the tests, distributes them to local drug stores which give them free to customers who can mail them to the testing agency.

Aiding with the testing at Northeast State were the Fifth District Women's Auxiliary of LSPA and the student branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association. The student group completed the bulk of the testing under the supervision of the pharmacy school staff.

Ralph M. Wilson, dean of the School of Pharmacy, reports that his staff has completed all current testing but that approximately 10,000 persons will be tested in January in the Shreveport area.

The purpose of the testing is to help locate people who have diabetes and don't know it, Dean Wilson said. He emphasized that diabetes is still a dreaded disease but that now it can be controlled (frequently by the use of drugs taken orally) if discovered early enough.

10 Are Initiated Into Fraternity At Area College

RUSTON (Special) — Nine Louisiana Tech engineering students and one Tech alumnus have been initiated into Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity.

New student members of the organization are Marshall D. Peel, Jr., Ruston; Charles G. Hilborn, Jackson, Miss.; Gordon Dutile, Natchitoches; Charles M. Bateman, Bastrop; Clint L. Mouer, Shreveport; Robert P. Larken, Monroe; Earl J. Guillory, Alexandria; James E. Bawcom, McGehee, Ark.; and William J. Snider, Shreveport.

V. H. Bryce Wilhite of Ogden, Utah, the alumnus initiated, is director of technical operations for the Thiokol Chemical Corp. and received his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from Tech in 1948 and his master's degree from Louisiana State University in 1949.

Wilhite is responsible for directing and coordinating the rocket propulsion system research and development programs at Thiokol and for planning and directing advanced engineering study programs.

Gov. Barnett Endorses Compromise Plan For Reapportioning

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett threw his weight behind a compromise reapportionment plan Saturday in appealing to legislators to approve a 122-member House and a 51-member Senate.

Barnett endorsed the plan which a House-Senate Conference Committee agreed upon Friday to reapportion the legislature, unchanged since 1890.

The governor issued a call to legislators to "expedite the reapportionment matter and immediately approve the unanimous recommendation of both the House and Senate conferees. . ."

"I believe that the recommended 122 membership of the House will give fair and just representation to every section of the state," Barnett said.

He said the Senate plan "presents fair and just representation for all sections as well as the heavily populated areas."

The 6-man legislative committee reached the plan as a compromise between a Senate and a House plan.

The present makeup of the Mississppi Legislature is a 140-member House and a 49-member Senate.

The House plan which has been knocking around in the legislature the past week called for an 82 member House and a 51 member Senate. A House-amended Senate plan called for a 100 member house and a 51-member Senate.

Barnett said it was his "sincere hope that the House and Senate will immediately upon their return to the Capitol give consideration to the recommendation of the conferees."

Barnett called for approval of the 122-member House and 51-member Senate "even though the conferees have recommended a reduction in the size of the House."

The governor warned of court intervention. "The matter of apportionment or reapportionment of our legislature is one for the legislature and not for the courts," he said.

Barnett said he thought "the people will, by their vote, give approval to this reapportionment plan."

The compromise committee approved the plan Friday. It studied several pending proposals and federal court decisions in reapportionment suits in other states before drawing up the new proposal.

The House plan was based on population and gave a seat for each 26,653 population or fraction of that figure.

Sen. Frank Barber of Hattiesburg, chairman of the committee, said the Senate plan was drawn up with population, geography and economic interests as consideration in making up senatorial districts.

The measure provides that future reapportionments are discretionary and not mandatory and that districts with more than one senator may set up separate posts for which candidates may run.

The House and Senate return to work at 2 p.m. Monday. If the lawmakers should decide to follow the appeal of Gov. Barnett, it will take a two-thirds majority to pass the measure.

The reapportionment plan would then be put before the voters for their approval or disapproval.

An earlier plan for an 82-member Senate and a reshuffling of the 140-member House met defeat at the polls Nov. 6.

Facing the legislature for added pressure is the threat of state court action unless a "fair and equitable plan" is approved.

Chancellor W. T. Horton of Jackson previously ruled in a suit by a Harrison County citizens group the present distribution of seats was unfair. The group had asked the court to order all legislative races be statewide until a new apportionment was made, but Horton said this would create chaos.

Horton said, however, he would order instead a reapportionment setting up a 147-member House and a 49-member Senate.

Horton later revised his House number to 140.

The current special session will not end, though, if the plan is quickly approved as Barnett suggests.

Barnett issued new matters to come in for consideration during the session. They are legislation to raise teacher pay, increase old age and welfare benfits, authorize a state welfare building, and permit sheriffs to succeed themselves.

Tech's Coffee Tradition Will Be Kept Intact

RUSTON (Special) — Coffee will be served for the 30th year in observance of the Christmas season by the Louisiana Tech registrar and her staff in the registrar's office here from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Thursday, Dec. 20.

The idea for the annual event originated in 1929, when G. W. Bond, then president of the college here, presented a fruit cake to the workers in the registrar's office. Coffee was made and members of the faculty and staff outside the registrar's office were invited by Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, then registrar.

The traditional coffee was omitted in 1936 because a fire that year destroyed the main building, in which the registrar's office was located. The event was also omitted in three other years because of the moving of the registrar's office and for other reasons.

Christmas decorations will be displayed in the registrar's office for the coffee on Dec. 20, which is the time the Christmas vacation will begin, following the last classes that day.

In addition to Miss Mabel May, registrar, the registrar's staff assisting in the coffee serving includes Mrs. Eleanor Rockett, assistant registrar; Fred May, data processing supervisor; Mrs. Carolyn Andrews, Mrs. Ann Tuten, Mrs. Joan Cavender, Mrs. Lois Byrd, Mrs. Laura Spearman and Mrs. Linda Mason.

Membership Sale Sites Announced

Locations for the sale of season memberships in the Northeast State Concerts Association have been announced by Dr. Harry Lemert, NSCA chairman and dean of the fine arts division at Northeast State.

The sale is being centered in four downtown locations to afford everyone the opportunity of securing memberships at the last minute prior to the first presentation, "Carnival," to be held in Neville High School Auditorium on Monday at 8:15 p.m. This is one of six programs for the year.

Memberships may be purchased at Dew Music Co., Hewitts Music Co., Bookmart in the Twin City Shopping Center, and the First National Bank in West Monroe.

The box office at Neville High School will open at 1 p.m. on Monday.

Memberships for all six programs cost only $11 for reserve seats, $8 for adult general admission, and $4 for all students except Northeast Students.

Northeast students may secure tickets to each program free by presenting their identification cards to the office of the dean of the division of fine arts and by presenting the ID cards along with the tickets at the door when gaining admission.

"Carnival," the first program of the season, is a well known Broadway musical starring Elaine Malbin and David Daniels. The story revolves around acrobats, jugglers, dancing girls, a magician, trained dogs, a prancing bear, a puppet show, and numerous hit songs.

Persons wishing additional information may contact the fine arts division at Northeast, telephone FA 5-6361, ext. 211.

ELAINE MALBIN and David Daniels, well known television stars, are appearing in a scene from "Carnival," the Broadway musical to be presented here Monday at 8:15 p.m. in Neville High School Auditorium by the Northeast State Concerts Association.

Georgian Claims Brutal Treatment

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Melvin Bruce, Decatur, Ga., man free on $25,000 bond after being charged with inciting riot at the University of Mississippi, said Saturday U.S. marshals dealt with him brutally.

He said he and others arrested were treated brutally by being denied food, water and comfort station privileges while held in a about 15 hours.

Bruce held a news conference here in advance of three scheduled public speaking engagements in Louisiana under sponsorship of the Louisiana Citizens Councils.

He denied he took part in "any rioting or anything" while at Ole Miss when the federal government forced admission of Negro James Meredith in September.

Riots on the Ole Miss campus resulted in the death of two men and injury to scores.

Defense Chiefs Deal Air Force Plans Blows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, which once seemed to enjoy the brightest prospects, has fallen on hard times—at least in comparison with the days when it was the fair-haired child among the services.

Within the past year, the Defense Department's civilian chiefs have dealt the Air Force four significant blows:

1. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has held to a strictly limited development of a 2,000-mile-an-hour plane. This is a project the Air Force wanted broadened into a full-scale push for a reconnaissance-strike bomber, the RS70, to replace the aging B52.

2. Pentagon planners tentatively have decided to drop from next year's military budget any money for the 1,000-mile range Skybolt missile designed to be fired from B52s. This air-launched missile, counted on to extend the useful life of the bomber, has had serious test difficulties.

3. The Kennedy administration has rejected the urgings of some senior Air Force officers to launch a big-scale program to develop weapons for space where these officers fear the Soviet Union may be gaining a capability to wage war.

4. The Defense Department in effect has thwarted an Air Force bid to expand its small counter-insurgency operation and to assume a greater role in this important aspect of the cold war.

Not too many years ago, the bomber pilot enjoyed an apparently limitless horizon.

Now the future for Air Force stratetic striking power lies underground—in deep silos from which missilemen in subterranean control capsules would launch nuclear headed ICBMs at targets thousands of miles away.

Back in the Eisenhower administration—when "massive retaliation" was the dominant doctrine—the Air Force won control over long-range missiles and air defense rockets.

This is not to say the Air Force regrets having won that fight—far from it.

But most Air Force officers believe there will be a need for manned bombers for many years to come.

They contend there is no substitue for human judgment and they argue there will be plenty of targets that can be attacked most effectively by a bomber.

Armed Forces Sound Appeal To Inventors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed forces appealed Saturday to inventors to develop fruit and vegetable products that can be popped like popcorn.

If inventors meet the challenge, soldiers would be supplied with kernels of fruit, vegetables and cereals that could be dropped into a canteen cup in the field for popping over the flame of a candle.

This was one of more than 300 inventions listed in the latest editions of "Inventions Wanted by the Armed Forces and Other Government Agencies."

The booklet was issued by the National Inventors Council, an agency of the Commerce Department which serves as a liaison point between civilian inventors and the government. It regularly collects lists of needed inventions, publicizes them and screens proposals submitted by civilian inventors.

Whenever a promising solution is found, the council advises the government agency seeking the particular invention and that agency contacts the inventor.

PI SIGMA EPSILON, sales and marketing fraternity at Northeast State, voted unanimously to support the current United Givers Fund campaign. President Robert Calvert, Jr., is shown presenting their Fair Share contribution to Campaign Division Chairman James W. Moore, second from right, as Preston Rudisill, sergeant-at-arms and Harold Ikerd, treasurer, look on. The Chapter also urged the community to put its full support behind the drive to help put it over the top this week.

RACKET TIES ALLEGED

N.Y. Police Chief Resigns In Probe

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Police Chief Harold F. Kelly resigned Saturday in the midst of an investigation of alleged police ties with racketeers, and Mayor William F. Walsh indicated others would follow Kelly from the force.

"Every bit of rottenness I can uncover will be rooted out and every wrongdoer will be thrown out," Walsh told a news conference.

The mayor announced Kelly's resignation, effective Monday, and appointment of a three-member commission headed by himself to direct operations of the police department on at emporary basis.

Walsh, who thus took personal control of the department, said there would be "firings" of police personnel next week—"perhaps one or more a day."

He said departmental charges would be placed against undesirables who could not be dismissed outright.

Other members of the commission are William F. Wright, the city's personnel director, and Stewart F. Hancock Jr., corporation counsel.

During three days of public hearings last week by the State Investigation Commission, it was alleged that Syracuse police were tied in with gambling, prostitution and narcotics traffic.

Various police officers testified that racketeers made payoffs and cash Christmas gifts to members of the police force and that gamblers apparently were tipped off before raids were made.

The bipartisan commission is continuing its robe and plans further hearings.

Mr. Vernon was a Lake Providence farmer and had lived in this area most of his life.

Degree Awarded To Researcher

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Henry G. Ellert, a research associate in the Esso Research Laboratories at Baton Rouge, La., received Bellarmine College's Alumni Pride Award for 1962 Saturday.

Ellert, 30, was an honor graduate of Bellarmine's first graduating class in 1954. He received his doctor's degree from the University of Louisville.

The Bellarmine award is given annually to the alumnus "who exemplifies the great Christian traditions of dignity and honor . . . and who is realizing in his life and work the spirit of 'love of truth.' "

CHECK PRESENTED

Fraternity Backs Givers Campaign

Zeta Chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon, national sales and marketing fraternity at Northeast State College, has voted unanimously to support the United Givers Fund campaign and to express its concern for the lagging drive.

The UGF Campaign is $14,900 short of its goal of $251,498.

Saturday, the fraternity officers presented a check representing their Fair Share gift to the UGF campaign. In making the donation to James W. Moore, campaign division chairman, Chapter President Robert Calvert emphasized the objectives of the professional fraternity, "To promote selling and marketing on the campus and in the community and to provide service to the community."

At the same time, the service fraternity expressed its alarm that the drive was not over the top. The fraternity, noticing how close the UGF is to reaching its goal, discussed the matter with campaign officials. They learned that there are still many businesses that have not responded to the drive.

Members of the chapter are all students at Northeast, majoring in sales and marketing. The Chapter showed its concern that more businesses were not participating in the community-wide United effort, and voted to contribute their Fair Share. Indirectly, the students issued a challenge to businesses which have not responded with their gifts to this year's drive.

Chapter Treasurer Harold Ikerd stated, "I think that if every citizen would visit the children's clinics and the agencies receiving support through the United Givers Fund, he couldn't help but feel touched as I was by the need and the good that the agencies are doing. All of the agencies need the support of every person in Ouachita Parish."

Preston Rudisill, sergeant at - arms, said, "Many of us have experienced the benefits of the youth agencies, such as the Boy Scouts, the Y and the Boys Club."

A majority of the fraternity members, it was pointed out, are working their way through college, many of them aiding businesses with their services. The Chapter felt that if the individual members could support the drive in their small way, professional businessmen could also.

In accepting the gift on behalf of the United Givers Fund, Mr. Moore praised the spirit of Pi Sigma Epsilon and urged the community to respond to this challenge by putting the drive over the top.

Fire In Orleans Fatal To Three

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three Negro children burned to death Saturday night in a fire which swept through an apartment.

The dead were Anna Jenkins, 7; Gloria Jenkins, 2; and David Jenkins, 1.

The mother, Jacqueline Jenkins, 25, and her other three children were hospitalized for observation of possible injuries and smoke inhalation.

Police said Cedrick Smith saved at least two children from the blazing apartment.

NO 2 BASTROP WOMAN AG

BASTROP (Special) — A Bastrop housewife and one of her four children were injured in an auto crash about one mile east of here late Saturday. Three other children in the car with her at the time were uninjured.

Extent of injuries to Mrs. Leonard Crenshaw and her five - year-old daughter Alice, were not known Saturday night.

The Negro driver of the other car was taken to a Bastrop hospital with injuries believed to be serious.

Officers investigating the accident, which occurred on the Bastrop - Mer Rouge highway, said that Mrs. Crenshaw had slowed to make a left turn when a car driven by Robert Young, 25, Negro, attempted to pass and sideswiped the Crenshaw vehicle.

Officers said the Crenshaw car turned completely over and ended right - side - up.

Investigation was incomplete Saturday night and no charges had been filed.

The Crenshaws were picked up by Gay's ambulance and treated and then transferred to a Monroe hospital. Mrs. Crenshaw reportedly had broken ribs, a severely cut foot and possible back injuries. The child apparently did not suffer serious injury.

Birch Society Criticizes U.S. Foreign Policy

NEW YORK (AP)—The John Birch Society criticized Saturday "inconsistent and dangerous" foreign policies of the United States. It called for impeachment of "those American officials found responsible," but named none.

The society's national council, meeting on the fourth anniversary of the founding of the society, unanimously adopted a resolution that Congress make "a complete investigation of the foreign policy of the United States vis-a-vis communism."

A council spokesman, L. E. Bunker, of Boston, Mass., said it accused the government of guaranteeing Cuba immunity from attack, based on "apparently unverifiable conditions;" arming the "Communist - supported" central Congo government to force Katanga Province to join it, and arming India to fight Communist China "while we continue to forbid Chiang Kai-shek to invade the Red Chinese mainland."

Bunker said the society's founder and director, Robert Welch, of Belmont, Mass., presided at the meeting of 20 council members.

BARNETT GETS CITATION

Stennis Says U.S. Acts Not All Bad

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis told a meeting attended by Gov. Ross Barnett and Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker Saturday that the federal government is not all bad.

Barnett and Walker, two severe critics of the government, showed up at the meeting of "Patriotic American Youth," a conservative group.

Barnett received a citiation for his leadership, then left to keep another appointment before Stennis spoke.

Walker, who has been conferring with an attorney in Jackson this week, did not speak nor was he introduced to the crowd of about 50 students and as many adults.

Stennis, the meeting's main speaker, said he recently received a letter from a Mississippi student "who said he has heard nothing but bad things about our government and wanted to know if there was anything good about it."

"There's plenty good about it," Stennis said. "Americans still have freedoms. We have freedom to choose our leaders. The political power is still with the people."

Stennis agreed with Barnett and several other speakers who preceded him that the government is becoming too big and powerful.

But in illustrating big government he cited the Agriculture Department's growth and said Mississippi has enjoyed benefits from it. He also said a powerful government is needed to handle the nation's foreign affairs. "The trouble," he said, "is that this incresed power has spilled over into domestic affairs, too."

Stennis, saying "youth can lead us to a greater America," suggested three changes that young people should work toward: A tougher foreign policy, electoral collete reforms and another method of selecting federal judges.

Doomed Dog Enjoys Life In New Home

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Ricky is just a dog in a warm, friendly place where things come easy.

His life is in the hands of the U.S. Supreme Court, but where he is the ground beef is tasty and the living is good.

The Giles County German shepherd, sentenced to die for sheep killing in 1960, has been sent away "for his own protection" by his owners.

Mr. and Mrs. James Laing, of Pearisburg, agreed last week to let the Roanoke Times visit Ricky. There were provisions — no location, not even a state, would be published, and Rocky's temporary owners wouldn't be named.

The Times agreed, following directions and found Ricky — 100 pounds of him—in good shape, in good hands and having a good time.

He came to his new home in August, and now has the run of the house — along with two Siamese cats, a poodle and a tank of tropical fish.

Nobody around has firmly guessed that the big, playful German shepherd is the same dog who stirred the national heart with his predicament.

His case has gone from Giles County Court to Giles County Circuit Court, the State Supreme Court of Appeals and two weeks ago arrived in the highest court in the nation.

Lawyers call the action before the Supreme Court a plea for a writ of certiorari. If granted, it could stay Ricky's death sentence.

Back in Pearisburg, the Laings reported they are still getting letters from all over the country—one of them from an Indiana dentist who said he was sure Ricky wasn't a sheep killer.

The Laings said they wouldn't go along to see Ricky. He'd want to come back with them, they said, and things are tough enough as they are.

They still maintain Ricky was merely guarding the carcass of a sheep that other dogs had killed back in February 1960. They claim that's what he had been trained for—guard duty.

Ricky will stay in his secret location while the legal battle continues.

NATO Seeks To End Rifts

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and its North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) partners meet here next week to patch a series of rifts that suddenly have threatened the alliance's unity.

They will meet in the NATO Ministerial Council Dec. 13-15 and in a number of side conferences in an atmosphere heavy with disagreements, angry recriminations and bickering.

The United States believes the European NATO members are not pulling their weight. It wants them to increase their lagging defense spending and to step up their conventional forces in Europe.

The Europeans are suspicious the United States wants to keep the entire Western nuclear deterrent in its own hands.

The United States is ready, although reluctantly, to help the Europeans create a European nuclear striking force inside NATO. But the Europeans are split among themselves over this.

France wants to push ahead with its go-it-alone program for an independent French nuclear force. West Germany wants a NATO nuclear force. Few European NATO countries appear ready to put up the money which a NATO nuclear force would cost.

Great Britain is alarmed and angered by United States threats to halt the Skybolt missile program on which the British A-bomber force depends.

The British government and press still are seething over charges by former U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson that Britain's "attempt to play a separate power role is about played out."

Britain is disturbed, too, over continued deadlock in the Brussels negotiations on its entry into the European Common Market. Britain blames French intransigence for blocking agreement.

Most of these issues probably will not come up for discussion at the actual NATO council table. But they certainly will be threshed out at the private meetings between ministers on the fringes of the council session.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrives here Tuesday and is scheduled to meet British Foreign Secretary Lord Home the same afternoon or evening.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara will meet simultaneously in London with British Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft for a first go-around on the Skybolt dispute.

WOUNDED GIVEN AID

Sergeant Defied Civil War Death

By J. W. DAVIS

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) —One hundred years ago next week, in zero weather, Union and Confederate armies locked at the battle of Fredericksburg.

In a war noted for terrible battles, Fredericksburg was one of the bloodiest. The reason was plain: the Confederates under Gen. Robert E. Lee were in an impregnable position but the Federals under Gen. Ambrose Burnside attacked anyhow—six heroic, hopeless times.

That battle, Dec. 11-14, 1862, will be commemorated here in a ceremony Dec. 12. The emphasis will not be on Lee or Burnside. The honors will go to Richard Kirkland, a 19-year-old Confederate sergeant who dared death to carry water across the firing line to wounded, suffering Union soldiers.

Union Gen. Darius N. Couch climbed the steeple of the Fredericksburg Court House to look over the open, almost unprotected field of battle.

Gen. Oliver O. Howard heard him cry out: "Oh, great God! See how our men, our poor fellows, are falling!"

They were falling before a raking artillery fire from Marye's Heights, Confederate strong point behind the town, and from fierce infantry fire from the Sunken Road at the foot of the heights.

Sgt. Kirkland's story is newly told in a booklet by Dr. Richard Nunn Lanier of Fredericksburg, executive director of the Richard Kirkland Memorial Foundation.

Lanier, whose old colonial home is a battlefield landmark, shows Kirkland to have been a kindly disposed, religious young man with gentle manners, tall and thin, brown-eyed with dark hair and a trim mustache.

The piteous cries of the wounded Yankees beyond the wall of the Sunken Road stirred Dick Kirkland. Kirkland went to his commanding general, Maj. Gen. J. B. Kershaw.

"General," Kirkland said, saluting, "I can't stand it any longer. I want your permission to go and give those poor men out there some water."

Gen. Kershaw: "Kirkland, don't you know you would get a bullet through your head the moment you stepped over that wall?"

"Yes sir. But if you will let me go, I am willing to try it."

Kershaw paused, then said: "Kirkland, I ought not to allow you to run such a risk, but the sentiment which actuates you is so noble that I will not refuse your request."

Kirkland quickly gathered all canteens he could carry, plus two buckets, filled them from a well, and without rifle, sidearms or white flag, went over the top of the wall.

His sudden appearance, oddly festooned with the canteens, surprised those Federals who were keeping up a steady fire and surprise may have been what saved his life as he ran to the nearest wounded. Anyhow, not a shot was fired.

Kirkland used up all his water supply, climbed back over the wall for more. The firing resumed. He appeared again with more canteens. The firing stopped.

For an hour and a half he went back and forth on the battlefield. Dr. Lanier credits him with saving "many a life."

The war moved on to Gettysburg where Kirkland earned promotion to lieutenant, and to Chickamauga, where he was killed, shot through the heart.

Police Warning In Vain; 2 Die

ATHENS, Tenn. (UPI) — Two men, cautioned to slow down, were killed early Saturday when their car spun out of control on a curve, overturned several times and sheared off a power pole.

State troopers identified the victims as Roger Newberry, 22, and Fred Hitson, about 22, both of Cleveland, Tenn.

The accident happened about five miles south of here on icy slick U. S. 11. Officers said they had stopped the car minutes before the wreck and warned the men of excessive speed.

WITH OX-DRAWN WAGON

Local Farmers Protest U.S. Agriculture Policy

Two Monroe area cotton farmers will enter Atlanta, Ga., today in an ox drawn wagon to dramatize their protest against the cotton pricing policies of U. S. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman.

They are Paul Ransom and Fred Hunefeld Jr., who farm in the center of the state's cotton growing area. They will be among 15 farm leaders from Ouachita Parish who will attend the American Farm Bureau Federation conventions in Atlanta December 9-13.

Ransom and Huenefeld said the patched up wagon will be arrayed with signs stating such things as "Farming on the New Frontier," "Freeman's Folly," and "Cotton Si-Sec. Freeman No."

They said the purpose of the demonstration is to dramatize the need for more competitive prices for cotton which would permit an increase in acreage. Secretary Freeman ordered a 12 per cent reduction in the 1963 cotton allotment on October 15.

Huenefeld said the name of the ox which will draw the wagon is "Black Monday."

He said the largest attendance from Louisiana at a national Farm Bureau meeting is expected. The bureau has 1,600,000 members in 49 states.

Huenefeld is parish information chairman for the convention and a member of the Parish Bureau's state cotton committe and Ransom is second vice president of the Louisiana Farm Bureau. Among others planning to attend from Ouachita Parish include Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Anderson, and Fred Laing. Bruce Lynn of Shreveport will also accompany the group.

Among major speakers at the five - day event will be Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Sen Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky and AFBF President Charles B Shuman.

At the meeting the Bureau will adopt policies for the coming year.

PINES DESTROYED

Malicious Damage Case Under Probe

A malicious case of damage to city property in which 37 young pine saplings were either broken down or critically damaged on a city street boulevard is under investigation by Monroe police.

Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly said the young trees were damaged on the bouelvard on Spencer Avenue located in the north section of town. His department said the damage was done by someone driving on top of the boulevard, starting in the 1800 block through the 2400 block, smashing the young trees as they went.

The incident was first discovered and reported by residents in the area, and Kelly said the police department received a number of calls about the damage.

In other action, the Monroe department were investigating the theft of a southside resident's motor scooter, and booked a woman for theft in a shoplifting case.

Mrs. Johnny Morgan, 2903 Gordon Ave., told police her son's All - State motor scooter, red and grey, was stolen from their garage sometime after 9 p.m. Friday. The motor scooter bears 1962 license no. MC4863.

Booked on a theft charge relating to a shoplifting incident at Kroger's store, Louisville Avenue, was Ruby Barr Cook, 44, of 1508 S. 8th St., Monroe. She allegedly took merchandise valued at less than $1.50 ranging from dye to headache tablets. The woman was released under a $350 bond.

West Monroe authorities booked a Monroe Negro for theft Saturday. Freddie Armstrong, 29, of 613 Short St., was booked for theft of a rain suit taken sometime during the past 10 days from an employee at a lumber company. West Monroe officers also booked a 26-year-old Monroe man on counts of aggravated assault and disturbing the peace by public drunkenness.

Thomas E. Fletcher, 26, of 321 Egan St., was booked at 2:10 a.m. after being taken into custody at Cindy's Drive - In, 2208 Cypress St., West Monroe. Fletcher allegedly drew a pocket-knife on three other cafe patrons, and according to one of them, tried to hit one with a beverage bottle. He was held under a $400 bond.

West Monroe police also booked one man on two traffic counts Friday night that included driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. Ben E. Drummond, 30, of Athens, Tex., was apprehended on Cypress Street and booked at 10:20 p.m. Friday for DWI and no driver's license. He was held under bonds totaling $450.

Late Saturday, Monroe police were investigating the theft of a number of articles of clothing, taken from a car parked at Gibson's Wholesale on Louisville Avenue.

Monroe police also filed charges of following too close in traffic against a Winnsboro man, Luther R. Copeland, 21, after he was involved in a three - car collision on DeSiard Street late Saturday afternoon. Copeland, and a Negro woman, Violet Lewis, 67, of Bastrop, were both given emergency treatment at St. Francis hospital where they were rushed from the scene by Mulhearn and Hixson ambulances.

Investigating officers said that all cars involved were traveling west on DeSiard Street — one driven in front by John Mayes, 20, 4012½ DeSiard St., Monroe; one following Mayes driven by Negro, Eules Lewis, 61, of Bastrop, the car in which the Negro woman was riding; and the one driven by Copeland. Copeland collided with the Lewis car, which was knocked into the Mayes vehicle and then on past the Mayes automobile. Copeland then crashed on into the rear of the Mayes car. He told officers his brakes failed.

Reported resting well well at the St. Francis hospital was a young Monroe youth — John Goyne, who sustained a wound in his right arm when he was accidentally shot while hunting near Columbia Saturday.

Miss Carr Dies; Services Pend

Miss Flora Thelma Carr, 311 Rochelle Ave., Monroe, died Saturday night in a local hospital after an illness of several hours.

Funeral arrangements for Miss Carr, who was a clerk at the Ouachita Parish Health Department, are incomplete, but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

M. L. Coleman, 75, Succumbs; Services Today

Martin Leroy Coleman Sr., 75 - year - old Monroe resident, died Saturday afternoon in a local hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Coleman, a concrete contractor, made his residence at South Third and Winnsboro Road.

Funeral services will be conducted at the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home at 2:30 p.m. today with the Rev. James Edwards, pastor of Parkview Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will follow in Memorial Park Cemetery under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home.

Mr. Coleman is survived by one son, Martin L. Coleman Jr., Monroe; one daughter, Mrs. Perry Maupin, Monroe; four grandchildren.

Serving as pallbearers will be Jack Butitta, H. L. Abbott, R. C. Cudd Jr., H. W. Chapman, Elmer Johns and Carl Wayne Jacobs.

Richardson Rites Are Set Today; Died On Friday

SICILY ISLAND (Special) — Mrs. Lauranda Richardson, 86 - year - old Sicily Island resident, died at the home of her daughter there Friday night after a long illness. Mrs. Richardson has one daughter living in West Monroe.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Sunday in the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home in Monroe with the Rev. W. T. Hemphill officiating. Burial will be in Hasley Cemetery in West Monroe under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral.

Survivors include her son, Alford Richardson, Sicily Island; five daughters, Mrs. Susie Gober and Mrs. Palestine Ellerbe, both Sicily Island; Mrs. Lenoa Sikes, Swartz, Mrs. Mary Smith, Jena, and Mrs. Janey Ellerbe, West Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Robert Ola, Alfred Ola, Barney Brooks, John L. Duncan, C. W. Pauley and Douglas Bumpurs.

Body Of Youth Found In Lake

GREENVILLE, Miss. (UPI)— Searchers Saturday recovered the body of oodrow Henderson, 16, body of Woodrow Henderson, 16, who drowned Nov. 24 in Lake Lee south of here while on a fishing trip with his step-father.

The father, McClain Hood, 45, also drowned, and his body was found Friday morning. The finding of the first body renewed dragging operations for the boy.

Coroner Bob Gookin ruled that both drowned accidentally. Their boat was found Nov. 24 after they failed to return home from the fishing trip.

Farm Bureau To Adopt '63 Policies At Atlanta Session

ATLANTA (UPI)—The American Farm bureau Federation (AFBF), the nation's biggest farm organization, will open its 44th national convention here Monday to shape basic policies for 1963.

Voting delegates were scheduled to debate policy stands on government programs for cotton, wheat, feed grains, and dairy products, among others.

Sharp discussion was expected on some issues, especially on proposals aimed at making cotton more competitive with synthetic fibers. But on a general basis, a federation spokesman said, there were no indications the farm group would swing away from its past policy of favoring reduced government intervention in agriculture. This stand has kept the AFBF in sharp conflict with the Kennedy Administration on most major farm policy issues.

The spokesman said there also appeared to be growing interest in strengthening the AFBF's new venture in farmer - controlled Marketing association. The association, voted into existence by the last AFBF convention, is designed to serve as a bargaining agency for farmers in selling their crops. So far, it has operated on a relatively small scale, dealing mostly with fruits and vegetables.

Proposed policy resolutions for consideration by voting convention delegates from 49 states and Puerto Rico were drafted here this week in pre-convention sessions of the AFBF resolutions committee, working with reports from state meetings. The committee includes state farm bureau presidents and leaders of the farm bureau's womens' and youth groups.

Charles B. Shuman, an Illinois farmer who has been president of the AFBF since late 1954, was scheduled to make his annual convention address at a general convention session Monday. Shuman's current two-year term as AFBF president uns through 1963.

The organization, made up of state units in all states except Alaska, lists about 1.6 million farm families as members. New membership figures are expected to show some gain over a year ago, a spokesman reported.

Major issues facing the AFBF convention include:

Cotton: What steps should be taken to keep cotton from losing markets to synthetics, to help domestic textile mills fight foreign competition, and to expand cotton planting allotments which are due to drop to record - low levels in 1963?

Wheat and feed grains: should the AFBF lead a campaign to persuade growers to reject the administration - sponsored wheat control program in a referendum scheduled next year? What price support policies and surplus-control devices for grains should be recommended.

State Republican Leader Affirms Policy Of GOP

WASHINGTON (Special) — Thomas C. Hall, Louisiana Republican State Chairman, attending meetings for the Republican National Committee and of State Chairmen, Saturday released a pledge of full expression on all of the party's conservative position.

"It is my thought that the members of the Republican Party in the South will stand very close together in 1964," Hail said. "We are basically a conservative group interested in the maintenance of constitutional principles and government."

In closing he added, "We know that our position in our state will be much stronger by 1964, and our strength lies in our willingness to remain consistent with our publicly stated platform. In this regard, I dedicate my effort in the Republican Party to full expression before all Republican meetings pending through 1963-64 to a development of an expansion of our own conservative position."

DESPITE PRESSURE

British To Keep Vital Aden Base

ADEN (UPI) — Britain does not intend to move out of her strategic military base in Aden, on the southwest tip of the Arabian Peninsula, no matter how strong nationalist pressures may become.

This is the assurance being given here by reliable sources, both civil and military, who are in a position to know the thinking of the British government on this matter.

"This is one place we simply cannot afford to leave," one top civil official told United Press International.

Recalling the Kuwait crisis of last year, when Iraq's Brigadier Abdel Karim Kassem threatened to seize the oil-rich territory just north of here, the official said:

"Without Aden it might have been impossible for us to move troops quickly into Kuwait in order to head off Kassem's threats. Without the Aden base our whole political and military position in the Persian Gulf would be critically undermined.

"Any such undermining could seriously threaten our oil supplies from the Gulf, and these are a major factor in maintaining strength in the world financial market.

"Therefore, as you can see, we have in fact no option but to remain here—no matter how loudly the local nationalists may scream at us."

Officials hinted strongly that Britain's determination to remain in power here has been discussed with the U.S. government, and that assurances of U.S. diplomatic support have been given in the event of some future crises.

The civil official recalled the visit to Washington earlier this year of British Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft for talks with U.S. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

"In a statement at that time, McNamara expressed the strong hope that Britain would not even consider any reduction in the strength of her bases east of Suez, so you can draw your own conclusions as to the nature of the Thorneycroft- McNamara discussions," the official said.

A British white paper on defense said that Britain would need a military base in Aden until 1970. But officials here, when queried on this, were quick to stress that this did not mean that after 1970 the base would be less vital.

"That is merely a cut-off date for the white paper, not for the base, and this will undoubtedly be reflected in future white papers," said one official.

He insisted that a quick look at the map would show the need for Britain to maintain its Aden base.

"With even so-called friendly nations becoming more and more difficult about granting us the right to fly over their territory when we want to move troops down to the Persian Gulf, without Aden we could well find ourselves in a position where it would be impossible for us to take any action at all in the area."

3 BILLION YEARS OLD

First Known Life On Earth Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence that there was life on earth nearly three billion years ago—almost two billion years earlier than previously estimated—was reported Saturday by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The evidence suggests the living things consisted of one-celled green plants called algae—primitive ancestors of those still commonly found as scum on mill ponds. These are the same type plants which might some day be used to furnish food and oxygen for astronauts on long voyages in space.

Dr. Caryl P. Haskins of Carnegie told about it in the institution's annual report. He credited the achievement to Dr. T. C. Hoering of the institute's geophysical laboratory.

Hoering came up with the evidence during a study of ancient rocks, including some limestone from Southern Rhodesia estimated to be at least 2.474 billion years old. This and other age estimates are based on the recently evolved radioactive dating methods.

Hoering used delicate techniques to measure the amounts of different isotopic forms of carbon found in the rocks. And he found clues indicating that algae, which contain carbon, were living at the time the rocks solidified.

Hoering told a reporter that recent previous estimates of the length of time primitive life has existed on the earth ranged only from 500 million to a billion years.

Evidence of algae was found also in some younger rocks, including limestone from Glacier Park, Mont., with a minimum age of 1.2 billion years; and dolomite from Crystal Falls, Mich. with a minimum age of 1.5 billion years.

In the same Carnegie laboratory, researchers Philip H. Abelson and P. L. Parker, found in 500-million-year-old rocks evidence of "fatty acids"—chemicals which are among those characteristic of life in higher forms which developed later.

Their findings marked the oldest known occurrence of these substances Haskins said.

Humane Group For Ouachita Will Organize

A humane society will be organized in Ouachita Parish next week, according to an announcement by Mrs. Mary Edwards, of 1716 S. 9th St. in Monroe.

Mrs. Edwards said the Humane Society of Ouachita Parish will be organized at a meeting of her home Thursday night at 7 p.m. Any interested persons were invited to attend the organizational meeting.

She said that the organization will not be completed in time to sponsor an active program until sometime in 1963. She explained that necessary funds would have to be raised and organization completed before the group would be in position to render the usual services of a humane society.

One of the chief purposes of the society will be to prevent cruelty to animals, find homes for abandons and in general lookout for the welfare of animals.

POPE CITES GOALS

Vatican Council To Take Recess

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, pale and weary, closed the first phase of his Ecumenical Council Saturday and expressed strong hope it could end its work a year from now.

His words to the 2,200 council fathers — cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops, bishops and abbots from around the world—were clear notice that the assembly's nine-month recess would not be a rest period.

"There is much yet to be done. A heavy responsibility rests upon your shoulders," the pontiff told the delegates. He added that his talk was intended "to stir up your enthusiasm."

The prelates were in session for the last time until next Sept. 8. They did no council work but assembled in St. Peter's for a solemn Pontifical Mass that closed the council's first phase.

Pope John walked into the church after the Mass. The 81-year-old pontiff has been fighting a stomach ailment, possibly an ulcer, and severe anemia for two weeks. He looked wan and his usually slow steps were even slower as he mounted his throne.

But his voice was firm. Speaking Latin, he told the prelates the council had made a good beginning since it opened Oct. 11. He said the pace of work was necessarily slow at the start and that there was "good reason for sharply divergent views" as the council fathers became acquainted.

Then he told them what he wanted done during the recess: a restudy of proposals by the council commissions, a restudy he expects to speed up the council's work.

For the first time, he mentioned a target date—Christmas 1963—for the council's conclusion. Many had expected it to last for years.

And he told the prelates their work would not end with the council. When it is finished, he said, there will remain the most important phase of emplementing its decrees, "preaching sound doctrine and applying the laws."

He indicated anew his anticipation that the council would be beneficial to the cause for Christian unity. He referred to "hopes for our brethren who treasure the name of Christian."

In a red-draped tribunal near the Pope were diplomats assigned to the Vatican, Italian princes and nobility, and papal guards of honor with swords and flowing medieval capes. The 40 non-Catholic observers who have attended the council sessions day after day sat nearest the Pope in a long row close to the cardinals.

Pope John called the initial two-month period of the council "a low and solemn introduction to the great work." He said it was understandable that there was not immediate agreement among the bishops because it was necessary for them first to "make each other's closer acquaintance (and) look at each other squarely in order to understand each other's heart."

About the recess now starting, Pope John said:

"Today's celebration does not bring the work to an end. The council really remains open during the next nine months of suspension of the ecumenical sessions, properly so-called."

The Pope already has ordered the council commissions to rework all proposals during the recess, boiling down 70 theses into 20 general headings.

Terry Services Are Set Today At Area Church

BASTROP (Special) — Retired Bastrop merchant William Everett Terry, 72, died here Saturday morning following a long illness.

Mr. Terry, an elder in the First Presbyterian Church, had lived in Morehouse Parish 18 years and was a native of Texas.

Funeral services will be held 3 p.m. today at the First Presbyterian Church here with the Rev. Robert Newcomb and the Rev. Lloyd O'Neal officiating.

Interment will be in Morehouse Memorial Park Cemetery under direction of Blackwell-Golden Funeral Home.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ava Hester Terry of Bastrop; two daughters, Mrs. Pauline Turner of Homer and Mrs. Ava Dean Noble of Houma; a brother, Hunt Terry of Texahoma, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Rosa Coston of Dallas, Mrs. Dora Jowers of Austin, Tex., and Mrs. Olive Key of Lamesa, Tex.; seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

"THE MESSIAH" will be presented this afternoon at 3 o'clock by a college-community choir in Brown Auditorium at Northeast Louisiana State College. The 80-voice Northeast choir and approximately 40 singers from church choirs in Monroe and West Monroe will combine to form the "Messiah" chorus. Prof. Davis B. Bingham will direct the group. The public is invited. Featured will be, from left, Ronnie Brothers of Monroe as accompanist, and soloists Mike DeShong of Jacksonville, Fla.; Evelyn Cruse O'Connor and Jennie Clare Carroll, both of Monroe; Myra McComb Porter of Bastrop; Charlotte Salley of Monroe; and Sonny McClung of Jackson, Miss.

Shooting Death Ruled Suicide

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie Mae Vaughan, 42, of Bellaire, near Houston, and long time resident of Corpus Christi, will be held in St. Mark's Episcopal Church here Monday. Burial will be in the family plot at the Vanderpool, Texas, cemetery.

Mrs. Vaughan was shot in the right temple Friday afternoon with a high-powered deer rifle. Bexar County medical examiner Dr. Robert Hausman returned a verdict of suicide.

Mrs. Vaughan was the wife of Harry D. Vaughan, well-known south Texas independent oil operator. Her own family, the Guidroz Moutons, reside in Lafayette, La.

She is survived by her husband and a daughter, Elsa Louise of Bellaire.

6 Guard Divisions Due High Priority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army has selected six National Guard divisions in the East, South and Midwest for high-priority civilian ratings which would mean they could be in combat within eight weeks after getting orders, it was learned Saturday.

The top-rated divisions are in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, North Carolina, Tennessee and Minnesota.

Fifteen others are to get low priorities; two will be in a special category, and four are to be "realigned" into brigades.

A final announcement is to await the state governors' consideration of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's massive Guard and reserve reorganization plan. But, with one possible change, advance planning has been heavily weighted in favor of these selections now scheduled.

The two divisions that were called up for the Berlin crisis last year, from Wisconsin and Texas, have been definitely ruled out of the top-priority bracket. They were unable to recruit effectively during their 11 months of active duty, and are now well below their usual manpower strength.

The divisions scheduled for selection are:

The 26th Infantry of Massachusetts, commanded by Maj. Gen. Otis M. Whitney of Boston.

The 28th Infantry of Pennsylvania, commanded by Maj. Gen. Henry K. Fluck of Harrisburg.

The 50th Armored of New Jersey, commanded by Maj. Gen. Edward O. Wolf of Glen Ridge and East Orange.

The 30th Infantry of North Carolina, commanded by Maj. Gen. Weston H. Willis of Jacksonville.

The 47th Infantry of Minnesota, commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert P. Miller of St. Paul.

The 30th Armored of Tennessee, commanded by Maj. Gen. Clarence Johnson Jr., of Chattanooga.

In announcing his reorganization plans last Tuesday, McNamara said the six high-priority divisions around which the civilian forces will be built will be self-sufficient and capable of deployment in eight weeks.

"To assure an advanced degree of combat readiness, the personnel strength of these high-priority forces will be raised to 75-80 per cent of full war strength" (about 12,000 men each), a substantial increase, he said.

The outfits in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania were alerted but not called for the 1961 Berlin crisis. They will get much additional equipment, but these states will get no significant increase in guard manpower strength.

Mrs. Gulley, 72, Succumbs; Rites Are Set Today

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Funeral services for Mrs. Fred Gulley, 72, resident of Monroe, will be held today at Bird's Chapel Methodist Church near here today at 2 p.m. conducted by the Rev. N. D. Pearce, assisted by the Rev. L. W. Taylor.

Interment, under direction of Kilpatrick's Funeral Home of Farmerville, will follow in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Gulley died Friday night at the Riverside Nursing Home in Monroe, following a long illness.

Survivors include her husband, Fred Gulley of Monroe; three sons, Eugene Gulley and F. D. Gulley Jr., both of Sterlington, and Charles Gulley of Oakland; one brother, Luther Roach of Goldwaite, Tex.; two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Swift of Dallas, and Mrs. Alice Seale of Lampasas, Tex.; 10 grandchildren and four great - grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Ollie Phillips, T. W. Auger, Firmy Taylor, Ben Nale, Tom Maroney and Will Perkins.

South Viet Nam Forces Report 18 Reds Slain

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —South Viet Nam claimed Saturday its forces killed 18 Viet Cong and captured 44 others in the first three days of a new operation in the deep south.

The operation, in an Xuyen Province, is aimed at opening vital navigation canals so that barges loaded with fuel charcoal can travel to Saigon. Government forces are reported to have encountered fairly heavy resistance at least at one point Friday, but casualties were believed light.

Air force planes and rocket-firing U.S. Army helicopters hit several Viet Cong bases, sank some enemy sampans and killed a number of guerrillas.

Four U.S. Army planes crashed in various parts of South Viet Nam during the day, but no injuries were reported in any of the incidents.

Found Wallet Produces Tears Of Sheer Joy

A Delhi Negro woman, Bessie Mae Bailey, shed tears of joy Saturday after losing her billfold containing her Christmas money and recovering it here.

According to Monroe police, an officer on duty in the downtown section found a red - leather, wallet containing around $31 at the intersection of Jackson and DeSiard Streets. He took the wallet to the station around 1:40 p.m.

Shortly before 2:30 p.m., the Negro woman came to the police department to report her billfold lost. Officers on duty said the woman stated the wallet contained Christmas shopping money and that she had a number of children. She cried when police officers produced the wallet.

Soviets May Be Told Of Cuban Crisis

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Supreme Soviet, the nation's parliament, opens an annual year-end meeting here Monday that may be the forum for Premier Nikita Khrushchev's first report to the country on the Cuban crisis.

The 1,443 deputies, drawn from all over the Soviet Union, also 1963 budget and economic plan and possibly make formal a number of secondary level government job changes.

But top interest at the Kremlin gathering, expected to last about a week, will be centered on the which should cover Cuba, Berlin and possibly outline the Soviet stand on the Sino-Indian border dispute.

If Khrushchev, as he often does, addresses the Supreme Soviet session, he would be expected to cover all these points, as well as internal questions, in his report.

But the Premier's address is not required, and the Cuban question and other matters could be covered by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Khrushchev is reported to have discussed the Cuban crisis at length in a closed-door meeting of the Communist Party's powerful Central Committee here late last month.

But so far he has not given what could be considered an official report to the people.

Western observers also will be watching the Supreme Soviet's windup session of the year for an indication of whether the Kremlin's leaders plan to increase their emphasis on either guns or butter in 1963.

Habitually the nation's budget each year represents a record for peacetime spending. And almost always there are increases in outlays for the military and science programs, which include space research.

Soviet top officials have already said that more funds will be pumped next year into the nation's civilian sector, particularly the lagging agricultural program. But there have been no firm indications whether any of the necessary money will be drained from military of space spending.

THE SALVATION ARMY'S Christmas Kettle drive gets a healthy send-off this year with Ouachita Parish Sheriff Bailey Grant dropping a $20 bill in one of the several kettles located in the Twin Cities. The drive, conducted annually to finance Christmas cheer for needy families, got underway Saturday. In the picture, left to right, are: Salvation Army Commander Capt. W. E. Grantham; Sheriff Grant; Mrs. Grantham, and Johnette Osborn, a member of the West Monroe Rebelettes, one of several groups assisting this year's campaign. (Staff Photo by John Fogleman)

Small Town Defying U.S.

MOUND CITY, S.D. (AP)—If you blinked at the wrong time, you could drive through town and never know you've been here.

Mound City is that small.

But in recent days, this tiny north-central South Dakota farming community of about 150 people has put itself on the map—by tweaking Uncle Sam's nose.

And Uncle is unhappy about it. Almost downright angry.

The fight between Mound City, named after Indian mounds located in the area, and the federal government is over refusal of this town to release records belonging to the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The federal government wants the records moved to the new Campbell County ASCS office located at Herreid, Mound City's larger (population 767) and more prosperous neighbor about nine miles north.

Mound Citians are fighting to keep the ASCS office in Mound City, refuse to release the records.

The government last week threatened to send in U.S. marshals to retrieve the records. The people of Mound City said they would meet force with force.

The threatened invasion by marshals, however, produced only scores of newsmen and television cameras.

An uneasy truce now prevails as efforts continue to settle the matter peaceably.

Two attempts to move the ASCS records out of Mound City earlier this year met determined resistance.

The first time, Mound City women sat down on the office desks so movers couldn't get them.

The second time, the State ASCS Committee sent a pickup truck here early in the morning before the office opened and loaded part of the records. Before the job could be completed, however, someone blew the town fire whistle and the truck sped away.

Since then, the front of the ASCS office has been sandbagged to prevent entry.

Winn Parish Benefits By Timber Sales

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Winn Parish treasury is $38,817.77 better off by receiving its portion of timber sale receipts for the past fiscal year from the 591,409 acre Kisatchie National Forest, Winn Ranger George Tannehill revealed.

This year's Winn allotment is $30,000 below the record high of $69,248.54 distributed to Winn in 1961. Wet weather which slowed down logging and lower stumpage prices were prime causes of the drastic decline in Kisatchie timber sales, according to Tannehill, who added that timber is being grown faster than it is being cut.

Winn Parish Police Jury and Winn School Board have shared equally in the $38,817.77 allotment, as in past years.

According to figures supplied by Ray Brandt, Kisatchie Forest supervisor, with headquarters in Alexandria, total receipts from Kisatchie forest operation was $831,495.56 for the past year.

Twenty-five per cent of the total, or $207,873.89, was distributed to seven parishes on the basis of the acreage each has in the Kisatchie forest, as follows:

Grant Parish, $48,864.03; Natchitoches, $44,579.73; Winn, $38,817.77; Rapides, $35,926.07; Vernon, $28,937.40; Claiborne, $6,675.48 and Webster, $4,273.44.

In 1961, total was $370,834.11. This unusually high figure was due in part to the fact that some log sales made in 1960 were not cut until 1961.

JFK Ends Nuclear Bases Tour At Nevada Test Site

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—President Kennedy, standing at America's space threshold, Saturday heard government scientists discuss the prospects of a one-year round trip to Mars aboard a nuclear powered spacecraft in the foreseeable future.

Kennedy's visit to the Area 400 Nevada test site where he watched dismantling of a "hot" radioactive reactor and discussed long-range space goals with scientists climaxed his two-day tour of air and atomic bases. It was the last stop before he flew here on the presidential jetliner for a weekend of rest at Bing Crosby's home near Palm Desert.

The President said during the course of his inspection that he was convinced America's progress in both military and peaceful application of atomic energy was so encouraging the county could afford the luxury of pride in its "extraordinary" might.

At the Nevada test site—some 60 miles from Las Vegas — the President watched with Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) Chairman Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg and Harold D. Baker, director of the space nuclear propulsion office as the nuclear engine—hot with radioactivity—was dismantled.

When he asked the scientists about future space probes, and specifically when this country would begin shooting for Mars, the President was not given a target date. But the scientists envisioned a one-year round trip to Mars, with American spacemen involved spending 40 days on the planet. First, however, there must be successful exploration of the moon, hoped for near the end of this decade.

Kennedy, whose busy schedule upon return to Washington includes a Monday conference with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, had made an overnight stop at Albuquerque, N. M. He started the day by attending Mass at the Kirtland Air Force Base Roman Catholic chapel. The day is a holy day of obligation in the Roman Catholic Church.

Immediately after the church service Kennedy flew to the Nevada test site where he watched dismantling of a reactor test fired for 260 seconds eight days ago.

On the helicopter flight from Indian Springs AFB, Nev., the President could see a 1,200 foot wide crater exploded in the desert floor as part of nuclear "Operation Plowshare" last July. The crater is 400 feet deep.

To give the President a chance to compare a large object to the opening, a bus and car were parked beside the crater as the chief executive's turbo-jet helicopter flew overhead.

The President, accompanied from Albuquerque to Indian Springs by the two Nevada Democratic senators, Alan Bible and Howard Cannon, watched from behind a six-foot thick protective panel of glass and liquid as the reactor was dismantled.

The reactor is being developed as the power plant for the first U. S. nuclear powered missile probes deep into space.

The Crosbys will not be present at their desert home, which the President used in March for another visit to the resort area. Crosby formerly had used it as a desert hideaway. It now is caught up in the Palm Springs-Palm Desert resort boom which extends some 20 miles east of downtown Palm Springs.

Group To Elect New Officers At Meeting Monday

Monroe Temple No. 1 — Pythian Sisters will hold its last meeting of 1962 on Monday at 8 p.m., in Castle Hall. Most excellent Chief Gertrude Burke said new officers for 1963 will be elected.

U.S. Officials Estimate Soviets Invested Billion Dollars In Cuba Gamble

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The educated guess in this capital is that the Soviet Union invested something more than the equivalent of a billion American dollars in the Cuban gamble which didn't pay off.

On the other hand, preliminary calculations—which officials agree are very rough and made while the duration of the crisis was uncertain—is that this country's cost might run about $100 million. This would be expenditure beyond the normal operating and maintenance costs of the Navy, Air Force, Marines and Army.

This estimate conceivably could be boosted as detailed tally is made of the vast scope of deployment and operation by ships, planes, men and weapons.

As an example, President Kennedy was told Friday at headquarters of the Strategic Air Command in Omaha, Neb., that SAC planes flew 20 million miles during the month in which massive airborne alert was maintained.

The estimate of a $1-billion cost to Russia is based essentially on the installation of Russian "hardware" and personnel in Cuba, without including such items as shipping costs and associated factors.

Included in equipment sent to Cuba were some of Russia's most modern weapons. Among them is the SA2 antiaircraft missile. Some U.S. experts believe that high-reaching missile is at least equal in performance to the United States' Nike-Hercules missile.

U.S. Officials Estimate Soviets Invested Billion Dollars In Cuba Gamble

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The educated guess in this capital is that the Soviet Union invested some thing more than the equivalent of a billion American dollars in the Cuban gamble which didn't pay off.

On the other hand, preliminary calculations—which officials agree are very rough and made while the the duration of the crisis was uncertain—is that this country's cost might run about $100 million. This would be expenditure beyond the normal operating and maintenance costs of the Navy, Air Force, Marines and Army.

This estimate conceivably could be boosted as detailed tally is made of the vast scope of deployment and operation by ships, planes, men and weapons.

As an example, President Kennedy was told Friday at headquarters of the Strategic Air Command in Omaha, Neb., that SAC planes flew 20 million miles during the month in which massive airborne alert was maintained.

The estimate of a $1-billion cost to Russia is based essentially on the installation of Russian "hardware" and personnel in Cuba, without including such items as shipping costs and associated factors.

Included in equipment sent to Cuba were some of Russia's most modern weapons. Among them is the SA2 antiaircraft missile. Some U.S. experts believe that high-reaching missile is at least equal in performance to the United States' Nike-Hercules missile.

Curtain Call

"Gigi" has played to crowded houses throughout the past week. If you have not seen it, we advise calling the box office at FAirfax 3-1235 after 1 p.m. to ask if any seats are left for today's matinee and evening performances.

When the house lights dim and the curtain goes up, audiences often applaud the opening set, but to the best of our memory, "Gigi" is the first to win a round of applause for the second set as well. The marble columns, gilt scroll work and pictorial panel compose a striking boodoir for which director Richard M. Clark and technical director Raymond Lucero deserve the hand they are getting.

QUICK CHANGE

Stage manager Walter Kotz somehow has his crew trained to change the two massive sets in less than 60 seconds flat. Even when you see it from the wings, it is hard to believe. James West of the stage crew is also the gendarme at the front door. Another crew member is Roy Holloway, a veteran of six acting roles between 1948 and 1953, who found himself pressed into service when he stepped into rehearsal for a casual visit.

We lack space to mention all the backstage workers, but we cannot overlook Janice Hattaway who was helping on last minute details almost up to the opening curtain nor June Sherman whose sewing kit was in frequent demand for costume repairs between scenes.

While the backstage crew derives its satisfaction from a job well done, it goes without saying that the actors are very sensitive to audience reaction. A gasp at a surprise development, a chuckle over an exchange of repartee, a roar of laughter at a punch line and, most gratifying of all, spontaneous applause after some particularly effective bit, are their reward for the long weeks of rehearsal. Fortunately we have appreciative and responsive audiences at Strauss Playhouse.

Monroe has an abundance of theatrical riches Monday night. In addition to the Northeast State Concerts Association presentation of "Carnival" at Neville, for which memberships are still available at the college, Grace Episcopal Church is offering a dramatization of Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil And Daniel Webster," at 8 p.m. at the church.

CRUEL SEA

Then on Tuesday night, Cinema 63 offers "The Cruel Sea," as the second in its series of eight exceptional films. There is still time to subscribe to the seven films remaining at $5 for adults and $2.50 for students by applying at the door at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Thereafter, the stage at Strauss Playhouse will be free for set construction and rehearsals for "Hansel and Gretel." Among the several sets is the witch's gingerbread house which Ray Lucero is designing as a real fairy tale dwelling to delight the children.

We are indebted to the Monroe Art Guild for the exhibit of paintings that decorated our lobby walls during the run of "Gigi." The artists represented were Bess James, Mary Anita Lennon, Dottie McKinley, Mary Moffitt, Carl Mittell, Ivy Oliver and Ed Schutz.

The program search is coming down the home stretch. Thanks to discoveries by Mrs. Edith T. Atkinson, Mrs. Walter Rhodes and Scherck Bogen, we now have all but four. Dr. Grace Ingledue, writing from Lakeland, Florida offers some faint hope that she might have two of these in stor

RUNNING THE SCALES

French Flavoring For Yule Programs

By JOHN CALE

"The French have a word for it," so the expression goes, or maybe it was the Greeks. At any rate, both cultures like plays and that's one good reason they have never suffered for a loss of words — on any subject.

So, as the Christmas season prepares to take over for the next several weeks, we might hear a few "joyeux noels" sounding from local stages.

Little Theatre's "Gigi" completes it run with afternoon and evening performances at Strauss Playhouse today. As a fitting companion piece, the Louisiana Tech series happened to schedule Moliere's "School for Wives" for more in the French comedy category.

LOCAL SERIES

As a climax to the pre-Noel season, Northeast Concerts opens its series with a presentation of the musical comedy, "Carnival" which also has a French setting.

This one is staged by the national company of the Broadway musical and stars Elaine Malbin, soprano, and David Daniels as the singing leads. Miss Malbin was a frequent guest artist with the "Voice of Firestone" radio and television series.

"Carnival" is built around the more fanciful aspects of life in wandering show business straight out of the memories of childhood. There are acrobats, jugglers, dancing girls, a magician, trained dogs, a prancing bear and a puppet show.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. Monday at Neville Auditorium. The production will be the first of six presentations on the Northeast Concerts bill of fare. Season memberships will be available at a booth located at Neville High School to be open from 1 p.m. until curtain time tomorrow.

"Carnival" opens like the faint stirring of a spring breeze. The curtain is already up. It is dawn, and the bare stage represents an empty meadow on the outskirts of a town in southern France.

One by one the roustabouts and performers arrive on the scene and Prof. Schlegel's traveling carnival — ambitiously billed as "The Grand Imperial Cirque de Paris" — begins to take shape before the audience's eyes. Wagons arrive, tents are raised, and an aerialist's high ladder soars skyward.

Into the midst of all the carnival workers wanders a timid orphan girl, Lili, ill-clad and awestruck. Her big sad eyes widen in wonder as Marco, the dashing magician, transforms a flaming match into a flower and as the puppets — a sympathetic red-headed tyke, a green walrus, an impudent fox, and other impetuous characters — talk to her.

Lili, desperately in need of a job and a place to stay, fails at even the smallest tasks she is assigned to do. Fired by Prof. Schlegel as an incompetent bungler, she climbs the aerialists's ladder, bent upon jumping to death. Carrot Top, the watchful puppet calls out to her from his booth and persuades her to join him.

This proves to be the beginning of a triumphant friendship and an unforeseen success story, for the girl unquestioningly accepts the puppets as real people, and her singing with them becomes the hit of the carnival.

IN ADDITION

Other attractions of the week include a performance of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," slated for 3 p.m. today at Brown Auditorium on the Northeast campus. The choir and orchestra — a combined effort of students and church choirs in the Monroe-West Monroe area — will be under the direction of Davis Bingham.

Another of the filmed book series is slated for Thursday at the Paramount Theatre. This one is "Pride and Prejudice," starring Greer Garson and Laurence Olivier. And if you like old memories around this season of the year, the movies also features Edna May Oliver, Maureen O'Sullivan, May Boland and Ann Rutherford. Do these ring any bells? Christmas bells, of course.

AT PARAMOUNT

'We'll Bury You' Is Documentary

One of the most shocking pictures ever brought to the screen, Columbia Pictures' "We'll Bury You!" opens Friday at the Paramount Theater.

A full - length documentary feature, "We'll Bury You!" traces the rise of communsim, graphically covering in dramatic fashion the history of our troubled times.

Uncensored scenes from secret film archives include red slave labor camps, brutal terror of the OGPU, bloody purges and pogroms . . . and more!

OTHER AREAS

"We'll Bury You",! the new Columbia release, is more than a history of the Soviet Union; it takes in China, Korea and Cuba, trouble spots which figure so importantly in communism's master plan for world conquest.

Khrushchev is not the only Soviet notable to figure in "We'll Bury You!" Stalin looms large, and there are such historic personages as Trotsky, Malenkov, Molotov, Bulganin, Churchill and Roosevelt are shown with Stalin at Yalta, during World War II, and Macmillan at the United Nations. Castro, Mao Tse-Tung and other world figures — both famous and infamous — are to be seen.

More important are the new film's scenes of the "little people" of Russia and the world — the men and women who fought and died for their beliefs in the founding days of the Russian Revolution and after; the farmers and workers, the women and children. "We'll Bury You!" shows them working and marching, starving and feasting, laughing and crying, in rebellion and in victory, in war and in peace.

Moving pictures and still photographs were vividly combined by producers Jack Leewood and Jack W. Thomas to form the absorbing visual image that is "We'll Bury You!" A Contempora production, the Columbia release is narrated by William Woodson; Thomas penned the breathless, absorbing and authentic commentary.

AMUSEMENTS

AT JIM THEATRE

Wolf Hero Rules From Castle Den

In his Technicolor motion picture, "The Legend of Lobo," Walt Disney's noble wolf hero, Lobo, rules his kingdom from a castle. The film is now showing at the Jim Theatre.

Not satisfied with the hole-in-the - hill dens used by run-of-the - mill wolves, Lobo lodges himself and his mate, Sombra, in a majestic cliff - side home high in the mountains of Arizona which was built by a Pueblo Indian chief around 1100 A.D.

As far as Lobo is concerned, it is not so much the elegance of his dwelling as its inaccessibility that appeals to him.

Wolves, like the ancient Pueblo Indians, like to isolate their homes from both two - legged and four - legged traffic, and this particular home is about as remote as any on earth.

To get to it, Lobo has to inch his way across a narrow log bridge which spans a gorge 5,000 feet deep. Like most wolves, he is surefooted and brave, but when the wind blows, Lobo wishes he had claws like a cat.

The log bridge is the key to one of the most exciting scenes in this picture, when Lobo leads a pack of hounds and a wolf - hunter on a merry chase to his bridge. But not across it. No one but Lobo dares to follow that route.

"The Legend of Lobo" was produced in color by Technicolor by Cangary Productions Ltd. for Walt Disney with James Algar as co - producer for Disney, Jack Couffer of Cangary was field producer. Algar and Dwight Hauser wrote the screenplay with Rex Allen narrating the Buena Vista release.

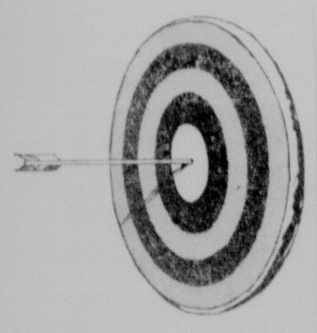
WILL AMERICA



MISS THE MARK?

The lead a nation holds may be here today and gone tomorrow. We must raise our sights if we are to hit the target in science, business and world affairs.

But the education that trained our leaders yesterday is not adequate for tomorrow. Colleges are in a squeeze. Some face shortages, and in less than 10 years applicants will double.

If we value leadership, we must see that our higher institutions have well-equipped laboratories, enough modern classrooms and, above all, a steady supply of competent teachers.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Christmas Ideas Shown

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The "Christmas Idea" program for T. V. and Garden Center last Wednesday was a tremendous success, according to all the wonderful reports that came in afterwards from those who saw it.

I do hope you got lots of ideas for your Christmas decorating — and, I just know you did — I certainly did. The ladies who were responsible for the 14 displays that were shown were Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Mrs. Leslie Clark, Mrs. W. R. Moseley, Mrs. S. W. Raby, Mrs. H. F. Shepard and other ladies of the Memorial Methodist Church who loaned displays that were to be sold at their bazarre on Thursday.

The picture in today's paper will show you some of these wonderful ideas from the program. Since it will be impossible for me to describe all these artistic designs I think this would be a wonderful time to catch up on our horticulture hints even though this is Santa's month. We must not neglect our garden jobs:

CLEAN UP

First — a good clean up job is in order, ridding beds of already bloomed out plants. Mulch should be renewed afterwards. You can still plant spring blooming bulbs, though it is rather late. Many of these are on sale now, and since we buy bulbs for many years and not just one, it is advisable to take advantage of these sales.

December is the month to plant tulip bulbs. These should have been in the refrigerator at least a month — but, in case you have not done this, and, still wish to plant the tulip bulbs, the unrefrigerated bulb will do fairly well. Remember, too, these bulbs do not come up a second year. However, when you see the gorgeous blooms in the Spring, you find you are getting your money's worth.

CUT OLD TOPS

Most chrysanthemums are bloomed out now. Cut back the old tops. Also, cut back the tops of dahlias. If you plan to take up the dahlias—now is the time to do so. Store them in a place where they won't dry out or be exposed to freezing temperatures. Dahlias may be left in the ground if they are in a well - drained place. If the soil is poorly drained they will rot.

This is an excellent time to transplant spring blooming perennials such as shasta daisies, sweet williams, etc. Also, there is still time to plant spring blooming annual seed such as cornflowers, larkspur, candytuft, snapdragons, and poppies. You can still buy and put out pansy plants. Many are now blooming, so get these at once. Pansies are winter plants. When the early warm spring winds start, they die out. It is important to keep the blooms picked to encourage blooming.

CALENDULA

You can still put out calendula plants. This is also a cool weather plant, but, will bloom up until May.

December, January and February are our best transplanting months for trees and shrubs because this is the time they are in a dormant stage.

If you have shade in your landscape you'll want to plant at least a few of your favorite camellias. Look for these while they are in bloom to make your best selection.

The Monroe Garden Club invites all members of the Federated Garden clubs of the Twin Cities, also, the 5th District accredited flower show judges to come to the meeting Monday at 2 p.m. at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The program is "Japanese Adaptions for Contemporary Living."

The lecturer and demonstrator is Mrs. Howard S. Kittel, author of the book, "Japanese Flower Arrangements in American Homes." Mrs. Kittel is from Fort Worth, Texas. The fee for non - members is $2.

Our program for next Wednesday is one to be looking forward to. Mrs. Marcus Mapp will demonstrate and show "Holiday Corsages."

GOES COED

NEW YORK (AP) — Protestant churches in America have traditionally had separate lay organizations for men and women. But the United Church is changing the picture.

Its "Council for Lay Life and Work," newly formed national lay organization, began functioning Dec. 1, composed of both men and women.

It is the first "coed" national agency for lay church members in Protestant history, and will have a woman as its executive director, Miss Helen Huntington Smith of Cleveland.

Decision for the new-type lay organization came as a result of the merger of Congregational Christian and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches. Each previously had separate lay groups for men and women, but the merged body decided Christians of both sexes belonged together.

Plant Pecan Trees Now

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to add a pecan tree to your landscape, it is time to plant now. Your nursery probably has a good selection of varieties for sale now.

If you want a certain variety, better get your order in early. In North Louisiana, our horticulture specialists recommend the Stuart, Desirable, Elliott and Success as good varieties to plant.

Here are some hints they give for planting that pecan tree. Livability is usually better with smaller sized trees, — about four to five feet nursery trees. Never allow the roots of the tree to dry out before planting. Heel the tree in and keep the roots moist if it is impossible to plant the tree. Dig a large hole about 3 to 3½ feet deep and about 18 inches in diameter in light soil and 36 inches in diameter in heavy soil.

Start pruning the young trees and training them immediately. Do not allow forks with weak crotches to develop. Wrap the young trees for protection for the first two years. Wrapping will prevent sunscald and trunk damage by insects. Water young trees during periods of dry weather. This is especially important during both the first and second years after planting. Take care not to overdo this operation, however, especially in heavy, poorly drained soils. Provide for cultivation around young trees to keep down competing vegetation. Mulches should be used to conserve moisture and hold down weeks.

H. D. MEMBERS

Don't forget the Open House for you, Mrs. Home Demonstration Club Member, this Thursday, December 13, at 1625 Park Avenue. The hours are 9 - 11:30 a.m. and 2:00 - 5:30 p.m. So make your plans to come by to have refreshments with your home demonstration agent.

HINTS

Grease spots may be removed on wallpaper by rubbing a lump of starch over the spot.

To prevent cheese from getting moldy, wrap in a piece of cloth dampened with vinegar. Place in a covered container and occasionally moisten the cloth with vinegar to assure fresh cheese.

When grinding bread crumbs or crackers, tie a paper of plastic bag over the end of your grinder, this prevents crumbs from spilling.

To remove dust from your nickel pot, grease the pot with any kind of good lubricant, let stand for a few minutes, then rub with cloth soaked in household ammonia. Rinse with water and polish.

A piece of strong wax paper wrapped around the blade of a knife will be very helpful in cutting slices of cheese and making butter pots. Be sure though butter is thoroughly chilled.

SOMETHING NEW

Absent minded dishwashers will be interested to know that there is a new tableware which has a guarantee of replacement for any item that breaks within three years from purchase. It is called Centura made of pyroceran brand glass ceramic.

You will find on the market real soon baby foods in aluminum squeeze tubes for feeding away from home. Food may be squeezed out onto a plastic spoon attached to the lid of the tube.

You can obtain standard made bathroom fixtures that until recently would have had to be custom made. Manufacturers of bathroom equipment are now offering stock pieces in a wide variety of new shapes, sizes and colors. Ready - built sunken tubs are designed to fit anywhere without elaborate framing, fittings. Fittings for hot and cold water have a new look, many are one piece units, some have push - pull knobs instead of handles.

Question: "I could like to buy a portable electric drill and have looked at a number of models. I note that those with chucks which are tightened by hand are cheaper than those which use keys for tightening the bits in place. Are the hand chucks safe to use?

CONDITIONS

Answer: A portable electric drill with a hand chuck is satisfactory if you plan to to little else but simple drilling. However, if you are going to drill large holes in tough material or use the drill with any of the attachments, it is better to get one with either a hex - key chuck or a geared chuck.

A hex - key chuck will grip tighter and stand up under punishment better than a hand chuck, while a geared chuck will take more abuse than either of them. Generally, the better quality drills will have one of the key - type chucks, but it is possible to get first - rate service from a drill with a hand chuck if you stay away from heavy - duty jobs.

In buying a portable drill, the "feel" of it is most important. It should fit your hand comfortably, so be sure you pick up the vara selection.

Beautify Entrances

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

We actually see more of our doorways and entrances than of any other part of our plantings, yet side doorways and back doorways are often not planted a well as the front door.

As a matter of fact, the tendency these days is to provide on - the lot parking for guests and they use the same entrance as the owners. On modern houses, the kitchen is often on the front, and there is no actual front door at all.

Whatever you may wish to call it, the entrance which you use most for entering your house deserves the very best in landscaping and in the design of your walks, steps and landings.

A stranger should be able to negotiate walks, steps and landing platforms without feeling uneasy. Steps must not wobble or shake. They must extend well across stoops and landing platforms so that one will not step off their ends or even feel the danger of doing so.

GRACIOUS

Entrances should be gracious and give one the sense of welcome as well as of security. Several people should be able to wander out of your house together after a party and chat in safety as they depart. Human habits call for a space at the bottom of steps — no matter how few — that will allow several people to pause at this point and converse for a moment as they say goodbye to their host and to each other.

Walks connected with your main entrance must be at least four feet wide. Six to eight feet is a better width, especially if you have plants on each side.

There are many low growing, fine textured shrubs these days that one can use in planting entrances. These, in juxta - position with some of the coarser textured evergreens, are very handsome. The larger growing shrubs are not very suitable for most types of entrances because they row out over platforms, walkways and steps and have to be continually cut and sheared back.

CAMERA Angles

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEARLY every conversation is flavored with little witticisms; very serious movies have their light moments for dramatic relief.

Yet we as photographers often display an album or show slides of the vacation or movies of the family — with not a funny picture in sight. We apparently have such a good time taking pictures we don't think about putting fun on the other side of the lens.

But imagine spending a day on your hands and knees photographing the tiny spring flowers which bloom on the floor of the California desert. Suddenly you glance up to see a tall Joshua tree cactus with two "arms" and an upraised "leg" bent at the "knee." You'd laught out loud, straighten up, shoot (anyway that's what I did) and have an unusual ending for your desert flower slide show.

Or imagine Mother taking a family picture. Father stands stiffly, smiling into camera, holding Little Sister. Big Sister stands rigid alongside, smiling at camera. Then, just as Mother snaps the picture, Little Sister, round, angelic face lighted with the glee of evil intent, gently leans down and, using thumb and only one finger, daintily pulls untied Big Sister's hair ribbon.

Cute? Yes. Corny? Yes. But most of us aren't too sophisticated about our families, anyway, and we don't need to apologize if it's the cute and corny pictures which bring a smile and remain the family's favorite through the years.

If, on your vacation, you see a street sign spelled STPO, shoot. Or you notice two cars covered with snow except for one headlight each. Does it look like some guy you know, winking at a gal? Shoot.

Of course not all funny pictures just happen. Mrs. Rexford D. Sherwood of Rochester, N.Y., saw some expressive "faces" on door latch hardware in a store one day and took the pieces home. Her husband made a tabletop arrangement which won him a prize in the 1956 Graflex photo contest.

Photo humor specialist Raymond D. Harvey of Cleveland, writing in the Photographic Society of America's November Journal, lists some more categories of jollity: simulated injury and self-ridicule, the stock in trade of clowns; human animals, the dog smoking a cigar or cat poring over chess; the surprising and unexpected; exaggeration, using oversized or undersized props.

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT

4 Luckily Escape Car-Train Collision

Four persons involved in a two-car-train collision at the Missouri Pacific railroad crossing at South Third Street and Texas Avenue must have been carrying a "good luck" talisman Saturday, because all four escaped without serious injury.

According to Monroe police reports, a Delhi woman, Mrs. Edna Hewitt, was thrown from the car in which she was riding when it was struck. She and the driver of the car in which was a passenger, Mrs. Myrllene R. Boles, 38, of Alto, went to private physicians for treatment of minor injuries.

Police reported that Mrs. Boles was driving north on South Third Street, entered the intersection and collided with an eastbound car on Texas Avenue operated by William F. Sartor, 30, of 318 Morris Ave., Monroe. Sartor, in turn, was struck by a train going south on the tracks.

Sartor told investigating officers he saw the automatic train warning signal lights working, but had "plenty of time" to make it across before the train got there. As he crossed the tracks, he said Mrs. Boles entered the intersection in front of him, and he struck her car. The Boles vehicle was spun around by the impact, and her passengers thrown clear of the car.

The train engineer, H. F. Burns, McGehee, Ark., told officers that Sartor cleared the tracks, but then backed back onto the tracks in his path. Sartor said that when he started his car to move on out of the way, he accidentally put it in reverse, and backed onto the tracks. The train struck the left rear side of his vehicle, which was extensively damaged. Police issued a summons to Mrs. Boles for running a stop sign and running railroad warning signal lights, and issued a summons to Sartor for running a railroad warning signal light.

Ohio Strikers Accept Truce

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Striking drivers of Cleveland's two daily newspapers voted by a margin of about 5-1 Saturday to heed a citizens' committee proposal to return to work and continue negotiating contract differences to at least Jan. 3.

An estimated 350 members of Local 473's membership of 405 met in midafternoon to hear their officers explain the citizens' committee truce proposal. Then on a standing vote they authorized their leaders to accept the truce.

Because of the lateness of the decision, it was uncertain whether the city's only Sunday newspaper, the Plain Dealer, would try to publish an edition for this Sunday.

The strike, affecting about 3,000 employes of the Plain Dealer and the afternoon Scripps-Howard newspaper, the Cleveland Press and News, was called by the Teamsters Union on Thursday night of last week while negotiations were in progress on renewal of a drivers contract which expired Nov. 15.

Talking Drums Boom News Of Independence

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI) — The talking drums of Tanganyika boomed in celebration Saturday as this East African nation formally changed over from a monarchy under Queen Elizabeth to an independent republic of the commonwealth.

The changeover took effect at the stroke of midnight (5 p.m. Saturday EST), exactly a year after Tanganyika gained its independence.

The occasion was marked by a formal, ceremony in Dar-es-Salaam's huge stadium where a military tattoo was sounded while the standard of the new president, Julius Nyerere, was raised for the first time. A midnight display of fireworks capped the celebration.

Drums boomed through the capital and their messages were relayed by lone drummers deep in the jungle, on the mountainsides and lake shores, who spread the word that Tanganyika was a sovereign republic.

No one knows the exact age of these talking drums, which are made from old tree trunks with drum heads of stretched zebra and cattle skins.

Court Tests On Spending Open Monday

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The court struggle which begins here Monday involving Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' fiscal advisers and top educators actually had its beginning long ago.

The pocketbooks of every taxpayer may be affected by the outcome, for the basic issue is how to control runaway state spending versus constitutional limitations on the legislature's powers.

There are two taxpayers' lawsuits attacking Gov. Davis' administration, one against Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily, the governor's chief fiscal officer, and indirectly dragging in the 17-man Legislative Budget Committee. Two other defendants are state Treasurer A. P. Tugwell and state Comptroller Roy Theriot.

Dis. Judge Elmo Lear will preside.

The lawsuit, filed by Dr. Boyd Woodward, Lake Charles member of the Louisiana Board of Education, attacks the growing control of Reily's office over state spending, as spelled out in several recent laws.

Dr. Woodard, backed by an angry board majority headed by President William J. Dodd, complains Reily and the budget committee which work closely with him have been going too far in interfering with school affairs.

The second lawsuit, filed by state Rep. Jules Mollere of Jefferson Parish, a legislative independent, seeks to block a $975,000 allocation by Davis' state Bond and Building Commission for public beaches at Cypremort Point, in Vermilion Bay.

The Mollere case might be decided quickly, in view of past court rulings on similar issues.

The fight Dr. Woodward has launched against Reily and the Legislative Budget Committee represents tougher issues.

Reily, as the state's fiscal czar under both the late Gov. Earl K. Long and Gov. Davis, collided in 1958 with state education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson when it was discovered the school lunch fund had a $4.5 million surplus.

Reily attempted through Gov. Long and the legislature to recover that surplus, and Jackson and the school officials opposed.

Pressure became so terrific in the legislature that Gov. Long was forced to weaken his initial support of Reily's position, and the educators claimed a victory.

Since then, each governor has used a legislative budget study committee to assist his own fiscal officers. But these committees have been informal, serving only as an advisory arm of the governor.

The 1962 legislature changed that by giving official status to the legislative budget study committee. And it plunged into its new responsibilities with vigor. The group, headed by Sen. W. J. Cleveland of Crowley, Senate finance chairman, has held numerous meetings, going over with state agencies their detailed spending operations.

Gov. Davis, whether that was his intention or not, has in effect acted to strengthen Reily's position by giving him the authority of the new Legislative Budget Committee to work with. And Reily and the budget committee haven't budged this time in the face of educational onslaughts.

This, the balance of power in an old struggle over money between educators and the governor in office seems for the moment to be in the governor's hands — with help of a legislative group.

City Manager Arraigned On Bribe Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Mitchell, the Newburgh, N.Y., city manager known for his welfare "crackdown," was arraigned Saturday on a charge that he sought a $20,000 bribe in a real estate case.

He was accused of demanding the money from two property owners who wanted a rezoning of land they owned in Newburgh. He has declared himself innocent.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan aid the money was passed to a go-between in a Manhattan hotel Friday.

Mitchell, 40, arrested Friday night in Newburgh City Hall, appeared in Manhattan Criminal Court on charges of bribery, conspiracy and accepting unlawful fees.

Judge Herman Weinkrantz continued him free in $10,000 bail pending a hearing.

The man named by Hogan as the go-between, Lawrence J. De Masi Jr., 42, of Hillsdale, N.J., also was arraigned. Bail was set at $5,000 on a charge of conspiracy to bribe Mitchell.

Hogan gave this account: Twin brothers, Stephen and Joseph Wahrhaftig, Monticello, N.Y., real estate men, bought an 11-acre tract in Newburgh in 1960, intending to build multiple houses, for which the land was zoned.

Later, the zoning was changed to permit construction of single-family houses only.

The brothers sought a variance so they could proceed with their original plans. They said Mitchell demanded $20,000 to put such a change through the City Council.

The brothers complained last Monday to a friend, Harold Birns, New York City building commissioner. Birns directed them to Hogan.

Setting a trap, Hogan directed them to take the money and meet a go-between in a Manhattan midtown hotel Friday afternoon. Detectives stood by.

Hogan said the brothers handed over the money to De Masi and that the detectives arrested him as he started to leave the hotel.

The money has been placed in a safe in Hogan's office.

The city manager, after being picked up, said in New York: "I am confident that the facts will conclusively establish my innocence of all the charges that have been made against me."

Sen. Ellender Visits In Kenya For 90 Minutes

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., made his scheduled Kenya visit Saturday — a 90-minute stopover at Nairobi's Royal Air Force Station.

He was originally scheduled to make a two-day visit here.

Ellender touched down here en route to Mogadishu in Somalia. His only welcoming committee was a group of U.S. consular officials. One official commented later:

"We all found him affable and businesslike."

The U.S. Information Service later issued a statement reiterating Ellender's belief that he had been quoted out of contest in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, Dec. 1 when he told a news conference:

"I have yet to meet any Africans who have the capability to run their own affairs .... It is always the whites who are responsible for any progress in Africa."

Two Louisiana Men Charged

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Two Louisiana men, charged with possession of securities taken in the burglary of the Bloomberg, Tex., bank last March 16, have been turned over to federal authorities here.

George R. Winborne, 36, of Winnsboro, La., and Ivie Lee Umphries, 32, of Bossier City, La., were arrested here Wednesday after they had passed six travelers checks. They had numerous others in their possession at the time of arrest, police said.

U.N. Is Asked To Break Outer Space Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union, the United States and 13 other countries proposed Saturday that the U.N. General Assembly call for urgent efforts to break the East-West deadlock over the legal problems of outer space exploration.

They submitted a compromise resolution on the subject for consideration in the Assembly's political committee, which last Monday began debating a report of the U.N. committee on the peaceful uses of outer space.

U.S. delegation sources said the Soviet delegation agreed Friday night to sponsor the compromise proposal, a revision of a resolution originally put forward by the United States alone.

The United States, without cosponsors, proposed meanwhile that the assembly adopt a declaration recommending principles for countries to follow in the exploration and use of outer space.

The legal subcommittee of the outer-space committee deadlocked in Geneva last May 28-June 20 over a similar declaration proposed by the Soviet Union.

The Russians insisted that the subcommittee deal first with the Soviet-proposed declaration.

The Americans, who disliked some parts of that declaration, insisted that the subcommittee deal first with U.S. proposals calling for the rescue of strayed astronauts and space vehicles and for the payment of damage claims occasioned by space accidents.

Million-Dollar Fire Destroys Alabama Stores

CULLMAN, Ala. (UPI)—Firemen from five communities fought a blaze Saturday afternoon which destroyed several buildings and did damage estimated at more than a million dollars.

The blaze was brought under control late Saturday. It was first reported at noon.

Spokesmen for the police and fire departments estimated the damage at more than $1 million.

Firemen from Hartselle, Flakville, Hanceville and Arab aided the fire department here, along with several other volunteers, in battling the blaze, which completely destroyed five buildings and damaged others.

Police and firemen especially commended students of St. Bernard College here for help in fighting the fire.

All the destroyed buildings belonged to realtor Don Carnish.

Destroyed was Graber's Department Store, Tiffin Furniture Co., The Cullman Theater Building, Vogue Beauty Salon and a barber shop. Graber and Tiffin had just recently stocked their stores to the limit with christmas merchandise, a spokesman said.

Also damaged by the blaze was the All-Steak Cafe and the Cullman Radio and Television Service Co. They sustained smoke and water damage and were evacuated early in the afternoon.

There were no injuries except one fireman who was overcome by smoke. He was given oxygen and quickly recovered.

Strike Closes Newspapers In New York City

NEW YORK (UPI) — A strike by craft unions Saturday closed nine New York City newspapers in a dispute which could have staggering economic effects on the nation's largest city.

Members of the International Typographical Union (ITU) walked off the job at four of the newspapers. The Publishers Association of New York City then suspended publication of five others, completing the suspension of one-tenth of the country's total daily newspaper circulation.

The papers involved have a daily readership of about 5.7 million.

No negotiations were scheduled immediately, but talks between the publishers and representatives of the ITU's local 6 could resume at any time.

"It looks like a strike," said Bertram A. Powers, president of Local 6. The printers were being supported by members of other craft unions.

French Reveal Warrant Issued For Soustelle

PARIS (AP)—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Jacques Soustelle, former governor-general of Algeria, on charges of plotting against the authority of the state, French judicial sources revealed Saturday.

Soustelle, who turned against President Charles de Gaulle's policy of Algerian self-determination, is charged with being a director of the National Resistance Committee—CNR. This expatriate organization's reputed purpose is to carry on the European Sceret Army Organization's campaign against the French government.

Organizer of the CNR is believed to be former Premier Georges Bidault, who was stripped of his parliamentary immunity as a deputy last June. A warrant for the arrest of Bidault, reportedly hiding in Belgium, was issued Aug. 10.

Safe Is Hauled Off By Thieves

HOUSTON, Miss. (UPI)—A 500-pound safe containing approximately $2,300 and company records was taken from the Patch Tractor Company here Friday night, officers said.

Owner Leslie Patch discovered the theft Saturday morning when he arrived for work. Patch said entry was made through the front door.

White House Gets Portrait Of Jefferson

WASHINGTON (AP)—A famous portrait of Thomas Jefferson, painted from life in 1800 by the American artist Rembrandt Peale, has been acquired for the White House collection.

Until now, the White House had no original portrait of President Jefferson.

The Peale painting was a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mellon of Upperville, Va., friends and neighbors of President and Mrs. Kennedy. Mellon is the son of Andrew Mellon, whose funds established the National Gallery of Art here.

In its announcement Saturday, the White House said this important American painting had been owned until recently by the Peabody Institute of Baltimore. There was no indication of the cost or value of the portrait.

James W. Fosburgh of New York City, chairman of Mrs. Kennedy's special painting committee, cited the Peale acquisition as "a significant step forward" in the committee's efforts to secure the finest life portraits known of the early presidents.

Jefferson sat for the Peale portrait in Philadelphia early in 1800 and later copies and engravings of it were widely circulated. Jefferson is said to have admired it so much that in 1801 he asked Peale to make him a copy.

The portrait for many years had been in the possession of the late Charles J. M. Eaton of Baltimore, who later became president of the Peabody Institute. After his death, it was presented to the institute.

Mariner Speeds Nearer Venus

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The Mariner 2 spacecraft sped Saturday toward its rendezvous with the planet Venus, with temperatures continuing to rise.

The craft will pass within 20,000 miles of Venus on Dec. 14, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology said.

The vehicle at noon Saturday was 31.2 million miles from earth and 1.8 million miles from Venus, the laboratory said. Its speed, increasing under the sun's gravity, was 33,000 miles per hour by earth standards and 82,800 m.p.h. in relation to the sun.

All systems were working properly, the laboratory said.

WASHINGTON REPORT

TITLE TILTING

In the early days of this country, any suggestion of setting up a titled nobility was vehemently rejected by the Founding Fathers with oppresssions suffered under the British monarchy still fresh in their memories. However, a respect for titles of office, from magistrate in the smallest community to that of President of the United States has flourished through the years. Many officials tenaciously cling to their titles after retiring from public life. Some are inclined to insist on a former, more impressive title than that of the position they currently hold. For instance, a legislator who had served in the Senate under gubernatorial appointment, having failed to win election to the unexpired term, returned to Congress two years later as a member of the House of Representatives. "I can't seem to stop referring to you as 'Senator'," said a reporter who had covered his Senate tenure. "Once a Senator, always a Senator," the legislator tersely replied, indicating that he preferred the more august title of Senator to that of Congressman.

Some titles, notably that of "judge," cling to their bearers through usage and deep respect for the office.

It is traditional to refer to all former Presidents as "Mr. President." This has always been considered deserved homage to those who once held the highest office in the land.

Two titles of almost equal veneration are applicable to former President Eisenhower — "Mr. President" and "General," and reportedly he prefers the latter. At any rate, during dedication ceremonies at Dulles International Airport, President Kennedy, who previously had addressed his predecessor as "Mr. President," referred to Eisenhower, who also shared the podium, as "General Eisenhower."

A classic side - stepping of a previous title was nicely executed by the late Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, who, as Vice President in the Truman administration, was the "Veep." Two years after his term as Vice President ended, Barkley was elected to the Senate where he previously had served. The popular Kentuckian was beseiged by a host of reporters on his return to the Capitol, and one of them asked Barkley if they should continue to call him "Veep."

"Just refer to me as the junior Senator from Kentucky," replied the 78-year-old Barkley with a twinkle in his eye.

SALARY AND SENIORITY

— If Senator elect Edward T. (Ted) Kennedy follows the example set by his older brothers, President John F. Kennedy and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, a little more than two months of his senatorial salary will go to charity before he even takes his seat in that August body. Recently both the President and Attorney General confirmed that they have donated to charitable organizations all salaries they have received for public service.

By winning election to an unexpired term, Ted Kennedy fell heir to the Senate seat formerly held by President Kennedy on Nov. 7, the day following the election. Therefore, he has a head start in both salary and seniority on other freshmen Senators whose terms start when Congress convenes in January. Unless the President should call a special session of Congress, which is highly unlikely, young Kennedy will not officially take his seat until the opening of the 88th Congress Jan. 9, though technically he became a member of the Senate the day following the election when his victory was certified. Hence, he will have drawn two months salary — approximately, $3,750 (one - sixth of the $22,500 annual salary)— before taking the oath of office. The same applies to two others who were elected to partial Senate terms. They are Thomas J. McIntyre (D-N. H.) and Milward L. Simpson (R-Wyo.)

COUNT THE COST

During an all-day orientation session at the State Capitol in Annapolis, newly elected Maryland legislators were given a tip on spending that many would like to see followed by members of Congress.

"Spend like you are spending your own money and remember when you spend it you've got to pay the bill,' admonished one veteran solon who has never been profligate with the taxpayers' money.

BUDGET BLUES

Like the weather-man, the dedicated public servants who mail and toil to get out the annual federal budget receive recriminations regardless of how the figures come out, according to Ladd Plumley, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. In a recent speech, Plumley said the budget figures "always show (a) a deficit, which causes some people to mutter darkly about inflation; (b) a surplus, which causes others to worry about deflation; or (c) a perfect balance, which causes everyone to suspect the auditors."

The Chamber official could have added that those who complain about surpluses have had little to gripe about in recent years. Since 1931, the federal budget has shown a deficit 25 times; a surplus 6 times. During those 31 years, the federal debt has grown from $16.8 billion to $298 billion.

TOO GOOD TO KEEP

One of the gifts brought by visiting Prime Minister Sharmarke of Somalia to President Kennedy and his family so delighted the Chief Executive that when he left Blair House after calling on the state visitor, he took it with him to the White House as a bed-time surprise for his little son and daughter. The intriguing present was a "djinn" or devil doll — a tiny carved mobile figure that when held in the hand would teeter about, but always maintain its perfect equibilrium.

AMERICAN — EASTERN

Whether the American and Eastern Airlines are finally to merge may in the end be decided by President Kennedy. Examiner's report recommending against it was unexpected, but Civil Aeronautics Board often overrules its examiners. Board's decision will be final on domestic phases, but President must approve board decisions involving international airlines, therefore the case will eventually go to the White House. Some predictions are that it will be mid - summer before a final decision is reached. American - Eastern is most important of air lines mergers, just as proposed New York Central - Pennsylvania represents most important railroad merger.

BYRD'S LAST BILL

Handiwork of Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, will be seen to a large extent in any tax bill enacted by the next Congress, even though bill starts out as an Administration proposal. It will be the last tax bill handled by Byrd as Chairman of the blue ribbon Senate Finance Committee. Byrd will not be a candidate for re-election in 1964 and will retire at the edge of 77, after 31 years in Senate. His most likely successor: His son, Virginia State Senator Harry F. Byrd, Junior.

THREE CHOICES

Reason Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma has no desire to leave chairmanship of Aeronautical and Space Committee to take chairmanship of Public Works Committee, which became vacant with the death of New Mexico Senator Dennis Chavez, is that Kerr also ranks second on the Senate Finance Committee and would succeed Senator Harry F. Byrd in this post when Byrd retires.

MILITARY BUDGET

Pentagon is busily at work on final phases of its new budget, with indications that it will be fully $2,000,000,000 higher than the $50,300,000,000 sum for the present fiscal year (ending June 30, 1963). It is also evident that supplemental appropriation will be asked for this year. An appreciable part of the thumping sum to be asked for next year will go for a jump in military pay and allowances, which may call for $1,500,000,000 per year. Two thirds of this amount would be by reason of a heightened general pay scale and the rest from increased housing allowances and a raise in retirement pay.

NIXON'S PLANS

Reports that Richard M. Nixon is planning to leave California and establish himself as a lawyer in New York persist. Possibility that he might even seek office from that State are not dismissed. If so Nixon would be following a pattern others have followed. Harold Stassen, once Governor of Minnesota, became a resident of of Pennsylvania but his efforts to become mayor of Philadelphia and later Governor of the Keystone State were rebuffed. The late James Hamilton Lewis was a Representative in Congress from the State of Washington and a United States Senator from Illinois.

51ST STATE

Look for a big drive in the 88th Congress to bring Statehood to Puerto Rico in time for it to have a vote in the 1964 Presidential election. Puerto Rico, if admitted as a State would have 3 votes bringing the electoral college to 438. Growing feeling in Puerto Rico, it is said, is that statehood is the most desirable union between that Island and the United States. Biggest argument against Statehood is that Federal taxes would cost the island $187,000,000 per year.

A Look Behind the Headlines

YEVGEN YEVTUSHENKO, pictured with his wife on London arrival last April, is a prominent figure among the literary young turks in Russia. Yevtushenko, self-styled "angry young man," is a big favorite among the younger set. He has been keeping Communist Party leaders happy by writing fiery verses about asserted U.S. aggression against Cuba, Fascism in the West, and other Soviet propaganda themes. The Soviet Communist Party clamped the lid down this week on Russia's younger generation of Western-oriented artists and musicians. (AP Wirephoto)

Soviet Clamp Down On Its Writers, Artists, Musicians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party clamped the lid down this week on this country's younger generation of Western-oriented artists and musicians.

A blast against Western influences in modern art and jazz dispelled illusions that may have arisen in recent weeks about relaxation of strict party controls on freedom of expression in the arts.

Pravda, the party organ, lashed out at "pseudo-innovators" in the graphic arts. It said they "chase after Western fashions and occupy themselves with pathetic imitation of corrupt, formalistic art of the bourgeois world."

In an accompanying article it flayed young Soviet jazzmen "who work exclusively, so to say, on the import of cheap musical works, and who slavishly copy the style, manner and even the technical modes of performing, typical of the American standard."

The tone and wording of the Pravda onslaught indicated official concern with recent signs of ferment in the Soviet cultural world.

Ironically the regime itself appears to have set off the abortive thawing process by giving Soviet writers a bit more leeway in depicting "Soviet reality" under Stalin's dictatorship.

This loosening of the tether on writers got wide publicity. Officially-inspired comments praised works that would have been unpublishable a few years ago.

The uproar over this appeared to serve the regime's purposes.

It furthered Soviet Premier Khrushchev's deStalinization campaign, obliquely directed against opposition elements at home.

It supported Khrushchev's contention that there is freedom of criticism in the Soviet Union—even though it is limited to Stalin's mistakes.

The regime's limited concessions to writers encouraged other young artists to attempt to share their colleagues' sudden windfall of liberty.

Young abstract painters began pulling out their hidden pictures and setting up semi-public showings. Nobody seemed to object, so the young painters tried putting on a public show at a hotel where the university crowd gathers.

This was suddenly called off, and two days later Khrushchev held what amounted to a special hearing at which he turned thumbs down on the whole "pathological" business.

This was a setback for the modernists but it represented a gain over a few years ago when their art was not even acknowledged to exist.

Jazz seems to have been included in the cultural crackdown because of the up-tempo in this area since Benny Goodman's visit last spring as part of the Soviet-American cultural exchange.

Khrushchev attended a Goodman performance. The Culture Ministry praised Goodman as a true artist. Everyone—including a lot of cultural officials—more or less took it for granted that American jazz was acceptable.

Now the lid is on again. But it seems to be just a question of time before the young partisans of Western arts will start pressuring the men at the top again.

THE FIGHT AGAINST VOODOO

Dominicans In Major Battle On Sorcery

EDITOR'S NOTE — Voodoo and other jungle cults are no strangers to the Caribbean. One of the latest is thriving in the hinterlands of the Dominican Republic and it has the government worried. Not because of its claim of having sunk a U.S. cruiser but because it's keeping all the believers away from the job.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican people booted out three decades of political tyranny just last year. Now they're up against centuries of sorcery.

A kind of witchcraft known as "Liborismo" is spreading along the western part of the Dominican Republic near the Haitian border. Occult beliefs are considered as old as this island, discovered by Columbus in 1492.

The government is preparing to move with force against the cult leaders—three brothers known as "los mellizos," or twins—both for moral and economic reasons.

Considering the rough terrain and the wraithlike quality of the cultists, open war on witchcraft may turn out like fighting mosquitoes with a pitchfork.

The mecca of Dominican sorcery is the village of Palma Sola, 170 miles west of Santo Dongo. The trip is by paved road except for a one-hour mule ride at the end.

FLOCK

Believers flock to Palma Sola from all over the country and even from Haiti. The big days are Tuesdays and Thursdays. No one outside the cult seems to know just why.

School children and farm hands making a long trip to Palma Sola miss classes or work. This is one of the reasons why authorities want to eradicate the "Liborismo" cult.

The difficult last part of the journey to Palma Sola resembles a religious pilgrimage. Hundreds bring sick children or ill elders to the strange rites.

There is no known claim by the cultists to miraculous cures. Yet hospital authorities at San Juan de la Maguana, the capital of the province, report a decline in sick calls by peasants in the year or so that Palma Sola has attained such stature.

There is no evidence that fees of any kind are extracted from believers. The faithful bring gifts which are deposited at the so-called "sanctuary of the mellizos," just outside the village. The gifts may include dried beef, sausages, other foods, malt beverage and various dry goods. It is believed these are resold to believers at outlying stores operated by the cult leaders.

Information about the cult and its rites has come from believers. Its originator, Liborio, whose real name was Olivorio Mateo, appeared at San Juan de la Maguana at the turn of the century. He claimed to be a saint and to have extraordinary powers. He gained considerable stature.

IN SAUDI ARABIA

Life Is Series Of Many Contrasts

By WEBB McKINLEY

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Life in Saudi Arabia is a series of contrasts.

In this Red Sea port big new cars dent their fenders on donkey carts. At night goats roam along the main street, under the stare of a sleepy shepherd, and browse beside a shop window full of Japanese transistor radios.

Visitors in the biggest hotel dine on a veranda as the evening cools. On the ground below workers are lying down for their night's sleep. A nearby coffee house clears off the tables as beds.

Outside the towns there are only desert and an occasional oasis with date palms and perhaps a few meager fields. It rains only two to six inches a year in central Arabia. The Bedouins scratch out a living with their goats or camels or the few seeds they throw into gulches that hold the winter rain.

They are hardy people who carry guns and curved daggers. Some Western customs still shock them. A Briton once took his boxer dog for an automobile ride in the desert and stopped to talk to a Bedouin group.

"Is that a man?" they asked, pointing to the dog's face grimacing from the window. When the Britisher jokingly said "yes", the Bedouins fled in alarm.

The royal family, although under some restraint now, still lives in a combination of Oriental luxury and Western gadgetry. Its members, including all the wives, be rationed to one Cadillac each a year. King Saud still has his personal jet Comet airliner, a Convair and two DC3s to transport the family. A gold watch is not an unknown tip from a gay young prince.

At one count there were 24 royal palaces. The one in Riyadh covers a square mile and cost $45 million. It consumes more electricity than the rest of the capital (population about 300,000).

The Real Africa And Its Natives Are Described

EDITOR'S NOTE — Brief years ago Africa was The Dark Continent, pierced if at all by a few explorers. Today, it is a key area cross-crossed by jets, diplomats and technicians who still find it very much of a puzzle, to East and West alike. A reporter who spent seven months in Africa returns with a clarifying analysis of why Africans behave the way they do.

By STANLEY MEISLER
Associated Press Writer

Niyi Ishola, a 28-year-old government secretary in Nigeria, admires America very much. One of his great heroes, in fact, is the late John Foster Dulles. But Ishola has a complaint.

"Soviet cosmonauts Gherman Titov and Yuri Gagarin give a much better impression than your astronaut John Glenn," he says. "Both Russians wear uniforms in their photographs, and the people respect uniforms. Uniforms show discipline. In his pictures," Ishola continues sadly, "Glenn wears a bowtie."

John Glenn's bowtie has not stalled America's drive to win friends and respect in Africa. But this tale of a young Nigerian's concern with astronautical polka dots reflects the difficulty of trying to analyze the impact of U.S. policies on Africa.

Africans live in a world remote from the world of Americans. Africans worry about farm plots and factory sites, not Castro and Khrushchev, about building a nation, not building an image. American assumptions about what impresses Africans, or what disturbs them, often lack a true base.

THE PROBLEM

The difficult problem of American race relations can illustrate this a bit. Many U.S. policymakers assume that the names Little Rock, New Orleans, Oxford do not endear the United States to Africa.

The assumption, of course, is true. The treatment of Negroes in the United States does bother Africans.

"If the United States solved its racial problems," said a government geologist in Senegal recently, "the United States and Africa would become like this." He hooked his two little fingers.

Yet, during normal times, when a racial incident does not splash headlines in African papers, Africans often seem unconcerned about racial troubles in the United States.

There are two reasons, both personal. First, American Negroes and Africans do not warm to each other when they meet.

"Africans are very different from Negro Americans," says a Dakar business executive. "The African mentality is different. There is little communication between us."

Africans sometimes say that American Negroes have constricted personalities; they lack the openness of spirit that marks most Africans. Another complaint sometimes heard is that American Negroes feel themselves superior to Africans.

Second, Africans fret over their own problems; they don't have time to fret over the troubles of others.

Africans criticize the United States mainly for its support of colonial powers.

"When the United States supplies arms to Portugal," says B. Okoye, a Nigerian agricultural student, "that's terrible. That helps communism."

What is African socialism? A Senegalese information officer in Dakar offered this definition:

"There is a feeling of community in Senegal. That is African socialism."

UNEASY FEELING

Africans also have an uneasy feeling about American aid. They suspect Americans help to fight communism or just to satisfy their own egos, not out of any respect or concern for Africans.

"It looks like America is out to colonize us," says John Keen, a Kenya political leader.

"America believes it can buy friends with money," says Ojo Bamgboye, a Nigerian student leader.

These criticisms of America more prevalent among young Africans than others are balanced by a certain amount of goodwill, respect, and gratitude.

In general, Africans like most of the Americans they meet. The American tends to be less reserved than the Englishman, for example, and so seems more African to an African, although there are difficulties, particularly when some embassy staff workers start living like old colonials.

The Peace Corps, in fact, may have its greatest impact on Africa not in any concrete achievement like miles of road built or illiterates schooled but simply in exposing Africans to young, eager, hard-working, spirited Americans.

Of late, Africans have become impressed with the administration in Washington. Many political leaders in Africa tend to be young aggressive, and firm. To a good number of Africans, President John F. Kennedy shows the same qualities.

Africans like strong men. Such leaders as President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana or President Charles de Gaulle of France have a host of admirers in Africa. President Kennedy's recent actions on Cuba and Mississippi may have inspired Africans to number him with these men.

On balance, the United States, though often deplored as a blind pro-colonialist and an overzealous anti-Communist, leaves a fairly good impression on Africans.

The great religion of independent Africa is socialism. Almost everyone practices or professes it in some way or another.

TO VISIT U.S.

Chile President Due This Week

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—President Jorge Alessandri of Chile, a key South American nation beset by economic and political problems, arrives in the United States Monday for a four-day visit and frank conversations with President Kennedy.

The talks will touch on such matters as Cuba, the U.S. Alliance for Progress effort to help Latin America, and Chile's specific problems, which include a adverse trade balance, inflation and devalued currency. The visitor is expected to ask President Kennedy to speed delivery of economic aid which the United States promised last March.

Chile is one of five Latin-American nations which maintain diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Cuban regime. Chile has a $10-million a year trade exchange with Cuba, the highest in Latin America. It has pursued a hands-off policy with regard to the Castro regime, but recently there have been reports the Alessandri government was considering a break with Havana.

BACHELOR

President Alessandri is a 66 year-old ascetic bachelor noted for his blunt talk. He has been having trouble with the powerful pro-Communist "Popular Action Front," a five-party alliance of Communists, Socialists and other minor groups which include Castro followers.

Before winning approval a government land reform program languished six months in Congress because of delaying tactics by leftists who claimed the program was not drastic enough. Land reform, to ease popular pressures, is one of the Alliance for Progress goals in Latin America.

For all its problems, copper-rich Chile is one of Latin America's more developed and stable nations. U.S. investments total $800 million, the third largest total, after Brazil and Venezuela. The Kennedy administration seems interested in making Chile a showcase of the Alliance program to push back Communist-Castroist pressures.

Chile is a stringbean nation 3,000 miles long and 100 miles wide along the Andes range. It is governed by a coalition of the Conservative and Liberal parties, which elected Alessandri in 1958, and the Radical party. Chile's biggest, which joined the other two after the last presidential election.

The man who heads the coalition, a wealthy former businessman who ran as an independent, has seen his plans for economic and social development snagged because of the nation's financial woes and the politicians' bickering. Alessandri makes it clear he dislikes politicians in general.

The Chilean president is a man of simple habits and a strong temper. He disdains Santiago's ornate presidential palace, preferring his small, fifth-floor bachelor apartment in downtown Santiago. Usually he walks, unguarded the 10 blocks to his presidential office. He spends his few spare hours quietly in his apartment, reading or listening to classical music. He neither smokes nor drinks, and frowns on anyone who does in his presence.

Alessandri was born in Santiago May 5, 1896, the son of one of Chile's great presidents, Arturo Alessandri. He spent part of his youth in Europe where his father was in political exile. He speaks fluent French; his English is limited.

A nearly bald man with a jutting jaw, he entered public life only a few years ago as finance minister in a previous government. His ministry produced one of the few budget surpluses in Chile's history.

On his way to the United States Alessandri will meet the presidents of Peru and Panama. Coming home Alessandri plans to see President Adolfo Lopez Mateos in Mexico City.

CHILEAN PRESIDENT Jorge Alessandri doesn't get a backward glance from his countrymen as he strolls in downtown Santiago recently. The 66-year-old chief executive, a bachelor, usually walks unguarded the 10 blocks to his presidential office from his fifth-floor apartment in downtown Santiago. He will arrive in the United States Monday for a four-day visit and conversations with President Kennedy. (AP Wirephoto)

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Library Hours To Be Extended

By FRANCES FLANDERS,
Ouachita Parish Librarian

At the beginning of the New Year the Ouachita Parish Public Library will extend the hours of opening at the Main Library located at 1800 Stubbs Avenue. This added service to the public is in fulfillment of a promise made by the Board of Control of the Library last spring when the maintenance tax was renewed and increased. At that time we found that the request most often made was for longer hours of service both at night and on Sunday afternoons. After much study and research and in line with what is done by most city Libraries, the hours have been readjusted as follows: Monday through Friday the Main Library will be open from 9:00 in the morning until 9:00 at night. On Saturday the hours will be from 9:00 to 5:00. The Sunday afternoon hours will be from 2:00 to 5:00. These hours should take care of people who have not been able to use the Library before and who will enjoy having time for leisurely reading and study. A library is a a cultural institution and should make its services available to the people of the community on as extensive scale as possible. The Board feels that this is a public service which they are obligated to give and which should do much to raise the cultural level of the community. It is your library and we hope that you will use it even more than you have done in the past.

Many interesting new books have been added to the Library Collection during the past week. There are titles for every reader to enjoy. In the field of fiction there are several important books "Life at the Top" by John Briane is the sequal to "Room at the Top". It is an interesting commentary on present day life. The original angry young man is subdued and diminished by life, but somehow emerges as a more likeable person than in the first book. "The Long Winter" by John Christopher is a fantastic projection into the future. It is the story of what happens when the Sun grows cooler and life practically dies out in the Northern hemisphere. It is a book to make the reader stop and think. Just as fantastic is William Golding's "The Inheritors" which goes back into prehistory to the time of Neanderthal man and the arrival or emergence of the new people (modern man). It is a gripping story and has many social implications for modern readers.

A very unusual book is "The Voices of Glory" by Davis Grubbs. It is the story of a town and more than fifty people in the town. The form is different from most novels, but the picture of the town and the leading character do emerge and the book should be well received. "America, America" by Elia Kazan was first produced as a moving picture and then the book was written. It is the story of a poor Turkish boy and his dream of freedom in America. It is certain to be in demand. "The Path to the Water" is the title of Sarah Litsey's third novel, which reviewers have acclaimed as her best. It is the story of Miss Witherspoon who devoted her life to teaching the children of the rich. She had some failures and some successes, and there is much food for thought in this book. A novel which is certain to be very popular in our area is "By the King's Command" written by Shirley Seifert. It is the story of the Los Adaes settlement near Natchitoches and the eventual settlement of the place. Shirley Seifert is a good historical novelist and the book should be popular. "Fletcher's End" is another English story by Dorothy Stevenson which her public will enjoy.

The field of non - fiction has many interesting titles, which space will permit me to mention, not discuss. "Once there was a Nun" by Ruth Montgomery is the story of the eight years that Mary McCarrans spent as a Sister of Mercy. "America and the World Revolution" is a fine book of essays by Arnold J. Toynbee. "Crime Without Punishment" was written by Senator McClellan of Arkansas and is a report of what he learned as a member of the Senate committee on improper activities in the labor management field. "You can always tell a Harvard man" is a semi - serious book by Richard Bissell. "Project Plowshare" by Ralph Sanders is an account of the peaceful uses of nuclear explosions. "America's Race for the Moon" is the New York Times Story of Project Apollo.

Henry S. Ortloff, an expert in the gardening field has produced a most valuable book called "A Book About Soils for the Home Gardner." Always in demand in our community are books about Camellia culture. The latest one is "You can Grow Camellias" by Mary Noble. Anyone interested in a dancing career will welcome Agnes Demille's "To A Young Dancer". The farther we get away from World War II, the more popular do books on this subject become. "Black Boomerang" is the title of a book by Sefton Delmer and is the fantastic story of propaganda efforts gainst Germany. Robert Leckie has written the story of the Korean War, which he calls "Conflict" and has done it very well.

There are several new biographies of varying interest: "Poe" by William Bittner is a much needed study; "General Leonidas Polk, C. S. A." is the story of the fighting bishop of Louisiana by Joseph Howard Parks; "Roosevelt and Howe" by Alfred B. Rollins is an important account of the Roosevelt era; "Shaking the Nickel Bush" is another of the charming stories of family life by Ralph Moody.

Relation Of Father, Child Is Magic One

MY LITTLE BOY, MY BIG GIRL. By Carl Ewald. Horizon Press. $3.50.

Both of the short novels in this volume are remarkably fine evocations of childhood and a father's relationships with his children.

The first is about a little boy in his preschool years. There are many incidents and anecdotes to illustrate a child's first brushes with the vagaries of the great world and the odd behavior of its adults.

We watch him as he runs up against adult hypocrisy and moralistic preaching. We puzzle with him over the harsh line that differentiates between mine and thine. We smile when he finds a second "sweetheart" and does not know what to do about the first one — and as he asks whether it is possible to have two.

We suffer with him as he spends his allowance ahead of time and has to learn the hard lesson of money. And we feel uneasy when his father has to explain carefully that joining with other little boys to bully a Jewish boy is a serious offense. His story ends when he enters school—which the father calls society's "institution for the Corruption of Human Beings."

The second novel is a very sensitive, understanding portrayal of a young girl's adolescent years, as she crosses the line into womanhood and learns that love can be simultaneously frightening and fascinating.

There is the appearance of her first, foolish suitor, and its disillusioning outcome. There are periods of moodiness, questioning and groping. There is an episode in which the father confesses that he once had fallen in love with "another woman." There is an object lesson when the father teaches her not to scorn — as others do — one of her classmates who has had a child out of wedlock. And finally, there is the tense situation in which the girls falls in love.

Ewald was a Danish writer, and this book comes to us in an obviously loving translation by Beth Bolling. The first novel was published 40 years ago, but the second is being published now the first time.

They are a wonderful pair of stories. For gentle understanding, for magical wisdom about fatherhood, it would be hard to find anything to match them.

CONCERTS

NEW YORK (UPI)—When Artur Rubinstein came to record two piano concertos of Mozart he was content for Alfred Wallenstein to conduct the orchestra. When Geza Anda recorded two of them he conducted the orchestra himself. This difference in fundamental approach is evident in the rival records.

In Anda's playing is a romantic aggressiveness, as though he visualized himself as a performing replica of the composer who also played and conducted the same pieces, as was the fashion of his time. Anda's playing has drive and dash of its own, apart from the music.

On the other hand Rubinstein's Mozart playing suffers from what seems timidity, as though he was so awed by the composer he dared no interpretative freedom. Rubinstein is not at his superlative best with Mozart.

Yet of the two records his is the best, if only because he permits the listener to react to Mozart whereas Anda does the reacting in behalf of the listener as well as himself. Nor is the orchestra Anda commanded as balanced with the paino playing as Wallenstein's.

Anda recorded the 17th and 21st of the concertos and the orchestra was that of the Mozart Academy of Salzburg (Deutsche Grammophon-LPM-18783.) Anda currently is on a concert tour of the United States, by the way, and getting enthused notices. Rubinstein recorded the 21st nand the 23rd (RCA Victor-LSC2634.)

The musicologic efforts to reconstruct the music of Henry Purcell reaches a new stage with a recording of his only piece we'd recognize as an opera, "Dido and Aeneas." This 17th century Englishman was undoubtedly a first - rank genius composer. The trouble is so little of his music has survived in the precise forms and instrumentations in which he created it.

The recorded Dido is of a scholarly reconstruction by Margaret Laurie and Thurston Dart on the basis of "adaptations" after Purcell's death.

The original score is lost. These adaptations they filled out with the conventions of rhythm and ornamentation in use in Purcell's time.

The result is quite convincing. It's an original creative voice you hear, and one which conveys so much human value in music it does emotional things to you. The operatic plot you can ignore. It is mythological junk. The recording was made by English singers and players conducted by Anthony Lewis (L'Oiseau-Lyre-60047.)

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — To those who do not understand Chinese, all songs sung in Mandarin or Cantonese sound alike. They all seem to have a high-pitched, monotonous sing-song effect.

There is always an exception, however. One listening to "Poon Sow King" (Capitol T-10326) is enough to convince the dubious that this artist has an unusual voice.

Miss Poon's voice does not have the irritating sing-song sound. Instead it is soft and resonant and sometimes throaty. The songs in this LP bearing her name are love ballads and it is not necessary to understand Mandarin Chinese to feel their meaning. These recordings should make her services in demand in the United States.

Vince Edwards, alias "Ben Casey," recently made a hit as a recording artist. This called for an encore, "Sometimes I'm Happy, Sometimes I'm Blue" (Decca DL 74336). Vince is convincing in the deft way in which he handles songs like "Harbor Lights" and "I Gotta Right to Sing the Blues."

Package of the Week — "Swing Street" (Epic SN6042). This is the music of New York's 52nd Street at the time it was the great avenue of the bands. The three LP's in this set includes numbers by many great 52nd St. artists, among them Ella Logan, Billie Holiday, Hot Lips Page and Dizzie Gillespie, to name a few.

Spoken Word — "Speaking Personally" by Bertrand Russell (Riverside 7014-7015). Earl Russell, one of the most brilliant and most controversial men of our time, talks about his boyhood and the many challenges he accepted in later years.

Mr. Wilson's War Factual Reporting

MR. WILSON'S WAR, by John Dos Passos (Doubleday $6.95): Dos Passos, although best known as a novelist, also has written a number of factual studies of people and periods in U.S. history. This book covers a span of 22 years, from the assassination to the death of Woodrow Wilson. The principal emphasis rests on 1917 and 1918, when America's participation in World War I forever changed this country's position in the world, for better or for worse. The book is not a condemnation of President Wilson, as its title might suggest of controversy among scholars.

The non - expert readers, however, will find it an informative and generally readable account of a critical period in U.S. history.

Selected Singles — "Hotel Happiness" by Brook Benton (Mercury 72055), "Make Believe You Do" by Larry Kirby (Todd 45-1080), "The Ballad of Lover's Hill" by Teresa Brewer (Philips 40077), "Maria Nobody" by Paul Winter Sextet (Columbia 4-42627).

For Christmas — "I Wish You a Merry Christmas" by Bing Crosby (Warner Bros. 1484). Bing's warmth is felt in this light selection of Yuletide songs.

LP's of the Week — Mono: "Steve Allen Presents 12 Golden Hits" (Dot DLP 3473). Allen softly keyboards such all - time favorites as "Deep Purple" and "Always." Stereo: "Two of a Mind" (RCA Victor LSP-2624). Saxophonists Paul Desmond and Gerry Mulligan work together on an easy-going but provocative jazz session.

Definitive Jefferson Biography

JEFFERSON AND THE ORDEAL OF LIBERTY. By Dumas Malone, Little, Brown. $7.50.

Malone's magnificent, multivolume biography, "Jefferson and His Time," rolls majestically along like the Potomac; or, if Mr. Jefferson would prefer, like the James.

The present volume extends from Washington's second administration, during which the President unhappily lost the brilliant services of his secretary of state through Jefferson's resignation, through the election of 1800 when Jefferson himself became President after a bitter ordeal.

The tremendous amount of information on every pertinent incident is what one would expect from a historian of the stature of Malone. But beyond this is the extraordinary judgment which he brings to every controversial point. Informing us without boring us, there is always the judicious comment, the caution against precipitate conclusions that makes him as fair to Jefferson's enemies as to the man himself. The climatic struggle with the forces typified by Alexander Hamilton is handled not as melodrama, but as credible history.

While the Sage of Monticello unquestionably is Malone's hero, he is a hero whom his biographer is wise enough to criticize when criticism is in order.

There is not likely to be another such comprehensive life of Jefferson in our time. And the present series must continue to come from the presses. It has been 11 years since the previous volume, "Jefferson and the Rights of Man," appeared. On the present scale, two more volumes are indicated. This must not be left an unfinished masterpiece. For that reason, more power to the Guggenheim Foundation and the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation for giving Malone the time he now apparently has to continue his great work without the interruptions that have slowed him in the past.

HERE'S HOW

Yule Enjoyment For Small Fry

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A Christmas party for small fry can be different from the rowdy round - ups they have at other times.

One traditional Swedish idea that could charm the little folk at the table may be easily put together by the home carpenter. What's more it'll make use of the outdoor sawbuck table and benches. A Yule canopy with peaked roof, a traditional reminder of the manger, with small birds dangling, may be put over the table for an enchanting effect. The idea may be swiped by adults for their very own Christmas breakfast or supper party.

The canopy is made from 1 by 4 inch wood strips and is covered with straw matting. It may be made as long as you want it across a table. If you can't find straw matting, use raffia or an old bamboo matchstick blind. As a last resource, try twine by lacing it to nails.

One put together recently by designer Amy Claridge had 10 birds hanging from it, the canopy supported by slim chains going to the ceiling. The rustic sawbuck table and benches that had been brought in from outdoors were cleaned and given a coat of yellow paint. Melmac flower - bordered plates in a peasant design and plain blue cups and bowls to match the napkins and table runner were used for a pretty effect

6 COMPLETIONS REPORTED

District Drilling Activity Levels During Past Week

Activity leveled last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District as drillers reported a total of just six completions in four north Louisiana parishes. Ouachita Parish was not among them, though three new locations were staked here, two in the Monroe Field, and one well was drilling.

Finals reported to District Manager Duncan S. Cook included two in Concordia Parish, a pair in Union, both around 2300 feet in the Monroe Field, and singles in Avoyelles and Tensas Parishes.

Counted among 16 new locations, besides the three in Ouachita Parish, were four staked in Catahoula Parish, three in Union, two each in Concordia and LaSalle, plus single sittings in Avoyelles and Rapides Parishes.

There were 22 wells actively drilling or testing in the 14 parishes. The Ouchahita Parish unit was drilling at 9112 feet in the Cheniere Field.

Cook's report showed other active rigs in Avoyelles Parish (two) Caldwell, Catahoula (two), Concordia, Grant (three), LaSalle (four), Rapides, Tensas (three), and Union Parish (two).

Two recompletions over the week came in Ouachita Parish, Southwest National Production Company's Bacon No. 1, in the Cheniere Field, and in LaSalle Parish, the Nebo Hemphill Field, Marine Props Inc's Girlinghouse No. 1.

Three wells were abandoned, setting the figure on inactive sites at 115, locations numbered 34 and 29 were drilling.

Here's Cook's listing on completions, new locations and active rigs:

COMPLETIONS

AVOYELLES PARISH, Wildcat Field—Pan Amer. Pet. Corp's. Southwestern Ime. Co. "B" no. 3, located in sec. 3-2-7E, depth 7715 ft.

CONCORDIA PARISH, Lake Curry Field — O'Brien Drilling Co.'s C. W. Harper et al no. 2, located in sec. 15-4-6E, depth 6215 ft.

Industry Boom For Eastern Areas Seen

NEW YORK (UPI)—James M. Symes, board chairman of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said Saturday night the proposed merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central may be the spark that sets off another heavy industry boom in the East.

"Our merged railroads may well spark and be the thrust behind resurgence of heavy industry all through the East," Symes said. "It's certainly one our main purposes — and we'll have the plant and service to back it up."

Symes and Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer, commander of U.S. forces in Europe, were selected for this year's Gold Medal award from the Pennsylvania Society in recognition of distinguished achievement.

He spoke at the society's 64th annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Lemnitzer could not be present and designated his son to receive his award for him.

The Society of Pennsylvania Women held their 49th annual dinner in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Society. Mrs. Gordon T. Boweden, president, and Mrs. Thomas M. Brown, vice president, acted as hostesses to wives of honored guests of the Pennsylvania Society.

There were an estimated 1,500 members and guests at the dinner and presentation of the Gold Medal awards, first offered in 1908 for distinguished achievement in all fields of endeavor.

Symes said that the benefits of the merger have been obscured, on purpose in some cases, by distorting the impact it will have on employment and service to customers and communities.

He said that while it was true one effect of the merger would be to eliminate 7,800 jobs within five years, the long-run effect will be to provide greater job security.

"Perhaps the most heartening of all would be the corrective effect of the merger on a very difficult and painful human situation," Symes said.

"I refer to the steady erosion of personnel, both employe and officer, that a combination of business conditions and wasteful duplication of plant and services has been doing so much to cause.

"Over the past 10 years a total of some 110,000 positions have had to be eliminated on the two railroads. Contrast this with the total of 7,800 positions the merger would be expected to eliminate in five years.

"Furthermore, the railroads are accepting the ICC (Interstate Commerce Commission) pattern of company-paid benefits for affected employes which are more liberal in scope and generosity than any available in other industries—benefits ranging up to four years at full pay for employes displaced."

Symes said that in the last five years, the Pennsylvania Railroad's industrial department has helped bring into Pennsylvania 553 new plants and assisted 272 other industries to expend their Pennsylvania facilities.

"You may be sure that . . . New York will benefit greatly, too," he added. "So will, in one way or another, all the states our two roads serve. How can a state do anything but benefit when two railroads that have served it for generations join forces to do an even better job for it?

"It is true that in side-by-side mergers like the Central and Pennsylvania, at places where the two railroads duplicate each other's plant and activities to the point of wastefullness, you begin by streamlining the plant and activities to prune away needless expense.

"Railroads have to be allowed to do that if they are to halt the decline in payrolls and earnings and re-establish their ability to compete for business with other railroads and other forms of transport," he continued.

"But that is definitely not a step backwards, a retreat, a surrender of our right to grow. It is a gathering up, a mobilizing of railroad plant, equipment, people and skills to accomplish two things—to pull the industry back from the brink of socialistic nationalization, to which continued deterioration could lead, and to head the industry back up the track to growth, increasing usefulness, and expanding job security and job opportunity for all."

He said the problem is especially severe in the East where many of the section's 40 railroads "are starving to death in one another's front yards, fighting desperately and unprofitably for business that a merged industry could handle efficiently and profitably."

RETIREMENT of C. L. Osterberger, vice president and sales manager of Louisiana Power & Light Co., has been announced for Dec. 31. He concludes 33½ years of sales promotion and management with the company and has headed the sales department since 1937.

New Wilcox Sand Field Now Official

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A new Wilcox sand oil field discovery was officiall in Wilkinson County Saturday at the J. F. Fancis' wildcat, the Wilbert & Son No. 1, sec. 4-3n-3w, located between the Rose Hill and North Lessley oil fields.

The new oiler flowed at the rate of 288 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 7,338-45.

American Petrofina Co. erected storage tanks at its Rankin County wildcat, the Rhodes Sowell No. 1, sec. 18-5n-5e, about six miles southwest of Pelahatchie.

The well had been tested for several days and flowed on various size chokes from a sand at 9,828-31 feet. Before the well was closed in for storage, it was flowing at the rate of 130 barrels of 44 gravity oil per day on a one-eighth inch choke.

The new pool opener has a second sand at 9,982-91 feet that swabbed an unestimated amount of 46 gravity oil with indications that this zone could make a pumping well.

In Adams County, David Crow erected storage tanks at his apparent new Wilcox sand discovery, the J. W. Parker Jr., No. 2, sec. 5-3n-5w, located in the southwest corner of the county. The well was reported to have flowed considerable oil from a sand at 6,840-42 feet.

The test apparently indicates the well can be completed as a new discovery.

Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co., opened a new producing pool in the South Thompson's Creek field of Wayne County at its USA No. 1, sec. 25-7n-9w. The well was reported to be pumping at the rate of 165 barrels of oil from a Rodessa sand at 12,013-22 feet. The new producer is a south offset to the discovery well of the field.

Cities Service Petroleum Co. is reported to be commencing production tests at its Greene County wildcat, the Robinson Land Co., No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w, located in the sand hill area. The well was drilled to a total depth of 13,057 feet and has seven inch casing set at 12,711 feet. The potential new field find recovered on drill stem test run in open hole considerable oil in zones at 7,876-97 feet and 11,358-77 feet.

Two closely watched wildcat tests drilled in Smith County. Triad Oil & Gas Co.'s Clarke No. 1, sec. 9-10n-15w is below 13,400 feet with reports that the well has logged oil shows. Same operators' second venture, the Stewart No. 1, sec. 29-1n-8e, drilled below 12,000 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw five new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In the Lazy Creek field of Pike County, Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. completed its Alexander unit No. 1, sec. 9-8n-8e, flowing at the rate of 348 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,682-92 feet.

Cotton Futures Very Active For Past Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Active futures on the New York Cotton Exchange closed the week 35 cents lower to $1.05 higher after nearer deliveries eased and more distant positions turned firmer.

The previous week, the range was 50 cents higher to $2.90 higher.

Interest in the past week was restricted pending developments on the price support outlook for next season. Other influences included increases in the government's payment-in-kind export activity, an improved spot market and some gains in the cotton goods market.

Most offerings came on profit-taking.

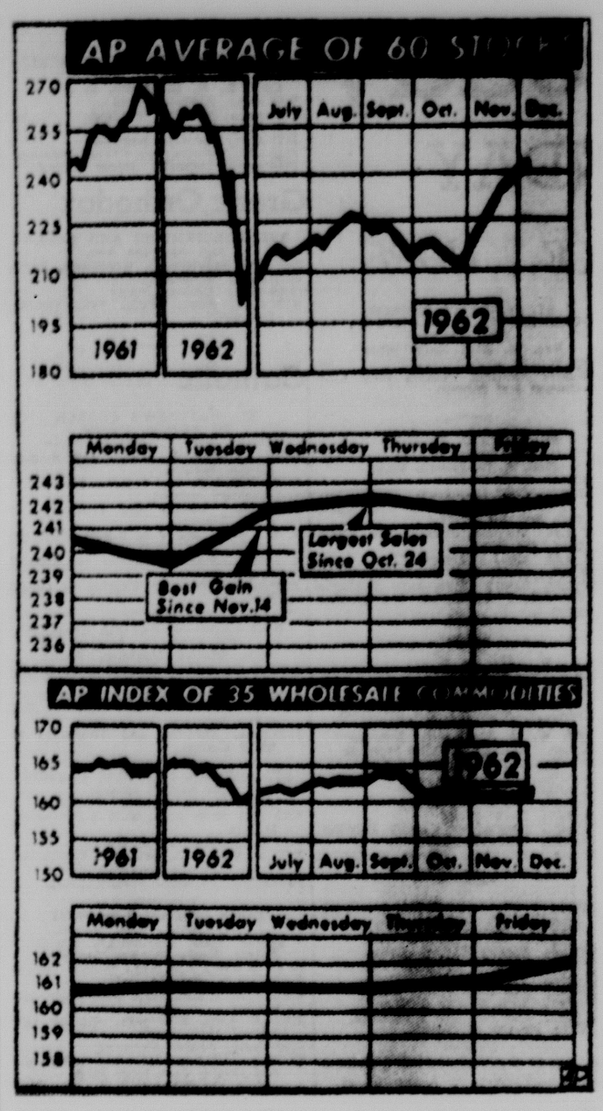
As the week closed, trade was looking toward the fifth official crop forecast due Monday. Most estimates were that the forecast will be close to the previous forecast of 14,533,000 bales.

Export sales for the week ended Tuesday picked up somewhat, aggregating an estimated 42,000 bales, the Cotton Exchange Service Bureau said. That compares with 26,000 the previous week and 81,000 the same week a year earlier.

APOCALYPSE

GENEVA (AP) — What is believed to be the largest book in the world, an edition of the Apocalypse, mystic and prophetical revelations made to St. John the Evangelist in the year 95 A.D., now is displayed in the Cour St. Pierre here under police guard.

The edition weighs 460 pounds and is valued at $460,000. Bound in bronze and studded with precious stones, its hand - written parchment pages include illustrations by such artists as Salvador Dali and Bernard Buffet.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks, advancing for the sixth straight week, closed Friday at 242.1 from 240.4 a week ago. The commodity index rose this week, closing at 162.0 from 160.9 a week ago. Industrials were conspicuous on the upside. (AP Wirephoto)

REVIEW PROBLEMS

Interstate Group Schedules Meeting

By MAX B. SKELTON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Interstate Oil Compact Commission meets Sunday for its annual four-day review of oil and gas conservation problems.

No controversial items are on the agenda for the 33-state advisory body but there has been indication some states may attempt to revive an old squabble over equitable sharing of domestic crude production by the various member states.

There also has been indication the commission may take its first formal stand on the Federal Power Commission's (FPA) area formula for controlling wellhead prices of natural gas.

Seven governors and Gov.-elect Jack M. Campbell, D-N.M., are to attend the Tuesday and Wednesday general sessions which follow two days of committee meetings.

The compact authorizing the commission to serve as a forum for interstate cooperation to prevent avoidable waste of oil and gas received its original approval from Congress in 1935. The commission can make recommendations but each member state can accept or reject.

Another request for a four-year extension of the compact is to be placed before Congress next year.

A subcommittee on equitable sharing of crude production was abolished a year ago after Wyoming, Montana and Utah charged other states, particularly Texas, with trying to dictate how much crude they could produce.

The 11-state executive committee was instructed to take over the work of the subcommittee and merely compile a statistical report on production trends in the individual states.

The first statistical report was placed before the mid-year meeting in June without comment from the executive committee. Another report is to be submitted Wednesday.

Texas officials have been among the leaders in the fight for a study on equitable sharing. They contend Texas has held back its crude production during the current world surplus of oil but that other states have not done so.

The FPC was commended at the commission's mid-year meeting in Omaha, Neb., for continuing efforts to expedite area gas pricing. Some compact officials, however, have indicated discouragement since the June meeting.

A. L. Porter Jr., Santa Fe, N.M., presented the June recommendation but several months later told the executive committee legislation is needed to remove FPC regulation of wellhead prices. Porter is chairman of the compact's area pricing study committee.

Richard C. Byrd, Topeka, Kas., told the executive group the area approach has resulted in prices being fixed at a maximum level with no provision for higher adjustments under appropriate conditions. Byrd is the compact's representative on the FPC's natural gas advisory council.

Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, D-Okla., is to make his report as commission chairman at Tuesday's general session. Other speakers will include Govs. Farris Bryant, D-Fla., Bert Combs, D-Ky., and William L. Guy, D-N.D.

Govs. Frank B. Morrison, D-Neb., John Anderson Jr., R-Kas., and Matthew E. Welsh, D-Ind., also have indicated they will attend.

Business Briefs

EXPANDS

General Gas Corporation has announced the extension of its retail marketing territory for liquefied petroleum gas throughout northern Alabama.

W. R. Pierson, president of General Gas, said that the company has organized a new, wholly owned subsidiary which has acquired the entire business and assets of three Alabama based companies. They are: Majure Gas Co., Inc., Majure Gas & Appliance Co., Inc., and Majure Transports, Inc. All three companies are engaged in the LP - gas distribution business in northern Alabama.

DIVIDEND

The Board of Directors of United Gas Corp. in Shreveport, has declared a fourth quarter dividend of 40 cents per share on the common stock, it was announced by Ed Parkes, president.

The dividend is payable on Jan. 2 to shareholders of record on Dec. 10, 1962.

SALES MEETING

Fred Fulton of Monroe, regional manager for King Merritt & Co., Inc., participated in a four-day sales manpower development program December 3-6 in Battle Creek, Mich., meeting with 16 other managers of King Merritt sales regions throughout the country.

King Merritt & Company is the sales and distribution organization for 11 mutual funds associated with Channing Corporation of New York City. They include three funds of Institutional Shares, Ltd., seven funds of Managed Funds, Inc., and Canadian International Growth Fund.

Grain Market Unchanged After Light Trading

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market showed little or no direction most of the time last week and nearly all contracts closed with relatively small changes.

Trade volume probably was the lightest of any week this year and except for a fairly good commercial demand from time to time influences were lacking. Activity was guided largely by tenders or the absence of them on December contracts in the pits.

Fear that these would be heavy in wheat appeared to have little fulfillment at week's end. In other commodities only a light volume was expected and only a light volume was forthcoming.

Except for soybeans, the broadest fluctuations during the period were in the December contracts where short interests worked toward evening up positions, usually at steady to firm prices. Soft spots were few.

The market for soybeans was virtually stationary most of the time, unusual for that commodity where activity normally is greater than in any other pit.

At the end of the week, wheat was 2½ cents a bushel higher to 1 cent lower, December $2.08⅜-½; corn ⅛ higher to ¼ lower, December $1.09⅛-¼; oats ¼-1⅛ higher, December 71-70⅞ cents; rye 1½-4½ higher, December $1.26⅜; soybeans unchanged to ½ lower, January $2.46⅛-46.

Mart Surge Rallies For Sixth Week

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market last week stretched its post - Cuban crisis rally through the sixth straight week but the upward progress obviously was getting slower.

The week's rise was the smallest of the six. The list was beginning to show the confusing cross-currents typical of December markets when long - term profit taking, tax - loss selling, switching, and other transactions are characteristic of the approaching year end.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week showed a modest gain of 2.80 at 652.10.

Volume slipped to 23,901,000 shares from 27,509,910 the week before.

Clear - cut gains were posted for the over - all market on only two of the five tradings days. One of these was a six-million-share session, the biggest volume day in six weeks, but it represented at least a temporary climax to the rally. Gains were clipped back drastically long before the close of that Wednesday session. The market went nowhere on the two remaining days.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week rose 1.7 to 241.1.

Some Wall Street analysts observed that the economic fundamentals have not changed in proportion to the huge advance in the stock market during the past six weeks and that most of the gains could be attributed to rebirth of confidence due to the solution of the Cuban crisis. In the week just past, sentiment was further bolstered by the fact that the Russians had begun taking their IL28 bombers out of Cuba.

Other news was somewhat mixed.

The stock market produced 765 gainers to 560 losers, among 1,475 issues traded last week.

General Motors, the stock with the biggest capitalization of them all, emerged from the week with a sizable gain of 1¾. American Telephone, whose stockholder family is the most numerous, staged an upside breakout of a seven - month - old resistance barrier, climbing 3⅞ to 118½.

Douglas Aircraft was a casualty, losing 1⅜ on news that its Skybolt missile may be discarded. Volatile Polaroid climbed 10⅛.

The bond market quietly rocked along in no particular direction during the week. Corporate bonds on the New York Stock Exchange registered slight price gains in moderate dealings. The over - all trend in U.S. Treasury bonds was down, though some issues posted small gains.

Corporate bond volume for the week came to $32,225,000 compared with $31.88 million the week before. Next week is expected to be the last big one of the year. There are heavy new offerings to be offered Tuesday.

Suit Attacks Segregation In State's Hotels

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A Sumter, S.C., Negro has filed a federal court suit aimed at knocking out Louisiana's hotel segregation law.

James T. McCain contended, in the action filed in U.S. District Court here Friday, that he had been refused a room at the Royal Orleans hotel, the city's newest deluxe hotel.

McCain asked that a special three-judge federal court be convened to enjoin enforcement of the state law that prevents rental of hotel room to Negroes, if whites are already occupying the building.

McCain said that the Royal Orlean had confirmed a telegramed room request Nov. 20 but refused to accommodate him when he appeared on Nov. 27.

Named defendants were Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, state Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion, Mayor Victor Schiro, police Supt. Joseph I. Giarrusso, the seven City Council members, assistant hotel manager Gerald Broderson and the hotel operators, Hotel Corporation of America.

McKee To Talk To Tech Group

RUSTON (Special) — Robert McKee, head of the programming for the Honeywell 800 computor system at Texas Eastern Corp. in Shreveport, will speak Tuesday at 7 p.m. at a meeting of the Louisiana Tech Asociation for Computing Machinery to be held in room B-9 of Kenny Hall here.

Topics to be covered in the talk include recent data processing management association certification, seeking a career in data processing, and problems of an integrated computer system, with emphasis on the human relations aspect.

The event is open to the public.

Clamor For Tax Cut Grows Loud During Past Week

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Clamor for an income tax cut — coupled in many quarters with a demand for reduced federal spending—grew louder during the week.

Some economists and business men said lower taxes would be a springboard to quick, sharp economic advance; others argued that a cushion against possible recession and long-term help to business were the best that could be expected.

Considerable disagreement was evident over the desired size of the proposed tax reduction and whether federal outlays should be limited to make up for the revenue loss.

Apparently it won't be long before there is an answer to what President Kennedy plans. He will make what is described as a major economic policy address to the Economic Club of New York on Dec. 14. It is considered likely that he will outline his tax plans.

Along with all of the tax talk there was a lot of economic predicting as 1962 moved into its last lap. The consensus of businessmen airing their views seemed to be that there are a lot of "ifs" ahead but little cause for either soaring hopes or disappointment.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said that, while business sentiment has improved, tax revision is needed "NOT because the economy would otherwise slide into a recession but because such action seems to be required to help strengthen the incentives for longer-term economic growth." It added that the prospect of a tax cut "makes restraint in government spending all the more desirable."

Calls for lower federal spending to accompany any tax cut were heard at a conference of the Tax Foundation, Inc., in New York City.

A survey of 209 economists in business, universities and government by F. W. Dodge Corp., a construction information service, showed the majority felt that a tax cut in the first quarter of next year was necessary for moderately good business in 1963.

Their outlook for next year was for slight change in the first half and moderate improvement in the second half.

A controversial tax issue—proposed new regulations on expense account deductions for entertainment, travel and gifts — got a thorough going over at a two-day hearing in Washington.

Businessmen complained that some restrictions would hurt their businesses and that stiff record-keeping requirements would be an intolerable burden.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin took some of the steam out of complaints at the outset by pledging a restudy of the regulations and promising a reasonable approach which would not interfere with legitimate business expense reductions.

A disappointing development was the rise in unemployment in November by 507,000 to 3,801,000, which raised the jobless percentage of the work force to 5.8 per cent from 5.5 per cent a year earlier.

Another dark spot was in business spending on plant and equipment, which the government said would dip in the first quarter of next year from the present record level. It would be the first drop since the second quarter of 1961.

New construction in November fell about eight per cent from the October level to $5.3 billion. The usual decline for this period is six per cent.

However, announcements of two big expansion projects brightened the capital expenditures picture. Bethlehem Steel Co. said it would enter the Midwest steel competition by building a $250-million steel-finishing plant near Chicago. And the Cadillac Division of General Motors Corp. announced an expansion and modernization of its Detroit facilities at an unofficially estimated cost of $55 million.

The booming pace of the automobile industry was illustrated when General Motors' Chevrolet Divison delivered its two-millionth car of the year—the first time one make had achieved that total.

New car sales for the year passed the six-million-mark during November with sales for the month totaling 657,124, a record for the month.

To meet the demand, production during the week established another weekly high for the year of an estimated 179,000 passenger cars. Output of 687,390 in November was the highest for the month since record 1955.

Steel output during the week amounted to 1,876,000 tons, up 1.7 per cent from the previous week.

Briefly around the business scene: Corporate dividend increases in November rose to 167 from 67 in October . . . Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges predicts a $2-billion deficit in the U.S. balance of payments this year.

MISSION FIELD

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Opportunities for Protestant work in Latin America are greater than the churches are able to handle, says Jessie M. Trout, field liaison executive secretary for the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ).

Back from a survey of the denomination's missions in South America, she told a meeting here: "We have struggled so long to get the doors open that we almost believed they would not open and now that they swing wide, we have neither money nor personnel to go in."

Bone Ailment Is Fatal For Opera Star

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Kirsten Flagstad, a Wagnerian soprano who thrilled music lovers around the world and starred for six years in New York's Metropolitan Opera, died Friday night. She was 67.

Friends of the family said death was caused by a bone ailment. Miss Flagstad became bedfast with hip trouble after returning home in January 1960 from a visit to the United States.

Energetic and superbly gifted, Miss Flagstad was a flaxen-haired women of 39 when she made her Metropolitan Opera debut as Sieglinde in 1935. She was the mainstay of the Met in the late years of the depression. She drew sporadic criticism later in her career by her decision to spend World War II in Norway, her Nazi-occupied homeland.

Miss Flagstad had been a patient for several months in the government-run Oslo hospital, Rikshospitalet.

"Her death is a great loss for us," said Supt. Gunnar Brunvoll of the Norwegian Opera. "We loved her both as our first chief and as a human being."

Miss Flagstad became the first chief of Norway's fledgling opera Feb. 3, 1958. She served until Aug. 1, 1960, when months of illness had taken their toll.

Brunvoll said the opera, by her request, would do nothing special to honor her memory.

By her wish also, the funeral will be simple. Details were not made public.

Drama Feature Of Prebyterian Youth Session

"The Cup of Trembling," a play by Elizabeth Berryhill, will be one of the features of the second Presbyterian Youth Convention for Senior High Young People in Louisiana held at the First Presbyterian Church, Baton Rouge, December 26-28, according to the Convention Chairman, the Rev. Robert E. Kilgore of Raceland.

The play is based on the life of Dietrich Bonhoeffer, the German minister who was executed in 1945 by the Nazi Government. The play attempts to deal in dramatic form with the story of the life of a man who, the author imagines, was very much like or might almost have been Bonhoeffer.

The drama is being presented by the Westminister players of the University Presbyterian Church, Baton Rouge, under the direction of Mrs. R. L. Carroll and includes L. S. U. students in the cast.

In charge of the lighting are Mr. James Stinchcomb and Bill Hopkins, both of Baton Rouge. In addition to the play, there will be five major addresses and 20 discussion groups for those attending the Convention.

Mrs. Richardson, 86, Succumbs; Rites Sunday

Mrs. Laurancla Richardson, 86, died Friday night at her home in Sicily Island after an extended illness.

She is the mother of Mrs. Janie Ellerbe of Monroe.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday in the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home in Monroe with the Rev. W. R. Cripps of Harrisonburg officiating. Interment will be in Hasley Cemetery in West Monroe.

Mrs. Richardson previously lived in the Twin Cities.

Other survivors include four other daughters, Mrs. Susie Gober, Sicily Island, Mrs. Palestine Ellerbe, both of Sicily Island, Mrs. Lenoa Sikes, Swartz; Mrs. Mary Smith, Jena; one son, Alford Richardson, Sicily Island; and a number of grandchildren and great - grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Robert Ola, Alfred Ola, Barney Brooks, John L. Duncan, C. W. Pauley and Douglas Bumpurs.

Griffin Attends Society Meeting

RUSTON (Special) — Robert Griffin of Stonewall represented the Louisiana Tech chapter of Pi Tau Sigma, honorary mechanical engineering society, ah the organization's national convention held recently in Lincoln, Nebr.

Seventy - five chapters from the United States conducted business meetings on the University of Nebraska campus. During the three days of the convention, delegates voted on constitutional amendments and heard reports of the chapter activities.

Pi Tau Sigma representatives toured the Hallam Nuclear Power Plant at Hallam, Nebr., as part of the program.

Library 'Friends' Schedule Meeting

The second organizational meeting to form a "Friend of Sandel Library" association will be held in the College Union Building on Thursday in Room 209 at 4 p.m. at Northeast Louisiana State College.

The public is invited. The aim of the group will be to support the growth of the College library. Memberships will consist of alumi, faculty, staff, and friends of the college.

Panel Calls For Major U.S. Foreign Service Personnel Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A blue-ribbon panel headed by former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter called Saturday for major U.S. foreign service personnel changes to meet the needs of 20th century diplomacy.

The Herter committee recommended:

1. Creation of a career-type executive under secretary of state to act as a manager in the State Department to see that policies and programs are carried out.

2. Establishment of a "national foreign affairs college," something like the present National War College for military officers, to give advanced schooling to civilians representing America abroad.

3. Strengthening the State Department's diplomatic career service and adding two sister career foreign services, one a "foreign information service" for the U.S. Information Agency and the other a "foreign development service" for the aid-administering agency for international development.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who initiated the privately financed study last year, hailed the proposals as of major significance but did not say whether they would be adopted.

Some of the Herter committee's secondary recommendations, out of a total of 43, are already being carried out. But the major changes would require legislation. Its fate in Congress would be uncertain.

The 161-page document was drawn up by Herter and 11 other distinguished citizens during a year of interviewing more than 1,000 persons and investigating 32 U.S. official posts around the world.

Costs were borne by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, the Ford Foundation and the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

Herter was secretary of state during the final months of the Eisenhower administration.

The report said an executive undersecretary of state should be set up in the State Department as No. 3 man.

State Rallies To Whip Indians, 79-56

Maroons Win On 2nd Half Scoring

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Northeast State's defending Gulf States Conference champions stamped themselves as the team to beat again this year by battling heavily favored Mississippi State down the wire through all of the first half and part of the second before falling 79-56 here Saturday night.

The final 23 - point victory margin was no indication of the game. The Maroons, defending champions of the Southeastern Conference and fifth ranked nationally, trailed 25-23 with 3:42 remaining in the first period and held leads of only one to three points on several occasions. The score was tied three times.

A quick scoring burst right before intermission gave State a slim 29-25 halftime edge.

At that it took some tremendous second half scoring antics for the Bulldogs to build up their final advantage.

Most of the offensive fireworks came from 6-4 forward Leland Mitchell who has been the Maroon's big gun in both their Louisiana games to date.

This time the Kiln, Miss. senior dumped in 34 points to lead all scorers and snared 19 rebounds, making him high man in this department too.

Seventeen of the All-SEC hooster's points came in the opening half when he was virtually all the offense the visitors could muster.

He was equally effective in the final stanza. This time Bobby Shows, a 6-7 center, and Stan Brinker, a 6-5 forward, helped him out, Shows ending the night with 13 points and Brinker with 12.

Junior forward Jimmy Walker paced Northeast's stubborn efforts, with 15 points. Milton Linder, the other forward, was second with 10, while little Irby Gamble got nine. Big Robert Cook paced the rebounding with 13.

Northeast hit 20 of 66 from the floor, compared to 26 of 52 for State. The Indians also dropped in 16 of 23 charity tosses, while the Bulldogs, seldom missing, hit 27 of 32. State held a 47 to 37 rebounding edge.

State took a quick 6-1 lead with only 2:69 gone in the opening period. Northeast closed the gap to 6-5 at 1:15 before the Bulldogs went to 12-6, their highest margin of the period.

Slowly the Tribe narrowed the gap and tied the score 15-15 with 7:46 remaining. State built a 21-17 advantage with 6:19 to go, but Northeast rallied on a pair of field goals by Linder and two Cook charity tosses to tie the score again at 3:59, 23-23 and went in front 25-23 on a Gamble floor shots seconds later.

Aubrey Nichols tied it up 25-25. Shows added a pair of gratis tosses and Mitchell sank a long jumper with one second left to give State a 29-25 margin at the half.

Northeast came to within two, 31-29, right after intermission, but the Bulldogs pulled away from there and led 47-33 with 11:58 remaining, a 14-point margin.

The Tribe narrowed it two nine with 6:51 to go, before State made its final big move.

Both Northeast Coach Lenny Fant and State mentor James (Babe) McCarthy indicated the game was a lot closer than the final score made it seem.

McCarthy said he felt his club had been in a tougher fight than it had experienced against Louisiana Tech two nights before and that one of the big factors was the difference in experience.

Fant said State didn't pull away until late in the game. He also pointed out a number of mistakes that hurt his team, but said the Indians played a fine game on the whole.

In the end, when the Bulldogs got hot, it was easy to see why they won the SEC last year. It was also obvious that the Indians would be hard to whip in the GSC.

Northeast will take a 4-3 season mark into its next game, a Monday night clash with William Carey here. Coach Fant, who will be attending the funeral of his sister, will miss the game, however.

McCarthy's Staters are now 3-0.

Kentucky Edges Temple Cagers By 56-52 Count

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kentucky's Wildcats fought for their lives against a Temple basketball team called inexperienced and green to eke out a 56-52 victory in the Palestra Saturday night.

In the first game of the double header St. Joseph's beat a Al bright 75-61.

A jump shot by Randy Embry with 1:22 left in the game broke a 52-old tie and put Kentucky in the lead for good. Temple missed the next shot and fouled Scotty Baesler who converted two free throws to sew it up.

The Owls battled from a 5-point deficit to go ahead 45-44 in the second half, after favored Kentucky led 34-30 at the half.

They held Kentucky's All-America candidate, Cotton Nash, to three field goals, but he wound up with 15 points, converting nine in 17 at the foul line. Baesler added 14.

Grambling Wins Own Cage Meet

GRAMBLING, La. (AP)—Grambling College won its invitational basketball tourney Saturday night by rolling over Southern University 113-73.

Texas Southern downed Arkansas AM&N 77-72 in the consolation match.

Favored Grambling cleared the bench for the second straight night Saturday night in scoring more than 100 points for the third time in four games this season. Hershell West scored 24 points to raise his total for the three-night tourney to 98 points.

Grambling led 47-42 at the half. Robert Love led Southern with 21 points.

Frank Yeals, who had 21 points for the night, paced Texas Southern but top honors went to James Allen of Arkansas AM&N who tallied 30 points. Arkansas AM&N played without James Blevin, who was hurt in Friday night's game.

In the losers' bracket, Wiley beat Mississippi Vocational 73-61 while Bishop downed Dillard 71-60.

Delta Rallies To Gain Win, 90-73

CLEVELAND, Miss. (AP)—Delta State overcame a 39-38 halftime deficit and pulled ahead to whip Louisiana College 90-73 Saturday night.

Delta opened with a swift series, but Louisiana College soon caught up and surged ahead. The lead changed hands several times before intermission.

Louisiana College's Richard Reese was high for the night with 25 points, while Chuck Preston paced the losers with 20.

Unitas Sparks Baltimore Win

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Colts, sparked by the touchdown passing of Johnny Unitas, exploded for three scores in the final period Saturday to beat the Washington Redskins 34-21 in a see-saw Memorial Stadium battle witnessed by 56,964.

The inter - division National Football League game was a duel between master passers Unitas and Washington's Norm Snead, with all the touchdowns but one scored via the air.

Unitas, recapturing the form that made him an all-pro and playing perhaps his best game of the season, threw for four touchdowns and set up another with a 22-yard run. He also established a new completion record for himself, hitting on 25 of 36 passes for a total of 367 yards.

Snead, in only his second year with the NFL, passed for three touchdowns and kept pace with Unitas until the Colts' big last quarter. Snead's record for the day was 18 out of 33 for a total of 351 yards.

Washington scored first in the initial quarter on an 85-yard Snead pass to Leroy Jackson. Baltimore bounced back to take the lead early in the second on two Unitas touchdown passes to Jimmy Orr of 11 and 59 yards.

But with less than two minutes remaining in the first half, Snead connected on a 17-yard pass to Fred Dugan to send the teams to their dressing rooms with the score deadlocked, 14-14.

Washington took the lead again in the third quarter when Snead once more hit Dugan, this time on a 20-yard scoring pass. Baltimore then broke loose for the three touchdowns in the final quarter on Unitas' passes to Dick Bielski for 11 yards and to Orr for 23 yards and a 2-yard run by halfback Alex Hawkins after Unitas set the score up on a 22-yard quarterback sneak.

Although Orr caught three touchdown passes, all-pro end Ray Berry who was hampered most of the season with a bad leg, appeared to recapture his old form and contributed heavily, too, in the receiving department.

Local Fighters Battle To Draw In YMCA Meet

EL DORADO, Ark. (Special)—The Twin Cities YMCA Boxing Club of Monroe and West Monroe battled to a draw with the El Dorado, Ark., Boys Club here Friday night in the first team outing for the YMCA group.

The El Dorado boys club took four bouts from the visitors while the Monroe YMCA squad took the other four. Team points were on a won - loss basis.

A return match between the same two organizations is scheduled to be held in Monroe sometime after the first of the year. The exact date of the match will be announced later.

Two of the local club's victories came from TKO's and the other two from unanimous decisions.

John Giambelluca took a TKO win over Tony Porter in the first round of their match. Giambelluca weighs in a 175 - pounds while his opponent tipped the scales at 200.

Jewel McBroom, 190 - pounds, got Monroe's other TKO win, defeating Lee Roy Man, 215, in the third round.

Also winning for the local YMCA team was Charles Many who topped Bury Jacobs and David Adams who won over Buddy Smith.

El Dorado winners were Butch McCoy who stopped Ronnie Horton; Mac Michale with a victory over Lance Reagan; Bill Ward winning from Chelsey Rockett and David who defeated Johnny Farley.

Billy Ray Shoots Demon 5 To Win

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Freshman Billy Ray's field goal with 20 seconds left broke a 69 - 69 deadlock in a game tied 13 times to set up Northwestern's State's 73 - 69 victory over Nicholls State Saturday night.

Another freshman, Kenny Arthur, dropped in two foul shots after Ray's basket to clinch the victory.

The widest spread of the night came midway in the second half when Nicholls led 53 - 47.

Ray was high scorer with 22 points, followed by Nicholls' Jack Barton with 20.

Melear Carries Virginia Tech To Win, 77-71

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Senior guard Lee Melear tossed in seven key points in an overtime Saturday night to help Virginia Tech to a 77-71 Southern Conference win over upset-minded William and Mary.

With the regular time score tied at 65-65, Melear pumped in a field goal and added five free throws during the overtime which never saw Tech headed.

William and Mary, behind the fancy shooting of guards Dave Hunter and Roger Bergey, gave Tech a fight it didn't expect. It was Bergey's jump shot in the final seconds of the regular game time that sent the contest into extra time.

Howard Pardue, Tech's sharpshooting forward from Jonesville, N.C., kept Tech's hopes alive in the contest. Pardue scored 18 points in the second half after managing only five before halftime.

William and Mary led at the half, 29-27, and Tech was behind as much as eight points at one time.

William and Mary, which figured to be the Southern Conference doormat this season, threatened to end Tech's home stand win streak at 37 games. It was Tech's third win in a row this year and the Indians' second loss in three games.

OFF BENCH

McNabb Sparks Tech Past Ole Miss, 81-73

RUSTON (Special) — Junior guard Ron McNabb came off the bench late in the first half here tonight to spark Louisiana Tech to a 81-73 victory over Ole Miss to give the Bulldogs their first victory and hand the Rebels their first loss.

The win gives Tech a 1-1 record and Ole Miss a 2-1 record for the campaign.

McNabb who has been injured, entered the game in the final three minutes of the first half and his three straight baskets pushed Tech to a 40-36 halftime lead.

Donnie Kessinger, Rebel guard who was averaging 31 points per game pumped in 23 here Saturday night to take game scoring honors. Sophomore center Jerry Hood led the Tech team with 22 points.

Mel Edmonds had 14 - points, Bill Bolton, 13 and Robert Krelein 11 for Ole Miss. Ray Penny had 12 and David Hruska 11 for the Techsters.

The first half was close all the way with McNabb's three fielders giving Tech its halftime margin. McNabb hit five of five field goals for the night and seven of seven free throws.

Tech out rebounded Ola Miss 42-29 with Hood taking 13 off the boards.

The Techmen pulled away midway of the final half when, with a 52-50 lead, the Bulldogs streaked for eight straight points. McNabb hit two fielders, Hood one and Joe Abendroth one and the Rebels could not get within six points thereafter.

Both teams were hot from the field shooting identical percentages of 49.1.

Texas Topples Tulane, 81-72 For Third Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Combining speed, height and depth, Texas spurted to a 17-point halftime lead, then held off a Tulane rally for an 81-72 victory Saturday night.

Texas, favored to capture the Southwest Conference championship this season, rotated nine players of almost equal ability, including four who were 6 feet 7 or taller.

Seven Texans scored at least 8 points, with Mike Humphrey, a 6-foot-8 junior, setting the pace with 14 points.

Tulane's Jim Kerwin, making his first appearance of the season after sitting out two games with a leg injury, led all scorers with 26 points. But the 6-foot-3 senior connected on only 8 of 30 shots from the sloor.

The game was close until midway in the first half, when Texas took advantage of fancy shooting and sloppy Tulane ball handling to move ahead steadily. The Texans' 50-33 halftime lead was their biggest of the evening.

It was the third straight Texas victory and Tulane's second loss in three outings.

Monterey Wins Vidalia Tourney

VIDALIA (Special) — Monterey defeated Block of Jonesville, 58-52 here Saturday night to take the boys title in the Vidalia Invitational Tournament while Ferriday defeated Monterey, 38-28 to take the girls title.

Joan Manchester led the Ferriday girls with 20 - points in the final game and Chris Rhodes scored 25 - points to pace the Monterey boys.

In consolation action, Block downed Central of Larto, 47-31 in girls play and Ferriday beat Sicily Island, 45-37 in the boys division.

Buckeye Five Uses Defense To Win Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Unbeaten Ohio State slapped on a tenacious defense and got its offense rolling in the second half to hand third ranked West Virginia its first defeat 76-69 Saturday night. It was the Bucks' fourth straight.

The Buckeye defense repeatedly stole the ball and broke up the Mountaineers' crack fast break. Rod Thorn, who scored 24 points for West Virginia, had numerous driving layups deflected and the Buck defense converged on him.

The teams battled on nearly even terms in the first half with the score being tied six times and changing hands on nine occasions. The Mountaineers, however, pulled to their biggest lead just before the halftime buzzer, 37-34.

Thorn boosted the lead to 39-35 in the opening minutes of the second half, but then the Ohio State offense became as devastating as its defense.

With Jim Doughty, Dick Reasbeck and Gary Bradds carrying the load the Buckeyes got a 47-44 lead and were never headed again. Bradds was high with 19.

Bengals Down Winless Rice Cagers, 90-82

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Ellis Cooper and Sam Chase combined for 55 points Saturday night to pace Louisiana State to a 90-82 victory over winless Rice, which absorbed its fourth loss.

Cooper, a senior, reached his career high of 30 points while Chase had 25 in one of his better efforts in two varsity seasons.

LSU took a close margin in the opening minutes, drew to a 53-42 halftime edge and then went cold in the second half after building up a 20-point advantage. Rice's hustle and poor LSU passing dropped the lead to as low as seven points in the final three minutes.

From the floor, LSU shot 41 per cent to Rice's 37 per cent. LSU held a 64-43 edge in rebounding.

Larry Phillips was high for Rice with 23 points while Kendall Rhine had 19.

Retirement Of Meyer Accepted By TCU Board

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The retirement of L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, long-time athletic director at Texas Christian University, was approved by school officials Saturday and Coach Abe Martin assumed the additional duties of athletic director.

The move will become effective June 1.

"Mr. Meyer's desire to retire at this time was accepted at his insistence," said Chancellor M. E. Sadler. "He's a grand person who has devoted almost his entire life to TCU. We felt we should respect his wishes."

Meyer will continue in the capacity as "consultant" in athletics, but without a regular salary.

Meyer was a waterboy for the Horned Frogs football team in 1907, when the school was located in Waco. He entered TCU in 1917 and earned 11 varsity letters in football, basketball and baseball. He was captain of three teams.

He became the TCU freshman coach in 1923 and head coach in 1934.

Martin, who was graduated from TCU in 1931, moved up from an assistant's post to the head coaching job when Meyer retired from coaching in 1953.

Duke In Victory Over Maryland Cagers, 92-56

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Art Heyman poured in 32 points before leaving with 6:30 to play and Jeff Mullins added 21 Saturday night to lead Duke to a 92-56 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball rout of Maryland.

The victory was the third straight for the unbeaten Duke Devils, the nation's No. 2 team. The loss was Maryland's third this season and extended the Terps two-season string to 11 games.

Duke jumped into a 27-10 lead in the first 11 minutes before a Maryland spurt cut the margin to 30-25, only to have Duke run up a 42-27 lead at halftime.

Duke scored 19 successive points in the second half to double the score at 68-34, Heyman supplying seven to spark the spree.

WITH LOW BLOW

Griffith Retains Title On Technical Knockout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—World welterweight champion Emile Griffith hung onto his title Saturday night after a tumultuous ninth round in which he scored a technical knockout over Jorge Fernandez of Argentina on a low blow that left the crowd in the Las Vegas convention Center in an uproar.

The champion from New York was awarded the fight when the challenger decided he could not continue after a blow to the groin felled him.

In what had been a bruising and close fight, Griffith was ahead on points at the end of the eighth round.

Griffith caught Fernandez with a savage right that was officially labelled low. It apparently hit him on the protective cup.

Fernandez crumpled quickly to the mat and rolled over in obvious agony.

The challenger's handlers stormed into the ring as Referee Harry Krause hesitated.

Griffith retreated to his corner and then a stormy scene developed in the ring.

At one stage the fallen fighter was completely alone as his manager, Frankie Jacobs, and chief handler, Chickie Ferrara, rushed to the side of the ring to argue with the chairman of the Nevada Boxing Commission, Jim Deskin.

Deskin had to pull out his rule book and thumb through the chapters as the crowd kept up an uproar and Fernandez remained prostrate.

On the advice of the commission physician, Dr. Donald Romeo, and under the rules, Fernandez was given five minutes to recover.

Additional time would have been given but Fernandez himself weakly said he was unable to continue.

Under the Nevada regulations, when a fight is ended by an accidental punch of this sort, the fighter ahead on points receives the victory.

After eight rounds, the referee had Griffith ahead by three points. Judge John Romero had it even and the other judge, Bill Stremmel, had the Champion in front by three points.

Many minutes passed before Fernandez was helped out of the ring.

Griffith had floored Fernandez in the seventh round with an overhand right to the jaw. It was almost like a delayed reaction as the 27-year-old Argentine hit the canvas a split-second after the punch landed.

The mandatory eight-count rule was in effect but the crowd set up a roar of disapproval because Fernandez regained his feet almost as quickly as he hit the floor.

The national television audience was probably as confused as the crowd here when the long debate began on what to do and how to judge the finish.

It was Deskin who finally instructed the referee on the proper procedure and also told the ring announcer, Dick Porter, of the exact announcement to be made.

Most of the announcer's words were drowned out and minutes passed before the official time of the knockout was ascertained. It was 1 minute, 34 seconds of the ninth.

ANNOUNCEMENT, CALL, TALKS

LSU Topic Dominating Rebel's Family Night

The affair, sponsored by the school's Quarterback Club was held in honor of the Rebels' varsity, junior varsity and freshman football teams with LSU's Jimmy Field and Bo Campbell as special guests.

With KNOE-TV Program Director Harry Arthur serving as master of ceremonies, the audience sat in on a long distance call with Stovall, who was named Back - of - the - Year in college football Saturday, in New York.

Arthur announced the signing of four West Monroe athletes to scholarships. Howard May signed with the University of Southwestern while Mike Shepherd, Charles Van Zile and Richard Jones became a part of the LSU recruiting program Saturday shortly after noon.

Field and Campbell, both seniors with the Tiger squad who will be winding up their college gridiron careers New Years Day along with Stovall in the Cotton Bowl against Texas, told the group of West Monroe players, their parents and members of the sponsoring organization of their impressions of the importance of football.

During the introduction of guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stovall, parents of the 194 - pound "everybody's All - American," drew an extra round of applause from the appreciative audience.

In the telephone conversation which was carried over the loud speaker so each of the 350 attending could hear, Coach Dan McClure expressed the sentiments of the school and the city with the statement, "Jerry, we just want you to know that we are all proud of you."

Field and Campbell each congradulated the senior pre - dental student who starred at West Monroe on his selection as back of the year.

The City of West Monroe is planning a "Jerry Stovall Day," January 19, sponsored by the West Monroe Optimist Club.

Stovall said in the conversation that he knew a week ago that the three West Monroe players would be offered scholarships but was asked, "not to say anything about it."

Van Zile, Shepherd and Jones were signed by LSU assistant coach Bill Beall Saturday afternoon five minutes after recruiting opened for the Southeastern Conference colleges at noon.

Field listed seven attributes gained from football competition including team loyality, confidence, friendship, the proper evaluation of sacrifice, the development of character, an education and increased religious respect.

Campbell prefaced his remarks by saying, "For the past three years I have been substituting for Jerry on the football field and now I'm subing for him here tonight." Campbell and Stovall are both left halfbacks with the Bengal machine.

A pre - law major, Campbell drew the crowd's approval after pointing out that he prepped at Byrd in the same 1-AAA district with West Monroe and played against the Rebels then added he was glad to see "all the friendly faces."

Campbell pointed out he felt football was a scale for personal evaluation and that playing at LSU had allowed him to work for his college education and therefore value it more highly.

Asked about the coming Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Tex., against the Longhorns, Stovall pointed out, "Well, they say we are a three and one - half point favorite but we were two point favorites over Ole Miss." Ole Miss handed the Tigers their only defeat of the season while compiling a 8-1-1 record under new head coach Charlie McClendon.

Stovall said he thought the game would "be a good one," because the teams were so evenly matched. He referred to Texas' All-American guard Johnny Treadwell, a 200 - pounder as "a big fellow who gets after people."

Campbell counteres in the conversation with the remark: "We have some big ones who can get after people too."

McClendon Signs Outstanding Stars

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Charles Yeldon McClendon added a few more stars to his crown Saturday as he snared six of Louisiana's top high school backs for grant-in-aid scholarships at Louisiana State University.

McClendon, who took over at LSU after Paul Dietzel departed for Army and then directed the Bengals to an 8-1-1 mark and a Cotton Bowl bid, personally signed Holy Cross halfback Gawain DiBetta in New Orleans one minute after the 12 noon starting time for Southeastern Conference schools.

Then McClendon went to Bogalusa and signed the Lumberjacks stellar quarterback, Greg Honaker.

The Tigers also got quarterbacks Nelson Stokley of Crowley, David Bourgeois of Terrebonne in Houma, Lloyd Christ of Lake Charles LaGrange, and halfback Charlie Van Zile of West Monroe.

McClendon said he felt DiBetta, a 5-foot-9, 170-pounder, who was the top scorer in triple-A football this season, was one of the finest prospects in the state.

"DiBetta had a chance to go just about anywhere," said McClendon.

Tommy O'Boyle, who went through a winless campaign in his first season as Tulane head coach, said his recruiting was off to a good start.

O'Boyle's top plum was fullback Mike Findley of CBC High School in Memphis, Tenn. Findley, a 6-foot-1, 195-pounder, was one of the most-highly sought after players in Tennessee.

Some prospects for LSU and Tulane are still involved in prep playoff games and can not sign under Louisiana High School Athletic association rules.

LSU signees:

Backs—Gawain DiBetta, 5-9, 170, Holy Cross (New Orleans); David Bourgeois, 5-10, 155, Terrebonne (Houma); George Bourgeois, 5-10, 180, Terrebonne; Charles Partin, 6-10, 185, Jennings; Nelson Stokley, 5-11, 170, Crowley; Charles Van Zile, 5-11, 170, West Monroe; Greg Honaker, 5-11, 170, Bogalusa; Ozzie Bosarte, 5-11, 170, Pascagoula, Miss.; Murphy Arcemont, 6-0, 185, Morgan City; Lloyd Christ, 6-0, 190, LaGrange (Lake Charles).

Linemen—Bill Bofinger, 6-1, 206, Lee (Baton Rouge); Robert O'Brien, 6-2, 200, Warren Easton (New Orleans); Ronnie Manton, 5-11, 215, Brookhaven, Miss.; Richard Jones, 6-3, 215, West Monroe; Mike Sheppard, 6-1, 208, West Monroe.

John DeMarry, 6-2, 210, LaGrange; Jerry Esthay, 6-2, 210, LaGrange; Max Esthay, 6-1, 227, LaRose-Cutoff; Kenneth Bizier, 6-0, 190, LaRose-Cutoff; Henry Powell, 6-2, 250, Bogalusa; Fran Honaker, 6-3, Slidell; Teddo Thomas, 6-3, 200, Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Tulane signees:

Backs—Al Higgins, 6-0, 194, Holy Cross; Randy David, 6-?, 180, Slidell; Mike Findley, 6-1, 195, Memphis, Tenn.; Wayne Chisenhall, 5-10, 180, Foley, Ala.

Linemen—Don Capretz, 6-0, 180, Holy Cross; Bill Bailey, 5-11, Holy Cross; Lee Fritchie, 6-2, 195, Slidell; Ron Helton, 6-3, 190, Foley, Ala.; Carl Campbell, 6-0, 205, Mobile, Ala.; Jim Wright, 6-3, 225, Paducah, Ky.

Stovall, Other All-Americas Talk Of Future

NEW YORK (AP)—They aren't planning to play for free by any means, but money isn't everything to the big college football stars who are weighing rival pro offers.

Many big name players, including five All-Americas, made it clear today that there are many other factors that could influence their decisions either to sign with the National Football League or its young rival, the American Football League.

Most were drafted by teams in both.

These are some sample opinions:

Glynn Griffing, Mississippi quarterback: "A lot depends on the players on the club you're thinking of joining. How young are they? Who's at your position?"

Lee Roy Jordan, Alabama center: "One of the big things is the location of the team."

George Saimes, Michigan State fullback? "A 'no cut' contract could be a factor."

Bobby Bell, Minnesota tackle: "Where you plan to make your home can be important."

Jerry Stovall, Louisiana State halfback: "Most of us want to know which team offers the most security for the four or five years ahead, or however long you plan to play pro ball."

And there's Pat Richter, Wisconsin end, who has to decide whether he wants to play pro football or baseball, before he thinks about which team he will join.

"When it's football season I lean toward football, and when it's baseball season, I lean toward baseball," Richter said.

Many of the college stars are here to appear on television programs and collect honors.

Griffing, drafted by the New York Giants of the NFL and the Houston Oilers as a future choice last year said: "You have to weigh the advantages of each club. I majored in business administration, with emphasis on advertising, and New York is the center for that, so playing here might help my future. You have to remember you're not going to play football forever.

"And several Mississippi players have come on to New York and enjoyed playing here.

Eberly Stars In 46-12 Bowl Win

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Quarterback Terry Eberly fired three touchdown passes and scored twice himself Saturday to lead West Chester Pa. State to a 46-12 rout of Hofstra in the first Cement Bowl football game.

Eberly amazed a crowd of 6,000 with his faking and passing. He completed 14 of 18 attempts for 203 yards, including a pair of touchdowns to Max Micsion and another to Roger Augenbaugh.

The 5-foot-9 180-pounder also picked up 25 yards on the ground, scoring on runs of 2 and 1 yard.

Joe Iacone, the Rams little All-America fullback pushed his season's scoring total to 114 points with two touchdowns and a pair of 2-point conversions.

COTTON BOWL

LSU, Texas Are About Even In Season's Play

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Cotton Bowl teams—Texas and Louisiana State—hit the practice field Monday to start preparations for their Jan. 1 clash.

They will work until Dec. 22, take out for the Christmas holidays and return to their respective fields at Austin and Baton Rouge Dec. 26.

As the two teams put on the moleskins once more, the fans will be somewhat amazed at their similarity. The statistics bear out statements of coaches whose teams played them both.

Coach Jess Neely of Rice and Coach Hank Foldberg of Texas A&M said they figured it would be as evenly matched as possible to arrange.

In winning nine games and tying one to take the Southwest Conference championship and host spot in the Cotton Bowl, Texas rolled up 2,860 yards—an average of 286 yards per game.

Louisiana State, in compiling an 8-1-1 record, ran and passed to 2,679 yards—an average of 267.9. That's a difference of only 18.1 yards—just about as much as Jerry Stovall, the LSU All-America, might make on one of his runs.

Defensively, Texas allowed 211.0 yards per game, while Louisiana State gave up 206.2. That's a difference of 4.8—just about as much as Johnny Treadwell, the Texas All-America guard, might throw Stovall for a loss.

Top runner of Louisiana State is Stovall, who racked up 368 yards on 89 runs. Ray Poage, the Texas fullback, leads the Longhorns with 452 yards on 141 carries while Tommy Ford is close behind with 424 yards. Texas, however, as a team has only three yards more on the ground than LSU.

Tommy Wade led Texas passers with 434 yards on 33 completions. Lynn Amadee of Louisiana State connected on 24 for 457 yards.

Both teams ran more than twice as much as they passed.

While Texas has a bulge in offense and LSU a margin in defense the difference isn't enough to indicate superiority for either team.

Reckon they'll play to a tie?

Weston Boys In Tourney Victory

SIKES (Special) — Weston's boys and Winnfield's girls raced to victories in the finals of Sikes annual cage tournament climaxed Saturday night.

In the boys championship game, which Weston won, 56-47, Johnny Peel hit 20 for the winners and Connie Rolen netted 19 for the losers.

Winnfield was led to its, 75-38, girls victory by three hot - shots. Phillis Love was high with 32, Diane Maxey poked in 23 and Linda Dalby chipped in 20-points.

In semi - final action, Weston won, 45-34, over Sikes and Winnfield advanced by downing LaSalle, 44-25, in the two girls tilts. In boys play, Sikes got by Calvin, 76-59, and Weston won from Jena, 48-40.

Beekman Wins Swartz Tourney; Both Divisions

Beekman's boys and girls swept to championships in both divisions of the Swartz Junior High basketball tourney Saturday night.

The Beekman boys topped Bastrop, 46-23, to get their title as Coody fired in 15 - points. Sally Laing bombed in 27 - points to spark her sextet to a, 29-14, victory over Swartz in the other title match.

In consolation games, Jefferson downed Woodlawn, 30 - 7, with Janie Johnson's 13 - points. Lee won the boys consolation by stopping Fiske Union, 34-30, as Harry Smith netted 12 for the winners.

In semi - final matches, Swartz won, 33-21, over Woodlawn and Beekman advanced by beating Jefferson, 33-14, in girls games.

In boys semi - final tilts, Beekman won over Lee, 40-12, and Bastrop topped Fiske Union, 24-23.

When Carry Back won the Metropolitan Handicap at Aqueduct this spring he replaced Swoon's Son as the fourth leading money earner in thoroughbred history. The win made Carry Back the fourth equine millionaire in history with $1,009,153.

PETE RUNNELS

AL Batting Star To Appear Here

American League batting champion Pete Runnels has accepted an invitation to be an instructor at the first annual Optimist Club Boys Baseball Clinic to be held in Monroe the second weekend in February.

Plans for the clinic were announced today by Bob Carter and Bob Anderson, co - chairman of the Optimist project.

Runnels won the junior circuit batting title the past summer with a .326 average. It was his second batting championship. A versatile athlete, Runnels has played extensively both at second and first base during his career with the Boston Red Sox.

A native Texan, Runnels was recently traded to the Houston Colts of the National League.

Many other major league stars from Louisiana and nearby states have been invited to the clinic. Also, numerous major league scouts have promised to attend the clinic and act as instructors and advisors, among them Jess Landrum of the New York Yankees, Tony John of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Bill Pierre of the Detroit Tigers, George Digby of the Red Sox, and Harry Strohm of the Washington Senators.

The Monroe American Legion Post, owners of Legion Stadium, have given permission for use of that facility for the clinic.

Boys from little leaguers through high school and Legion Baseball players from Monroe and the surrounding area are invited to attend the clinic.

A full schedule of clinic activities will be released later when final plans are made. Clinic sessions are tentatively scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 9, and another the following day.

The clinic will be paid for from proceeds of the Optimist Club's annual money - raising project, Christmas tree sales. The club is operating two Christmas tree lots currently on North 5th and North 18th streets.

U. S. Sweeps Into Philippine's Tourney Lead

MANILA (AP) — The ubeaten U.S. basketball team swept into first place in the Philippine Invitational Tournament inflicting the first defeat upon the Canadian Nationals 69-38 Saturday night.

The standings through games of Saturday:

	Won	Lost
United States	4	0
Canada	4	1
Puerto Rico	3	1
Philippines	2	2
China	1	3
Spain	1	3
Australia	0	5

It was the fourth straight victory for the American quintet, which was led by Don Kojis, who scored 17 points, and Mike Moran who tallied 15.

The defeat, following four straight triumphs, dropped the Canadian five into second place. The Canadians were held to only 14 points in the first half and fared little better against the solid defense set up by the U.S. team in the second half.

AGAINST SAN FRANCISCO

Green Bay Can Clinch Tie For Division Title

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers can nail down a tie for their third straight crown in the National Football League's Western Conference Sunday with a victory over the perking San Francisco 49ers or they can win the title outright if the second-place Detroit Lions should unaccountably fall before the Minnesota Vikings.

These are the two alternatives that Coach Vince Lombardi's defending NFL champions face if they hope to take another step toward a second straight title game against the New York Giants. The Giants, who play the Cleveland Browns, clinched the Eastern Conference title last week.

One unhappy alternative faces the Packers, who had threatened to make a shambles of the western race only three weeks ago. A loss to the 49ers and a Detroit victory would tie the two for the lead, each with one game left. Green Bay winds up against the Los Angeles Rams and the Lions face the Chicago Bears next week.

The Pittsburgh Steelers (7-5) are second and play in Philadelphia against the Eagles (3-8-1), needing a pair of victories in their final two games to insure the trip to Miami. Cleveland, in third place at 6-5-1, will try and halt the Giants seven-game winning streak, while the Dallas Cowboys, fifth with a 5-6-1 record, play the St. Louis Cardinals (2-8-1).

Washington's Redskins, also aiming for a second-place finish, played at Baltimore Saturday.

In the Western Conference, the Los Angeles Rams (1-10-1) are at Chicago (7-5).

Green Bay, 11-1, had to scrap to get by the 49ers 31-13 in the first meeting this year. San Francisco monopolized the game offensively for most of the first half and led in the third period until worn down by the Packers' defense and the running of fullback Jim Taylor.

Taylor, the top ground gainer and scorer, gained 166 yards in the first meeting. He may get more help from Paul Hornung, who came out of last Sunday's victory over Los Angeles without aggravating the damaged right knee that shelved him for six weeks.

The 49ers, with John Brodie now established as the No. 1 quarterback, have won three in a row for a 6-6 record, but had a victory streak of three games snapped in their first meeting with the Packers.

The Lions (10-2), still buoyed by their sound victory over Green Bay on Thanksgiving Day, have a six-game victory string. They also have solid relief strength for quarterback Milt Plum in Earl Morrall, who has bailed them out twice in three games, including a 17-6 victory against the Vikings three weeks ago.

New York Coach Allie Sherman has promised no let-up by his team, now winners of seven straight, even though their second straight title is clinched. He will start veteran quarterback Y. A. Tittle and his other regulars against the Browns, though he has indicated that his reserves will get considerable duty.

Cleveland holds one of the two decisions over New York so far, beating the Giants 17-7 in the seasons first game. Cleveland's quarterbacking has become solid with the passing of Frank Ryan, but the running game — Jimmy Brown—must conquer the Giants' tough defense.

The Steelers will have Ed Brown at quarterback again but must cope with a rejuvenated Eagles' attack that has been successful in two games with former world sprint champion Frank Budd at flanker and Tim Brown handling the running.

Don Meredith is expected to have more help from veteran Eddie LeBaron at quarterback for Dallas, despite his near-perfect job in helping beat the Browns last week. He completed 10 of 11 passes. The Cards haven't won since defeating Dallas 28-24 Oct. 28, a five-game stretch.

Billy Wade, whose 2,777 yards gained passing is second only to Tittle's 2,871, cranks up George Halas' aerial circus against the Rams. Los Angeles rookie Roman Gabriel, who has shown great pise in his only two starts, will guide the Rams.

In the American League, Boston is at San Diego, Oakland plays at Houston and Dallas meets Denver in the only scheduled games.

GLENN BASS, end for the Buffalo Bills, failed to hold this pass when Paul Hynes (33) of the New York Titans charged in to hit him from behind. Hynes is a former star Louisiana Tech halfback. Buffalo won the game 20-3. (AP Wirephoto)

DEFEAT TITANS, 20-3

Gilchrist Leads Buffalo To Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Cookie Gilchrist, who starred for nine years in the Canadian League, became the first American Football League player ever to roll up 1,000 yards in a season and in the process scored all of Buffalo's points in a 20-3 victory over the New York Titans.

NEW YORK (AP)—Statistics of the Buffalo-New York American Football League game.

Passes	12-26	20-43
Passes intercepted by	3	4
Punts	3-29.2	9-43.3

Gilchrist, in his first AFL season, finished the 1962 campaign with 1,096 yards, rolling up 143 against the Titans. Two big gulps came on touchdown runs of 42 and 30 yards in the second half after he got only 26 yards in the first half.

However, he chipped in with a pair of 42 and 27 yard field goals, and also kicked both extra points. The victory assured Buffalo of a third place finish in the Eastern Division as the Bills ended their season with a 7-6-1 record.

Bill Shockley's 23-yard field goal that tied the score in the first period was all the scoring the Titans could muster.

Gilchrist, a 6-foot-2, 243-pound rumbler, broke the 1,000 yard mark on his 42-yard scoring jaunt in the third period. He added the 30-yard run early in the last period. He entered the game with 953 yards. He broke Billy Cannon's single season record of 948 last week.

Gilchrist's game total was mighty compared to the Titans' team figure of only 27 yards. However, New York twice stopped him on a goal line stand in the second period when defensive end Dick Mumley threw him for a yard losses on each play, keeping the Bills from scoring.

Buffalo's Wayne Crow had a touchdown called back in the first half when the Bills were detected in motion, but a pair of New York penalties helped them to one of the field goals. The second came after Gilchrist had missed a 32-yard field goal and then made good on his second chance as the half ended.

Four interceptions, three by Lee Riley, stymied other Buffalo drives while all that New York could muster was 206 yards passing by quarterback Johnny Green. He completed 20 of 39 passes.

Badgers Defeat Miners In First Game Of Season

MADISON, Wis. (AP)— Wisconsin found the going easy in its first home basketball game of the 1962-63 season Saturday and set down Texas Western 73-59.

The Badgers, sixth ranked in the nation, showed flashes of the form that carried them to a second place finish in the Big Ten last season.

The Miners, beaten Friday night by Marquette 77-65 in the first game of their Wisconsin invasion, had trouble defending against Wisconsin's fast break.

Four Badgers shot in double figures, led by 6-foot-8 Jack Brens with 19 points. Noland Richardson topped Texas Western with 18. Wisconsin had a shooting percentage of .508 to the Miners' .325.

Texas Western jumped out to an early lead on a pair of layups by 6-8 Jim Barnes. Then Wisconsin started to roll. Brens and Don Hearden evened the count with 3 minutes gone and Tom Gwyn put the Badgers ahead to stay 64 seconds later.

Wisconsin led at the half 34-27. The Texans shaved the lead to one point early in the second period on a pair of field goals by Barnes and another by Danny Vaughn. But that was as close as the visitors came as Wisconsin went into a full court press and held the Miners' shooting to a minimum the rest of the way.

Ouachita Lettermen For 62 Announced

Ouachita High School mentor Bob Ellen has announced that 20 gridders have earned letters for the 1962 season.

Prospects for the 1963 season look optimistic for the Lions as only six of this year's lettermen will be lost due to graduation.

Five of the award winners are juniors, six are sophomores and three of Ouachita's fine freshmen crop round out the lettermen.

Every boy who went out for football at Ouachita this season will receive an award.

The annual football banquet will be held on January 12, and the awards will be presented at that time.

Lettermen to receive jackets: Carl Gilstrap, Sr.; Donnie Powell, Jr.; Randy Bowles, Sr.; Ronnie Hamilton, So.; Charles Hill, So.; Ronnie Walling, Jr.; Wayne Stover, So.; Merrill Moody, So.; Ron Powell, Jr.; Hughie Parker, Sr.; John Brooks, So.; Harvey Carsey, Jr.; Johnny Knighten, Fr.; Vernon Ford, Fr.; Donald Hyde, So.; and Wayne Jensen, Fr.

Squadmen to receive silver footballs: Jimmy McGuffee, So.; Freddie Monroe, Jr.; Elmer Smith, So.; Bobby Nixon, So.; Gene Howell, So.; Carey Walker, So.; Prentice Boyd, So.; Duane Humpries, Jr.; Jimmy Morris, So.; Arthur Garlington, Jr.; Grady Kight, So.; Billy Keith, So.; George Bryant, Jr.; Mike Bishop, So.; Glen Artt, So.; Steve Rader, Jr.; Kenneth Platt, Jr.; Melvin Lee, So.; Richard Lee, So.; Mike Gentry, So.; Jimmy Vallery, Sr.; Clarence Battey, Jr.; Gary Carver, So.; Tommy Oglesbee, So.; Pat Welker, So.; Mike Parham, So.; and Sammy Roberson, So.

Collins Unhappy After Shooting Two-Under Par

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI)—Big Bill Collins, who complained "I can't do anything right," kept the lead in the $20,000 Coral Gables Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a neat 69 and a 54-hole total of 202.

But breathing down the six-foot-four former Marine's brawny neck was peppery little Gardner Dickinson Jr., a precision putter from Dothan, Ala., who fires a four-under-par 67 for a total of 203, one stroke off the pace.

Three strokes behind Dickinson were bespectacled Mason Rudolph and Rex Baxter Jr. Rudolph turned in a 67 and Baxter a 69, both for 206 totals going into Sunday's final round.

Don Fairfield, with a 68, and stocky Dave Ragan, with a 70, were tied at 207.

Al Kelley of Orlando, Fla., first round leader who was tied for second with Dickinson Friday, fell back to a four-way tie at 208 after a one-over-par 72.

Meyers Carries Indians To Win

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Quarterback Carl Meyers passed for two touchdowns and called a flawless game to lead the University of Omaha Indians to a 34-21 football victory over East Central, Okla., Saturday in the All Sports Bowl.

Meyers caught East Central napping on the first scrimmage play and hit end Paul Blazevich with an 80-yard touchdown pass.

Omaha went 56 yards for a touchdown in eight plays the second time it got the ball. Fleet Roger Sayers raced the final 22 yards for the touchdown.

East Central, with quarterback Mike Wood faking brilliantly, came back with a pair of touchdowns and took a 14-13 lead early in the second quarter. But Omaha, with Meyers mixing his plays in good fashion, broke the game open with two more touchdowns in the second quarter.

YMCA Closes Football Action

The local YMCA brought its football season to a close Saturday with two games against Alexandria teams at Neville Stadium with the hosts winning one and the visitors winning the other.

Rusty Brown scored from the 14-yard line and Joe Southwell intercepted a pass and returned 15-yards for a score to give the Indians a 12-6 win over Alexandria's fifth grade champions. The visitors tallied in the first quarter on a one yard run by Tom Dedat. The Indians scored all their points in the second period.

The Alexandria sixth grade champs downed the hosting Panthers, 20 - 0 with Gingrow, Hehagan and Long each scoring touchdowns for Alexandria. Johnny Jones and Kip Suddeth were outstanding on defense for the Panthers.

Central State 11 Gets Victory As Rollins Sparkles

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sharp-passing Mike Rollins and a pair of explosive backs led Central Oklahoma State to a 28-13 victory over Lenoir Rhyne Saturday for the nation's small college football championship.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Statistics on the Central Oklahoma-Lenoir Rhyne Camellia Bowl football game:

Rollins hit end Billy Jones for two touchdowns as the Bronchos from Edmond, Okla., dominated the second half of the second annual Camellia Bowl game, played in crisp, sunny weather before 13,260.

Central Oklahoma spotted Lenoir Rhyne, from Hickory, N.C., an early 6-0 lead but surged back on the running of fullback J. R. Briggs and halfback George Hughley.

The bigger Bronchos continually blunted the single wing attack of the Bears.

Briggs capped the Bronchos' first scoring drive of 64 yards with a 2-yard plunge for the score in the second period.

Central Oklahoma moved 89 yards in just three plays the next time it got the ball. Briggs went up the middle for 3 then shook off four tacklers and burst loose for 29 yards.

Epps Tops Own Tourney, 51-29

EPPS (Special) — Epps' boys rallied here Saturday night to win the boys division of the Epps Invitational Basketball tourney with Lake Providence winning the girls title.

Epps downed Kilbourne, 51-29 with Paul Mercer leading the scoring with 16 - points for Epps followed by Don Raley with 15. Jack Harris scored 13 - points for the Kilbourne squad.

Lake Providence whipped past Forest, 58-40 with Shirley Johnson popping in 24 - points and Johnie Green scoring 21 for Lake Providence. Levenda, Peacock scored 23 - points for Forest's girls.

Tallulah In Win Over Vicksburg 5

TALLULAH (Special) — Tallulah High downed Cooper of Vicksburg, 64-51, Saturday night for the first time in the history of their competition.

Bob Gardsbane sparked the victory for Tallulah with 21 - points. Tommy Butler scored 19 for the losers.

Tallulah's record now stands at 3-4.

LEFTY QUARTERBACKS

Southpaw Battle Set For Liberty

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Southpaw quarterbacks will lead Oregon State and Villanova into the fourth annual Liberty Bowl football game at Philadelphia Stadium next Saturday.

All-America Terry Baker, this year's Heisman Trophy winner, is Oregon State Coach Tommy Prothro's T-attack leader. The Villanova Wildcats are led by Richie Richman.

Liberty Bowl officials are happy that Baker is on the Beaver eleven. It makes the second consecutive year the Heisman Trophy selection will appear in the game. Last year All-America halfback Ernie Davis helped Syracuse squeeze by Miami of Florida 15-14.

As one bowl official put it—"the Liberty Bowl is the only bowl able to claim such a distinction."

And Liberty Bowl officials need something to raise their spirits. Despite careful planning and good team selections they've had a miserable break in the weather for the three previous games. As a result the attendance was disappointing.

This year the game will benefit 60 member hospitals of the Delaware Valley Hospital Council. It will be televised (NBC) but blacked out over a 90-mile radius of Philadelphia. That should help attendance.

Also helping is the fact that both teams are considered top defensive clubs and both boast coaches with national reputations as teachers of fundamentals.

Prothro, who took the Beavers to the Rose Bowl in 1957, has an eight year record of 49-29-2 at Oregon State. Wildcat mentor Alex Bell has a three year record of 18-12, with 16 of his victories coming in the last two years. This is the Cats second straight bowl. They whipped Wichita 17-9 in last year's Sun Bowl.

The spotlight next Saturday, however, will be on Baker, whose 4,980 over-all career yardage ranks him second in college football history, and Richman, who was largely responsible for the Wildcats' 7-2 season this year. He, like Baker, is a left-handed passer.

Baker's favorite target in leading Oregon to its 8-2 season was Vern Burke, 6-foot-4, 190-pound end who snagged a record 69 passes for 1,007 yards gained. Richman's partner is All-East halfback Larry Glueck, who ground out 240 yards in 57 carries for a respectable 5.9 per carry average.

Richman and Baker have something in common off the gridiron as well as on. Both are top students. Baker in mechanical engineering. Richman in commerce and finance. Richman has also been nominated as Rhodes Scholar.

Syracuse In Win With 4th Quarter Rally

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Syracuse, frustrated for three periods, came from behind in the final quarter Saturday when John Mackay returned a punt 40 yards for a touchdown to defeat UCLA 12-7 in a nationally televised football game.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Statistics on the Syracuse-UCLA football game:

	SYRACUSE	UCLA
First downs	19	8
Rushing yardage	296	37
Passing yardage	24	136
Passes	2-5	11-24
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	2-29	8-40
Fumbles lost	2	0
Yards penalized	10	30

A crowd of 14,485 in the Memorial Coliseum watched Syracuse dominate the game but lose the ball several times on fumbles and interceptions to stymie scoring drives.

In the fourth quarter, with the Bruins leading 7-6, UCLA's Tom Bennett punted from the end zone. Mackey, the powerful Syracuse halfback who was converted from end a few weeks ago, took the ball on the 40-yard line and was hit immediately by Joe Bauens. But he shook away and eluded two more Bruins as he ran for the sidelines. He threaded his way untouched into the end zone.

The victory gave Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's men, who outweighed the Bruins a dozen pounds per man, a season record of 5-5. Coach Bill Barnes' gallant but outmanned Bruins, also finishing their season on this overcast afternoon, wound up 4-6 for the season.

Syracuse was plagued by its own mistakes, losing the ball three times on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

The whittler or wood carver who is handy with a pocket knife is seen less around the area now than he was in pioneer days. One talented artist in creating many beautiful objects from wood, lives in West Monroe. At 72, he looks back on years of shaping interesting creations.

"Todd the Whittler" has created thousands of artistic objects in wood during his 72 years of life.

The versatile whittler is H. L. "Todd" Moore, of 419 Smith St., West Monroe, who has worn a number of knife blades to stubs in forming a wide assortment of things in many varieties of wood.

An indication of the extent of his work can be seen in shelves and in trunk files at his home workshop. The objects vary from small pliers and scissors with moveable parts, cut from a single piece of wood to statues of horses, and a broad range of scale model tools and other fancy and intricate patterns.

Two years ago, Moore lost most of his right forefinger and part of his right thumb in a machine mishap at his home, but this has not deterred him in his creative work.

KENTUCKIAN

The native of Vanceburg, Ky. in his early years worked in the timber and logging industry. He spent 27 years as a blacksmith, furniture maker and auto repair man in Chatham, before coming to West Monroe in 1943 to work as a carpenter and later as a housing contractor.

He went into retirement about six or seven years ago, confining his labors to wood carving, an art he has pursued all of his life.

He estimates that he has carved out thousands of things in wood over the years, and has at his home about 1,500 different objects, large and small, which he created.

He has a set of carving tools which he never uses because "my hand cramps," Moore explained. He uses pocket knives instead.

"I have used 37 different types of wood," he continued. "And when I was at Chatham, I had three departments under one roof. I fixed cars, shoed horses, I used to make wagons and hammer out the iron, and hand make furniture, mostly cabinets, chairs and library tables, and coffins, too."

Now, he cuts out some things with a jigsaw, such as magazine racks and small stands. But he has produced ornately carved tables and stands from heavy timber.

ORNATE TRIM

A section of wood trim running between cabinets in the kitchen at his home has hearts and other designs cut through it, all smoothly finished. He has done many things of this type for persons living in his neighborhood, he said.

A number of pieces of furniture in the Moore home were made by him. He displayed a sturdy magazine rack made of poplar. All parts were wedged in. No nails were used. Wooden pegs were used in the handle only, to prevent it from turning. He said that often people looking over such handiwork think that some parts are glued in place because they are so firmly fixed.

Moore has a special knack for making designs.

"The patterns just come into mind, and I draw them out," he explained.

The designs are drawn on cardboard if they are to be used only a few times, but those which are to be repeated often are placed on wood.

In the intricate carvings many objects are linked together with moveable parts within moveable parts, all from the same piece of wood, without anything being added, glued or spliced in.

CHAINS

For example, from one piece of wood he fashioned four strands of chains with four frames or cages attached to them, and inside of the cages were moveable balls. The four strands were all linked together. Everything in the pattern had been fashioned from the wood without removing parts and then replacing them.

"A lot of people think that it can't be done," he said, "but I did it. Many people think these things are glued together, that so many things can't come from one object."

An anvil, hammer and horseshoes made out of elm wood look authentic. And pointing to the horseshoes, he said, "I know all the details. I made so many out of iron."

Sometimes an object gets longer as the craftsman skillfully carves away wood. To prove this point, Moore held up a chain carved from a piece of baywood measuring 1 1/8 by 1 1/8 inches by eight feet. The finished product is 10 feet, seven inches in length. As each links was carved through the center of the adjoining link, it could slip down a short distance, thus adding extra length to the chain.

Some carvings are produced within a matter of minutes, some take weeks of work, and some were produced over a period of years.

One of the most time consuming carvings he produced was a violin. He worked on it in his spare time over a period of eight years. It was in three pieces, sides and bottom together, the top in a separate section and the neck as one part.

BEAUTY, TONE

Moore described it as a beautiful instrument with a good tone. He took it to a state fiddling contest in Alexandria and musicians there who tried it appraised its value at around $4,000, he said.

But the years of work went for naught. The violin later was stolen.

How intricate can woodwork get. Moore cut one piece of wood in such a way as to fashion 11 pairs of pliers, all joined, and all with workable parts in their original fittings without pins or glue to hold them in position.

Sometimes he will fashion a pair of pliers with moving parts and a ring running through the jaws and the handles which also can be moved. He has carved pliers with moving parts from a match stick and from a toothpick. Some of the details are so small that he had to literally go through part of the operation by sense of touch instead of pinpointing the areas by sight.

Out of 116 fancy walking canes of various designs, which he carved, Moore still has 25. They have fancy frills on them. Some have cylinders within the main stick which can be revolved. Others have balls in hollowed out areas, all parts of the same piece of wood, with nothing added.

VARIETY OF WOODS

They came from a variety of woods such as willow, ash, cedar, cherry and bay. One walking stick took the equivalent of 28 working days to produce, and another 11 days.

He showed a lumber purchase slip for 800 feet of bay wood, which he acquired quite some time ago, and explained, "I bought 800 feet of that stuff, and I've used all but three feet which I had planned to cut my boys' pictures on."

Among his wood carvings are such things as knives, forks, and spoons of varying sizes, saws, hammers, and a broad array of other tools, all smoothly done, and skilled replicas of the real objects.

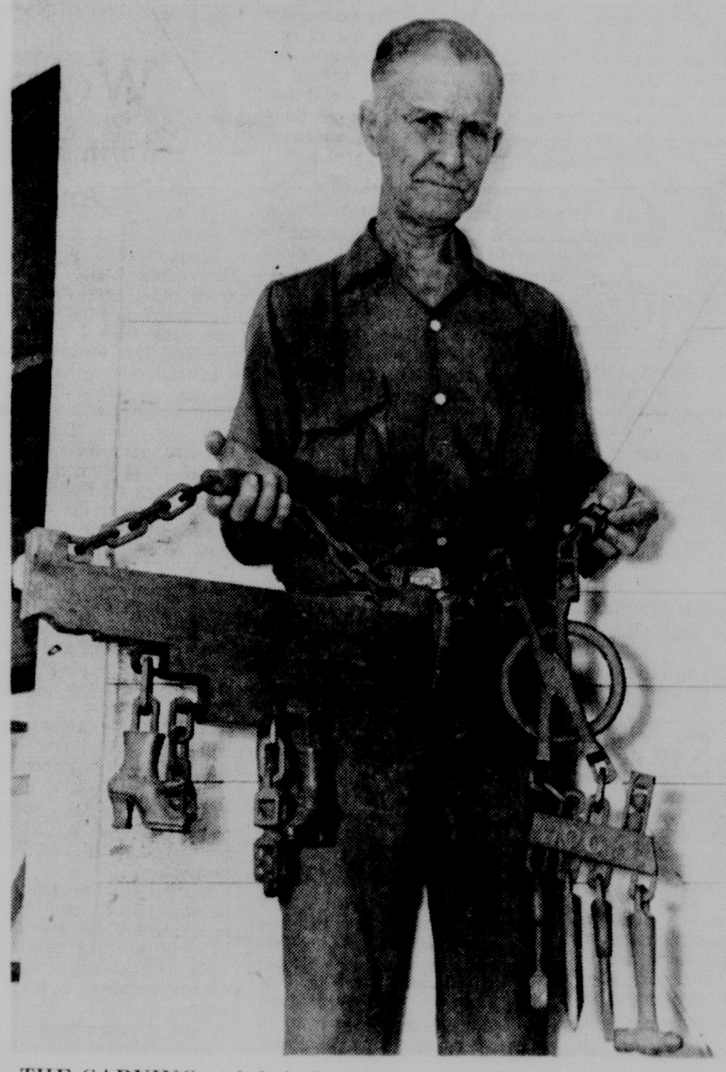
In the past he has won about eight blue ribbons on wood carvings displayed at the State Fair in Shreveport.

His wife, a native of Jackson Parish, is a staunch supporter of his artistic work. The couple have five children, four of them — two girls and two boys — still living.

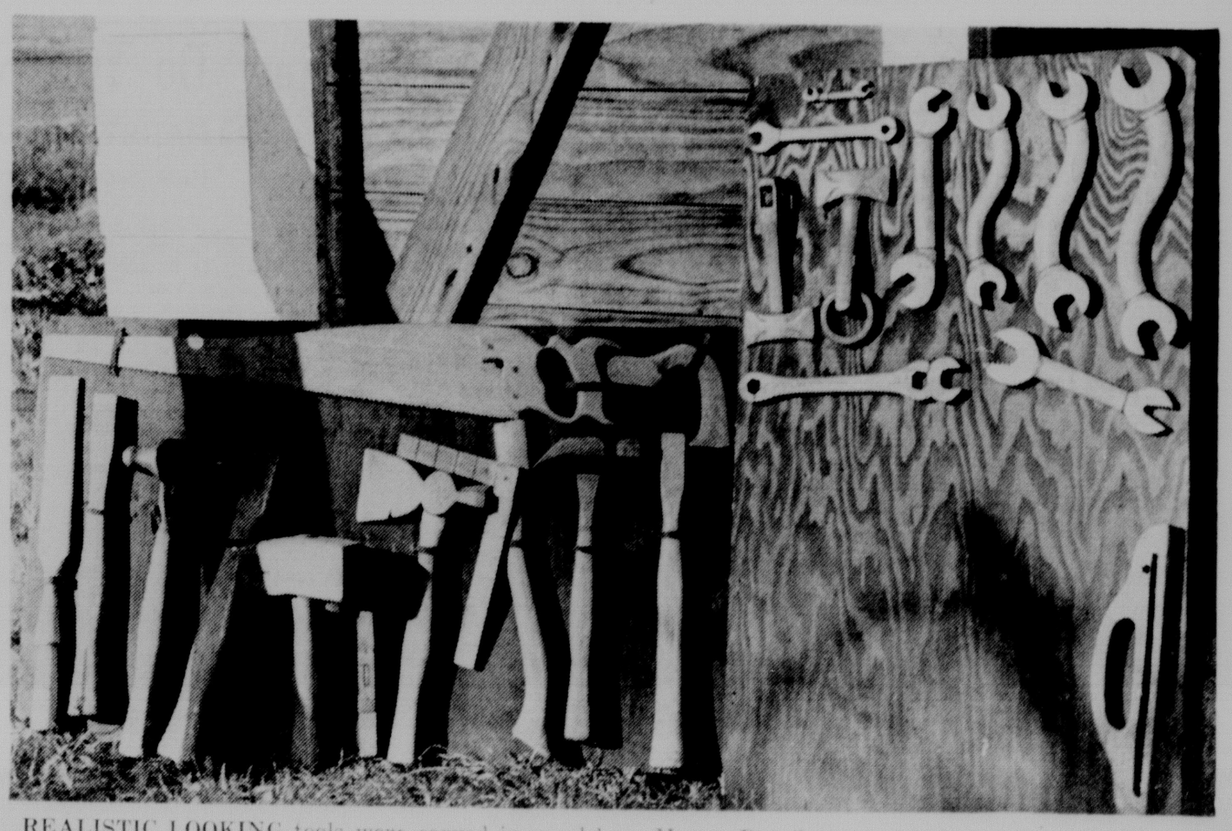
As in so many artistic endeavors, there is more work than profit. Moore sells some of his work, but explained, "I try to get the money back for the cost of the materials."

THE MASTER WHITTLER, H. L. "Todd" Moore, pares wood to create a new design. Leaning against wall nearby are objects which he carved.

HERE ARE SOME wood carvings which won blue ribbons at the State Fair in Shreveport for Moore.



THE CARVING at left is from a single piece of wood, as is the complex creation with moveable parts at right, held by Moore, who carved them.



REALISTIC LOOKING tools were carved in wood by Moore. Details were carefully followed including minute teeth in saw.

Drug Foot-Dragging

"Drug makers complain of government foot-dragging on drug applications."

That is the head on a story in the Wall Street Journal.

Drug men contend the thalidomide disaster and the foolishly-enacted tougher federal drug control rules have caused the food and drug administration to be overcautious in ruling on new drug applications.

"There's complete paralysis down in Washington," grumbled a medical officer for a big pharmaceutical firm. Another drug executive said: "Letters on new drugs which used to be answered by the FDA in 15 days now go unanswered for 30 or 60 days."

This seems to indicate the statement that a complete paralysis has occurred is right, inasmuch as the time since the enactment of the law has been short. Apparently the FDA just isn't getting around to answering the letters.

An FDA spokesman defended the agency's efforts, but admitted: "It's fair to say things have slowed down up here in the past few months." He cited the greater amount of work involved in drug clearance and a shortage of personnel. One drug company estimated typical drug clearances will take about a year in the future, compared to a few months previously, and even that may be taking an optimistic view.

Under the new rules, the FDA is required to pass on the drug's effectiveness and it must grant approval before sales can be made. Before it ruled only on a drug's safety, which is the only thing it is qualified to rule on. There is not the slightest reason to think the FDA is qualified to rule on a drug's effectiveness. Under the former law, if an application was not rejected within a certain time, it was automatically approved. Now the FDA must grant positive approval before there can be any sales.

There is no reason to think the new law provides any greater safety than the old, since the understaffed FDA is not qualified to pass on effectiveness and probably would not be even if it had a large staff. Effectiveness can be determined only through use and the FDA has no way to put the drugs into use.

Another item states that new drug-testing regulations of the government, soon to be issued in final form, have been sufficiently liberalized to meet many of the major objections of the medical profession and drug companies. This remains to be seen. Anyone who is familiar with the slowness of government operations is not likely to believe approval of applications will be sufficiently speeded up.

The truth of the matter is that the New Frontier administration was looking for a way to throw its hooks into the medical profession and the drug industry and saw a golden opportunity when the unfortunate thalidomide disaster occurred, although present laws would have offered no greater protection — only greater hampering.

We wonder what will happen when the drug industry and medical profession find a cure for cancer. If the FDA has to go through with a long process of proving the remedy's effectiveness, after that has already been done by the medical men, then we may not get the cure for some 10 years longer. In the meantime some few hundreds of thousands of people will have died needlessly. The same will be true in regard to medicines for heart and blood vessel ailments.

What we need is repeal of the more hampering but no more protective new drug law.

Space Battle Seen

There is the possibility that future battles among the great powers could take place hundreds of miles from the earth's atmosphere. Future space fighting ships are already on the drawing boards. But age-old labor difficulties could delay U.S. developments in this field to a tragic extent.

The Air Force has already okayed the initial inspection on the Dyna-Soar, a boost-glide spacecraft developed by Boeing. The Defense Department has already spent over $110 million on the project.

The 30,000 craftsmen and aircraft workers who will get the green light for building the Dyna-Soar are, for the most part, members of the International Association of Machinists. This is the same union that struck Lockheed's operations all the way from Polaris test sites at Cape Canaveral, Florida, to tracking stations in Hawaii.

There is a temporary settlement in that strike at this time. But there is a possibility that the IAM will walk out on the all-important Dyna-Soar project during early 1963.

In case this is done, the strike would not only slow down work on the advanced space craft. It would also cripple production on the most highly developed U.S. intercontinental missile — the Minuteman.

Pickets would appear at silos, underground launching sites, for the Minuteman located in Montana, Utah, Missouri, California, South Dakota and elsewhere. Machinists there help install the missiles themselves and the rigging used in firing them.

It would be a remark based on panic to say that the matter of a few days lost in labor disputes could throw us behind the Russians in the race to keep the most effective weapons in operation. But time frittered away in any manner can prove to be of immense cost.

Events leading up to Pearl Harbor in 1941 should cause no little soul searching. At that time, the general attitude was one of absolute certainty that our military equipment on land, sea and air was the world's greatest. The nation seemed to be concentrating on the survival of business while the rest of the world was fighting a war.

Now, the labor - management struggles have reached major proportions. The recent Lockheed picketing not only covered the main plants of that aerospace industry but lines were thrown around full sites at Cape Canaveral, Vandenberg and Point Arguello.

Uncle Sam's Petting

Uncle Sam has stooped to some sort of new low in showing favoritism to one of his brainchildren.

Under the guise of ending the postoffice department deficit, congress, with a good deal of prodding from the New Frontier administration, approved a sizeable raise in postal rates. This was done without much protest from the long - suffering public and the affected industries, which included magazines (many of which have been driven out of business by high postal rates) and newspapers. Newspapers will pay three 10 per cent increases, with the first to take effect January 1, 1963. There was virtually no protest.

But - - -. The postal rate on Rural Electric Cooperative publications was REDUCED from one - half cent a copy to about one-eighth cent per copy.

The general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association asserted that "there is no justification for this special privilege. Another spokesman said: "So REA groups will now be able to enjoy a financial advantage for propagandizing against their prime target, the investor - owned private power industry." Meanwhile magazines, newspapers and publications of the private power industry will be required to pay the regular — and much higher—rate. This is really favoritism of an unsavory sort.

Tear Gas In Face

Vicksburg, Miss.

To the Editor:

In addition to the "Meredith" story illustrated by the cover on Nov. 10 Saturday Evening Post, there is also an interesting story connected with the little blond girl in the red plaid kilts shown on the same cover to the right of the dark star flanked by his pale satellites.

This student is Miss Cathy Jones of Vicksburg, who besides sharing the distinction of the Post cover with Meredith also shares one other distinction: the government made possible her college education, too; not currently, however, and not to the tune of a million dollars a month, but $50. It was this way: Cathy's dad died in government service when Cathy was three years old, but her government was good to her and gave her approximately $50 a month. Until she was 18. Not 29.

The monthly allotment had been saved against Cathy's college education, invested in bonds of her government. There was enough for her education at the beautiful college of her choice, and Cathy was grateful. Her government had shed its responsibilities toward her at 18 and she expected nothing more from them.

But she was wrong. As she returned to campus from church services on that last dark Sabbath night in September, 1962, her government had sent her one more gift, a gift not commonly regarded as appropriate to school girls but one usually reserved for the more hardened criminals. Thirty thousand armed government troops brought it.

The gift was tear gas. They threw it in her face.

Mrs. Lawford's Treatment

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

As a Republican who has voted against the Kennedy administration, I was shocked and angered by your extremely poor taste in publishing Mrs. Peter Lawford's sentencing on your front page. This woman has committed the same crime as have unknown thousands of others in this country. Yet, because she is a relative of the President - a President with whose views you do not concur - you help make a national issue out of a bit of trashy back yard gossip. Even assuming this is news, it hardly warrants front page billing.

I agree with your paper that this country would be in safer hands under more conservative government. And I agree that we must work hard to replace the Kennedy administration in 1964. But I don't believe we will replace it with anything better if we are to lose all our integrity and self - respect in the process.

Student Inventories

Baton Rouge, La.

To the Editor:

In recent editorials in the Monroe Morning World you have discussed the use of certain inventories that are purportedly being used in our schools. It is not my intention to defend the use of these inventories that may be used in other states but rather to set the record straight as to the guidance program in Louisiana.

We are concerned with the educational, vocational, and personal adjustment of each child in our schools. It is my belief, and I think the belief of the counselors of our State, that the use of certain achievement, intelligence, and interest inventories are helpful in counseling students to the end that they can better understand their interests, abilities, and aptitudes and make the most of them.

When the national defense education act was passed in 1958 a group of counselors was asked to come to Baton Rouge to select tests for use in the guidance program in the State. A list of the tests that can be used by schools participating in this program is attached. If you will notice none of these tests are of the type mentioned in your article. I shall be happy to send a sample of any of the tests on this list that you might wish to examine.

Approximately 45 of the 67 school systems in Louisiana have elected to participate in the NDEA Title V-A program as it relates to guidance. These schools cannot legally use NDEA funds to purchase the type of material mentioned in your editorial.

The Monroe area is fortunate in that some of the best counselors in the State are located there. A few of these are Kathryn Douciere and Hilton Lytle at Neville High, Elizabeth Taylor at Thomas Jefferson Junior High, S. T. Howell at Ouachita Parish High, and Agnes Shaw at West Monroe High. These people are representative of counselors all over the state in that they are dedicated to the maximum development of the boys and girls in their schools and community. Their job is to extend understanding and help to students as they progress through the public school system and to help them relate their capabilities and interest to realistic goals in adult life. They are not attempting to undermine the basic concept of our American way of life, but rather to develop sound productive citizens who can contribute to it.

You are invited to investigate the guidance services in our State and if you find that they are as I have outlined, to lend your support to the furtherance of this work and not to oppose it on the basis of isolated cases or programs in other states.

CAROLL W. EUBANKS,
Supervisor of Guidance.

To the Editor

I am in favor of withdrawing from the United Nations. As a Christian nation, we should never have yoked up with Godless communism in the first place.

Uncle Sam, like the prodigal son, has gotten in with the wrong crowd — atheist, heathen and cannibals.

Instead of bringing other nations up to our level, we have gone down to theirs. We are admonished to come out from amongst them, if we are to receive God's blessings, or go down in defeat.

Nations, like individuals, have to suffer for their disobedience toward the Almighty.

I wish Uncle Sam would come back to the constitution of the United States before the United Nations raises its flag over ours and we lose our national sovereignty.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Experience is our greatest and most dependable teacher. This has been true down through the ages, and it is true today.

Experience is the rock on which conservatives believe all progress must be built, since it is the rock upon which all progress has been made.

We now find ourselves at some undetermined point in the midst of a crucial experience known as the Cuban crisis. And I suggest that it is proper that we devote a little time to examining what the experience, thus far, has taught us.

The most sinister fact to come out of the Cuban situation has been the strong reaffirmation of Soviet communism's determination to rule the world — a fact which must be causing those who thought they detected a "mellowing" process in the Communist attitude some moments of agonizing reappraisal.

Why did Russia build those missile bases? What did she stand to gain by this daring and provocative action?

Remember that Khrushchev said only recently that we were 'too liberal to fight." He apparently believed it. Thus, he felt he had nothing to lose by testing his theory in the crucible of war-threatening tension.

If his theory was right — and it very nearly was — he could, in the space of a few weeks, push enough IRBMs into the Western Hemisphere to destroy the years of effort and billions of dollars which had gone into building the one force he fears — America's Strategic Air Command.

Just for a moment suppose that the detection of those Soviet missile bases had not prompted quick action on the part of President Kennedy. Suppose, for example, that those who had advised the Chief Executive so poorly on the Bay of Pigs invasion had again prevailed. Suppose the administration had continued to clirg to its belief that all the Soviet buildup in Cuba was strictly for purposes of "defense" and that any action by us would alienate world opinion.

If this had been the case, every SAC, Air Force and missile base in the United States would have been compromised by the threat of Soviet missile strength in the Western Hemisphere. Russian "brinkmanship" would have been brought to bear in a way that could have nullified this country's greatest weapon of peace. And this might very easily have left Russia free to move in an aggressive fashion anywhere on the globe, knowing, as it would, that any indicated decision on our part to employ SAC could be denied us through the threatened use of Cuban-based missiles.

The decision of the President to act from strength in the Cuban situation — regardless of whether you feel that he acted later than he should — probably staved off what could have become in a very short time a realignment of power balance so adverse that we might have found ourselves helpless in the face of enemy threats.

On Khrushchev's part, it was a well - calculated gamble for tactical reasons of high stake. Among other things, it gave him an idea of how the United States might react to increased Soviet pressure on Berlin and other world tension spots.

How do you stand, sir?

New JFK 'Team'

Those Two Vocal In Ultra-Liberal Policies On Way Out

A quiet but major shakeup in the upper reaches of the Kennedy Administration is in the works. The changes will be gradual as the President gets rid of those among his present team of advisers who have been too dramatically controversial. Those who replace the original team may not differ ideologically from their predecessors, but they will not be as openly committed to ultra - liberal policies.

Though it will be denied, this is the private consensus among those in the know. Walt Whitman Rostow, head of the State Department's policy planning staff and one of the most vocal of the "let's not be beastly to the Soviets" advocates, has told friends that he is being gently elbowed out of the White House in - group.

Those few devoted newsmen who share Mr. Kennedy's confidence also assert that the skids are being greased for Presidential aide Arthur Schlesinger Jr. The White House is not particularly opposed to Professor Schlesinger's thinking. But it is felt that he has been too extreme in his utterances and has increasingly antagonized Congress and a substantial portion of the electorate.

It has been known for some time that Ambassador Adali Stevenson has pressed too hard for what many on Capitol Hill consider outright appeasement of the Soviet Union. Despite any disclaimers of the White House, the fact remains that he was one of those who counseled infinite patience with Castro Cuba and strongly opposed the naval blockade of last October. But it is considered significant that Stewart Alsop, one of the President's closest journalistic intimates, should pin the "soft on Communism" label on Mr. Stevenson in a widely studied article for the Saturday Evening Post. Most interesting is the timing of this obvious hint that Adali's days in government are numbered.

Others in and out of the Cabinet are keeping an eye on the President's thumb. Will it be up or down for them? (It is no longer any secret that Mr. Kennedy has been casting about for a Secretary of State with a more positive personality than Dean Rusk.) In fact, the current remark among jittery appointees is, "Only Bobby is safe."

Behind these reportedly impending changes is the President's desire to create a more moderate and responsible Administration "image" in the next two years. The Democratic Party has never lacked political astuteness, and it is not buying the pundit - inspired argument that the nation swung left in last month's election.

In the big states which fell to the GOP, the victors were clearly to the right of the Democratic losers. Elsewhere in the country, it has become clear that many elections were won or lost by a hair. Personality is also important, and someone like Mr. Schlesinger (who shouted "idot" at a nationally syndicated columnist) no longer fits in.

If the President could swing it, he would set up a government of "national unity," thereby taking the wind out of Republican sails in 1964. Democratic strategists gave more than passing thought to offering former Vice President Nixon a post in the Administration. They rejected the idea because they saw no point in stirring up the ultra-liberal wing of their party.

But Walter Judd, defeated in a Congressional re - election attempt, is still being considered for the politically touchy post of foreign aid boss. More and more, it is being admitted that foreign aid is a mess. When House and Senate turn their guns on it, come January, it will be beneficial to the Administration if a Republican is the target of their fire.

How strongly the President will press for a change in his team remains the big question. When Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs Richard Goodwin was a Presidential assistant, he remarked to me that one of Mr. Kennedy's greatest problems was his inability to fire people. ("He just can't bring himself to do it," Mr. Goodwin said.) And the pressures on the President not to yield the ax will be very great.

That there will be opposite, perhaps equal, pressures on him to change the batting order can bring about another spell of Hamlet - like indecision on his part. But it is still considered a safe prediction that in the months to come "for sale" signs will go up on the lawns of houses in the better sections of Washington.

Women's Stocks

Keith Funston Is Gentleman In Answering 'Nuts' Salute

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, is more of a gentleman in taking the "nuts" in print I sent to him last week than I was a lady in selecting this derisive greeting.

Instead of rearing up in anger because I wrote that the New York Stock Exchange's recent report dissecting Black Monday, May, 28, gave the misleading impression that women panicked and helped kick off that historic stock market break, his reply was a gentle, "We only cited statistics, drew no conclusions and we're not the least bit concerned about the behavior of women in the market." Funston then proceeded to load me with statistics to prove the "great emphasis the NYSE is continuing to place on women's growing role in the stock market."

Here, therefore, is new information about the American women in Wall Street in 1962 — and this story I submit with pleasure.

Item: About half of the 1,500,000 people now annually attending the courses offered by NYSE member firms across the country are women.

Women also are among the most devoted participants in the 25,000 investment clubs currently operating in the U. S. The rough estimate is that one - third of the 350,000 members of the clubs are women and one - fourth are exclusively women's groups.

Item: Women are entering important jobs in the securities industry at a far faster rate than men. In 1946 there were 9,260 registered representatives of NYSE firms, of which 178 are women. Today there are 32,506 registered representatives of NYSE firms, of which 1,808 are women. The overall growth rate is 353 per cent, but the growth rate for women alone is 1,016 per cent. In 1940 there were 2,480 NYSE partners, but women held only 24 general and 45 limited partnerships at that time. Today there are 5,806 partners, with women holding 59 general and 474 limited partnerships. The overall growth rate is 234 per cent, but the growth rate for women alone is 774 per cent.

Item: "The Lady of the Stock Exchange," the Big Board's first "screenplay" was completed and titled AFTER the May crackup in the stock market. In that film the women makes the shrewd investment decision, the husband is the one who acts on a tip, finally backs down. Actually, NYSE officials report they've received complaints that the movie makes fun of the head of the family. Since its release this past September there have been 35 TV showings of the play.

Item: To underline its lack of concern about women's behavior in the market, the NYSE has started a new educational radio series — 26 weeks of five - minute shows — beamed to women, and it is continuing its special women's ads in major women's magazines. Preliminary studies of responses to the ads indicate that they have had extremely high readership. Says an NYSE official, "Increasingly, and particularly with newly investing families, wives have the major say in family investment decisions. And we mean investments, not speculations."

It was unfortunate that the NYSE highlighted its finding that during the chaotic days of May 28, 29 and 31, in Wall Street, "Women, whose total volume was about one third that for men, nevertheless had a sales balance in the aggregate for the three days which was two - and - a - half times as great as that for men." This does give the misleading impression that women dumped stocks in skyrocketing volume. The NYSE has no proof that they dumped. Women accounted for only 25.5 per cent of total trading by individuals.

Of course, some women panic under violent strain — financial as well as emotional or spiritual. So do some men. Of course, some women sold at the bottom May 29. So did some men.

THE ALMANAC

Today is Sunday, Dec. 9, the 343rd day of 1962 with 22 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1793, Noah Webster established the American Minerva, New York City's first daily newspaper.

In 1907, Christmas seals were placed on sale in the Wilmington, Del., post office for funds to aid in the fight against tuberculosis.

In 1920, the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to President Woodrow Wilson.

In 1941, China declared war against the Axis countries of Japan, Germany and Italy.

A thought for the day—The English poet, John Milton, said: "Peace has her victories no less renowned than war."

Among those attending the annual Christmas banquet and dance, sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's Club, Saturday night, December 1 at Highland Park Country Club were from left to right, Bob DeMoss, Dr. Ethel Trice, president of the NLSC Women's Club; Mrs. John Goorley, chairman of the banquet; Mrs. James W. Parkerson and Mr. Parkerson, committee members.

MRS. JOHN ALLEN BANNISTER

Bannister-Fisher Vows Read In Parkview Baptist

Myriad yellow tapers in branched candelabra entwined with greenery and two baskets of bronze chrysanthemums banked the altar of Parkview Baptist Church Saturday, December 8 for the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Skipper Fisher of Monroe and John Allen Bannister of Terre Haute, Indiana. The Rev. James Edwards officiated at the 3:30 p.m. vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fisher of Columbia and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bannister, Terre Haute.

Mrs. William Wilkerson, organist, accompanied Mrs. Norma Hickman, as she sang "The Lord's Prayer," "O Promise Me" and "At Dawning." Her selections also included Trumpet Tune in C by Purcell for the processional and Bell Symphony by Purcell for the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of luxurious brocade satin fashioned on empire princess lines. The lavish fullness of the skirt swept into a chapel train and the sweetheart neckline was accented by a tiny bow. A Swedish crown of leaves highlighted with iridescent sequins and pearls held her bouffant veil of imported English illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with a shower arrangement of white orchids.

Mrs. V. E. Braddock of Columbia, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Ferdie Jones, West Monroe; Miss Winona McCormick, Monroe and Mrs. Roy Rucker, Columbia. They wore identical gowns of gold satin brocade, styled with basque bodices, round necklines and full skirts. They wore small flowered headpieces of matching gold nylon, gold slippers and carried clusters of talisman roses in graduated sizes.

Flower girl, Miss Thresa Rucker, niece of the bride, wore a full skirted frock of gold peau de soie, with a matching headpiece and carried a miniature cascade bouquet.

Serving as best man was Sandy N. Harrod of Baton Rouge and ushers were M. J. Sanderson, F. S. Hightower and J. D. Jussell, all of Monroe. Douglas Fisher acted as ring bearer and candlelighters were M. J. Sanderson and F. S. Hightower.

Mrs. Fisher, mother of the bride, wore a gown of beige crepe with an overblouse of Chantilly lace and brown accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of brown faille with accessories to match.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor, where a mass arrangement of white stock graced the entrance. The cake table was covered in satin, with an overskirt of net, garlanded with small white chrysanthemums. Sprays of lily of the valley decorated the wedding cake which was served by Mrs. Harold Cooper and Mrs. Leland Kenney.

Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Marshall Fisher, Mrs. Fluitt Valentine, Mrs. Dave Miller and Mrs. George Byrd.

After a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Virginia and New York, the couple will establish a home in Terre Haute, Ind., where Mr. Bannister, a graduate of Wiley high school and Rose Polytechnic Institute, is presently employed by the Commercial Solvents Corp. He is a member of Lamba Chi Alpha fraternity. For travel the bride wore an oyster-white costume suit, with black sequin accent, and white and black accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Progressive Dinner Held By Neighbors

Neighbors on Dondee Drive in West Monroe held a progressive dinner for their monthly social last Monday night.

Mrs. Harold Crew and Mrs. Donald Logan served hors d'oeuvres in the Crew home at 7 p.m. From there the group adjourned to the O. G. Stone home where Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Charles Gorman served a salad course.

The main course was prepared by hostesses, Mrs. Bill Durbin, Mrs. Judson Moore and Mrs. Henry Camp and was served buffet style in the den of the Camp house. Guests were seated at small candlelighted tables before a blazing fire on the hearth as background music was provided by the stereo.

Mrs. P. L. Booker treated the group to coffee and dessert at her home to complete the evening's dinner.

Those attending the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Durbin, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crew, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gorman, Mrs. P. L. Booker, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Stone and Mrs. and Mrs. Henry Camp.

The group made plans to dine at the Embers for the December social.

Junior Charity League Christmas Ball Staged In Gala Holiday Setting

The holiday social season traditionally opened Friday night, December 7 with the Junior Charity League Christmas Ball held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

The formal note of decoration was set at the front door by a swag of greenery held with badges of gilded pine cones. Inside two stylized gold tree silhouettes flanked the ballroom entrance and a gold topiary tree repeated the theme on a nearby table.

Music for dancing was provided by the Lester Lanin Travelers' Orchestra. More than 300 members and guests attended the gala event.

The ballroom proper was decorated by two large white pine trees, highlighted with green satin oranments and bows. Individual tables were centered with miniature topiary trees, accented with green and red berries and bows.

The Christmas Ball has been an annual part of the League's projects for more than a decade. Profits go into community work sponsored by the organization, including the milk fund for needy children, volunteer and financial service at the crippled children's clinic, puppet show for school children, summer library story hour, aid to the YWCA, Monroe Youth Orchestra, School for the Hard of Hearing, Charity Hospital, Cerebral Palsy school and clothes for needy school children.

Arrangements for the dance were under direction of Mrs. Jesse McDonald and her committee, composed of Mrs. Kent Anderson, Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Mrs. Ed Miller, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Guy Jones, Mrs. L. J. Madden and Mrs. Charles Petrus.

MISS REBECCA ZWAHLEN

Northeast Students To Wed

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Rebecca Zwahlen, daughter of Mrs. Clifford Paul Zwahlen of El Dorado, Ark., and the late Mr. Zwahlen to Kennard Ray Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murvyn Jay Welch of Dry Prong, is announced today.

The bride-elect is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Beasley, Lakeshore Drive, Monroe. She is a junior at Northeast Louisiana State College here where Mr. Welch is a senior student.

The wedding will be performed December 29 at 7 p.m. in the Chapel of First Methodist Church in El Dorado. Dr. E. Ray Hozendorf will officiate.

Following their marriage the couple plans to reside here where they will continue studies at Northeast.

If you have fruit sherbet in your freezer, it will make a festive first course for Sunday dinner. After spooning cut - up fresh fruit into sherbet glasses, add a small scoop of the sherbet to each. Fresh mint, if it's available, makes a pretty garnish.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Charlotte Ann Bedenbaugh to Jerry Mickel Smith, is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bedenbaugh of Monroe. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Smith of Alto. The wedding is planned for February 2 and will be solemnized in Memorial Methodist Church at 7 p.m. with Rev. Loyd Williams officiating.

Northeast Faculty Feted At Christmas Banquet

Candlelight and Christmas mobiles, suspended from the ceiling provided an appropriate yuletide atmosphere at Highland Park Country Club Saturday night, December 1, when the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's Club entertained with its annual Christmas dinner-dance for the faculty, staff, their husbands and wives.

Guests were greeted by the organization's president, Dr. Ethel Trice; the chairman of the event, Mrs. John Goorley and committee members, Mrs. James Parkerson and Mrs. William Walker. Dr. Trice was wearing a black and gold double knit evening suit with gold accessories; Mrs. Parkerson wore a green peau de soie dress with matching silk slippers; Mrs. Goorley wore a black crepe dinner dress with crystal jewelry and Mrs. Walker was attired in an emerald green peau de soie frock with matching accessories.

Dinner was served buffet style and guests were seated at tables, centered with Christmas candles. Rev. Richard Wilson, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, gave the invocation. A brief Christmas talk was given by Dr. George T. Walker, president of the college, followed by a Christmas reading by Mike Parkerson. Dr. Trice expressed appreciation to the committee members responsible for the event and concluding the program Davis Bingham of the music faculty, led group singing of Christmas carols. Miss Gertrude Sandrock was accompanist.

The Starlighters provided music for dancing during remainder of the evening. Approximately 200 attended the event.

Hosts for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. John Goorley, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barnes, Miss Emily Blanquist, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Covington, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Debies, Mr. and Mrs. Charles DePoe, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Flannary, Mr. and Mrs. Eloy Fominaya, Miss Laura Bell Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Linnstaedter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Long, Miss Louise McLawchlin, Miss Hazel Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Page, Mr. and Mrs. James Parkerson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rolen, Mr. and Mrs. George Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Marty Schutz, Mr. and Mrs. William Scurlock, Miss Hazel Stanford, Mr. and Mrs. Hope Tarver, Miss Winetta Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Upshaw, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Watzman and Mrs. Dorothy Younse.

SHAPE HAIR

Women who want to restore shape to their hair, should lift each section and carefully roll it in the direction of the original set, then spray lightly. When it's dry and combed out, the top hair should be raised, section by section and teased lightly at the base. Then the top layer should be brushed, not combed over the coil smoothly.

MOTHER'S GOOD FRIEND IS A CAN OPENER

NEW YORK (AP) — A mother in a family of five people can expect to have opened 1,250 cans by the end of 1962, according to "Steel Facts," a publication of American Iron and Steel Institute.

Canmakers estimate that this year's production will reach 47 billion cans, up nearly 1.5 billion units from last year, and equal to 250 cans for every man, woman and child in the U.S. A record total of 5.2 million tons of steel will be used.

December is traditionally an ideal month for houseguests, for visiting cousins and grandmothers. Out on Island Drive, there are several houses so blessed this year.

The JIM WILLIAMS returned from Birmingham, Alabama, after Thanksgiving, bringing Dot's mother, MRS. I. M. Haney, to visit here through Christmas . . . Guest in the BOB CLAY home is WILMA HOOD of Jacksonville, Florida . . . and LORENA COVINGTON of Baton Rouge has been visiting this week with granddaughter NANCY LOKER while her parents, PAULINE and JIM LOKER, have been in Florida.

Tuesday ROSEMARY BRISBIN invited these guests and a few other neighbors for afternoon tea. Bronze and white chrysanthemums in a copper bowl decorated the entrance. On the dining table, Rosemary used a white cutwork cloth with a silver bowl filled with pink and white sasanquas. Tiny biscuits with a hot meat filling were served with spiced tea to about fourteen ladies.

CAROLYN JO MATTISON, newcomer from Shreveport, was named guest of honor when LOUISE THEUS and LELA SHATTUCK entertained at a morning party last Saturday. Clever invitations featuring an original verse were sent to about twenty five friends of the honoree.

In the dining room, the table was centered with an arrangement of pastel chrysanthemums in shades of pink and lavender. Dainty chicken salad sandwiches, mushrooms in patty shells, cheese straws, stuffed dates, and assorted confections were served.

On Thursday afternoon, CAROL TENNIS and JEAN EASTMAN were hostesses at a conversational hour in the Eastman home. In the entrance, a round table covered with a red cloth overlaid with white organdy held brass scales overflowing with red camellias. In the dining room, white chrysanthemums accented with red berries centered the table with its cloth of red hopsacking. On the credenza, gold candles burned in a silver candelabra filled with white sasanquas. Black olive sandwiches, apricot balls, shrimp sandwiches, cheese almonds, and pecan squares were served with coffee or sherry.

The next - door - neighbor houses on Pargoud boulevard were warmed last Saturday night at a surprise party planned for the FRED SARTORS and ROY LEDBETTERS. Some thirty - five couples arrived for the affair, catching the confused honorees dressed for tennis in the back yard. Hors d'oeuvres, hot dips, and snacks were served as a first course at the Sator home before the group moved to the Ledbetter house next door for buffet supper.

At this time of year, various clubs and organizations have parties or less formal meetings celebrating the holidays. One of the cleverest of these was a covered dish luncheon given by members of GRQ (Get Rich Quick) investment club. The affair was held in the home of JANE EARNEST, who utilized her hobby of ceramics in creation of unusual table decoations. A white money tree, hung with gold coins, centered the table and at each place were tiny china bulls and bears. Lengths of ticker tape ran up and down the table. Jane, who has completed two years as president of the GRQ, received a gift wrapped in paper printed to resemble the stockmarket reports.

Sixteen guests who attended each brought a speciality for the menu, which included fried chicken, casserole of artichoke hearts, grits au gratin, asparagus casserole, green salad with shrimp and a choice of congealed salads and desserts.

Players who took part in the Saturday afternoon duplicate games at Bayou DeSiard were invited home for supper with CRARY SMITH last week. Crary's home was already gay for the holidays with candles in the entrance hall and an arrangement of holly with red satin balls on the dining table. The menu included shrimp and roast beef.

On Tuesday afternoon, BEE BURGOYNE invited members of her study group to drop by for sherry on their way home from a day of Christmas shopping. Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums decorated the coffee table where sherry was served with cheese straws and tiny sandwiches to about twelve guests.

Seen lunching at the Lotus club were ladies already planning a February function. The annual George Washington Birthday luncheon, given by and for members of three chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution in this area is planned for next February 9 at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. LETTIE DAVENPORT of Mer Rouge, representing Abram Morehouse Chapter, and chairman of the affair, invited committee members for lunch. Those present for the planning meeting included JEANNETTE MADISON of Bastrop and EVA M'DUFFIE of Oak Ridge, representing Abram Morehouse chapter; KATE M'GUIRE and CAROLYN MILLER of West Monroe, from Chief Tusquahoma chapter.

Preceeding the Cosmopolitan Dance club party last Friday night, the JACK TARVERS were hosts at open house. Guests included some twenty - five couples, neighbors and members of the dance club. Mona's dance dress was of red chiffon, styled with straight skirt and flowing panels at the back. Hors d'oeuvres, dips, and other finger foods were served from the living room coffee table and a second table in the den. Both were decorated with clusters of tall - stemmed blue crystal compotes holding burning tapers.

Decorations at the dance, held in the Paragon ballroom, carried out a holiday theme with the use of gold accessories.

Gilded magnolia leaves were used with pine boughs at each side of the bandstand. Gold Christmas trees and a golden garland suspended over the floor further enhanced the holiday atmosphere.

Dresses noted at the party included LILLIAN KING's blue chiffon, halter-neck with floating panels . . . IRMALEE HARRISON's brown styled with brocade bodice and chiffon skirt . . . and MRS. HUGO ANGELINI's white chiffon with beaded blouson top . . . BETH M'GOUGH chose a floor - length ball gown of mauve pink satin embroidered with rhinestones and sequins . . . Also floor - length, was MARY BIRKHEAD's red net with draped peplum. . . . The intricate draping of PAT FUNDERBURK's white silk sheath was caught to the center with a rhinestone clip.

Twenty - five little girls welcomed the Christmas season with a party celebrating DEE M'DONALD's fifth birthday last Saturday afternoon. The little honoree wore white, styled with a yoke outlined in beading threaded with red velvet ribbon. The table was covered with a Santa Claus cloth, and plates and napkins carried out the theme. Dee's birthday cake was a doll wearing a skirt of red icing. Favors given to the little guests were Santa Claus candles and peppermint canes.

On his eleventh birthday, CARY ROBERTSON invited twleve little boys for an afternoon at Bancroft camp.

The group took part in a nature scavenger hunt, searching for various types of leaves and nuts. After indoor games, a hamburger supper was served, and the boys roasted marshmellows over the fire.

A skating party honored VEE MARSHALL on her tenth birthday last Saturday afternoon. Best skater prizes were awarded to CINDY LINER and LOUIS HARKEY. In the games, ROBERT SHELTON won Stop the Music, and two rounds of Magic Circle were won by LOU LEMERT and CURTIS SMITH. Cookies and soft drinks were served to about forty children who attended.

In this time of Christmas shopping, these lines by Georgie Starbuck Galbraith are offered for consideration by both prospective giver and receiver."

On the first day of Christmas his true love said, "I think Henry's giving Elinore a cape or stole of mink."

On the second day of Christmas she told this mate of hers,.

"Finklebaum's is having a Christmas sale of furs."

On the third day of Christmas she said, "Ive always thought Mink was an investment, like that camera you bought."

On the fourth day of Christmas she said, "You know, it's strange:

My poor old beaver jacket has simply got the mange!"

On the fifth day of Christmas she said, "I ought to dress In keeping with my husband's position and success."

On the sixth day of Christmas she said, "Well, Elinore Says Henry's been to Finklebaum's; they told her at the store."

So on up till Christmas his true love did discourse On ranch mink and blond mink, and she'd like blond, of course.

On the morning of Christmas ecstatically she screamed, "A mink stole! But darling, I never even dreamed! . . ."

St. Paschal's Is Scene Of Maxwell-Spears Vows

Miss Diane Lane Spears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Conrad Spears of Jonesboro, became the bride of William Hugh Maxwell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hugh Maxwell of Hodge, in a ceremony at 11 a.m. November 21 in St. Paschal's Catholic Church of West Monroe.

Rev. Vitus Duschinsky performed the double ring vows before an altar decorated with arrangements of white chrysanthemums, greenery and lighted candles. Sister Marcia presented a program of organ music preceding the service.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore an ensemble of white embossed satin, designed with full length coat and three-quarter sleeves. Her bouffant bridal veil of illusion was held in place by a tiny circlet of white feathers. She carried a white prayerbook with a bouquet of feathered chrysanthemums.

Miss Sue Leeper, Baton Rouge, was maid of honor and only attendant for the bride. She wore a costume suit of mauve silk and carried a bouquet of blush pink chrysanthemums.

Johnny Mack Schmidt served as best man. Ushers were A. N. Dawson Jr., of Alexandria; Russell Wink and Baron Phillips of Jonesboro, all brothers - in - law of the bridegroom.

As she received guests at the wedding reception held in the Persian Room of the Embers in Monroe, the bride's mother wore a costume suit of ashes of roses silk linen with matching feather hat. The bridegroom's mother selected a slate blue suit and white felt hat. Guests were greeted upon arrival by Mrs. LaVon Free of Monroe and the fathers of the bride and groom and were invited to sign the bride's book by Miss Patricia Kelly, of Monroe.

Mrs. Frank Anthony, great aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake, which centered the bride's table and Mrs. Dalton Freeman presided at the punch bowl. The main serving table was centered with a white satin and tulle heart arrangement flanked by crystal candelabra holding white tapers. Polished ivy and white chrysanthemums extended the length of the buffet.

Following a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Hodge. For travel, the bride wore a suit of cranberry red wool, a mink pillbox hat, black accessories and her bridal corsage.

The bride is a senior at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, majoring in home economics. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Margaret Brown, the late Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Sompayrac and the late J. E. Spears. Mr. Maxwell is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute's school of business administration. He is the grandson of A. J. Maxwell and the late Mrs. Maxwell and the late Mr. and Mrs. Ance Ferguson.

Martin-Dykes Nuptials Read In Natchez

Miss Zaidee Jordan Dykes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rankin Jordan Dykes Jr. of Natchez, became the bride of Ronald Weldon Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Broughton Martin of Gulf Breeze, Fla., in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, December 1 in Jefferson Street Methodist Church in Natchez. Dr. Clyde Gunn and Rev. Summer Walters officiated at the double ring vows at 6 p.m.

Miss Ikey Sue Boatner of Baton Rouge was maid of honor for her niece and bridesmaids were Miss Susan Benton, cousin of the bride of Monroe; Miss Lee Craig, Tallulah and Miss Doreen Vernotzy of Natchez. Serving as junior bridesmaids were Miss Bette Benton, Monroe, cousin of the bride and Miss Edith Jane Russ, Natchez.

Mr. Martin attended his son as best man and groomsmen were R. J. Dykes III, brother of the bride; Bill Bexley, Moss Point, Miss., and Joe Purviance of Jackson, Miss.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception at Ellicott's Hill on the grounds of Connelly's Tavern. After a wedding trip the couple will be at home at Fort Walton Beach Fla., where the bridegroom is employed.

Mrs. Martin attended the University of Southern Mississippi, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and the organization editor of the year book "Southerner."

Gala Holiday Dance Held By Cosmopolitan Club

A gold and red color note was employed in all appointments for the annual holiday formal held by the Cosmopolitan Dance club last Friday night at the Paragon Supper Club. "Happy Holidays" was theme for the gala event from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. with music by Jerry Lane's Orchestra.

At the entrance was an arrangement of gold leaves with small red poinsettias and gay red Christmas balls. Large red candles flanked the arrangement.

Pine boughs and gold magnolia leaves banked the bandstand, to the left of which was a large gold tree. Gold garlands were hung in the center of the ballroom and on each table around the dance floor was a wreath of pine and gold leaves, centered with a candle.

Mrs. Kirk Kirkland was chairman of the decorations committee.

CATHEDRAL X-RAYED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — X-ray machines will be used to put air conditioning in St. Louis Cathedral.

"Purpose of the X-ray is to determine where steel reinforcing rods are placed in the cathedral floor so none of the rods will be cut when holes are drilled as part of the air-conditioning outlets," project engineer D. Paul Ayers said.

The pictures will be taken by laying wall-to-wall sensitive film and exposing the film to gamma rays from isotopes of iridium 192.

The X-ray work is being done between services.

Sneaky Susie Is Counterpart Of Pushy Percy

By JUNE WILSON
Women's News Service

The business world knows on sight the opportunist who suddenly develops a craving for pipe - smoking which just happens to coincide with the appointment of the new general manager, a veteran stem chewer.

If the new executive is a sports car buff, before you can chant 'General Motors Acceptance Corporation.' Pushy Percy has traded the slinky limousine he bought to flatter the vice president nearest him for a small sports model and darts about in it, folded up like a travel clock.

In business, as in the jungle, the female is deadlier than the male. And less obvious. The feminine counterpart of Pushy Percy is more adroit in her forward march, and since she knows that she must produce better than a man in the same position, sets about building her image and prestige of solid stuff.

Sneaky Susan doesn't work her pink fingers to the bone nor burn the midnight oil. She has her friends. She invites them out or over — and picks their brains. Susie the Sponge was born knowing how to select her friends, and every name on the preferred list has a use and a place in her scheme.

Susie's ability to absorb facts and material which her friends have studied and worked for, or researched to acquire appears limitless. She takes all; gives nothing.

Whatever information she may need, there's a name on her list who can help her with it. Newspaper people for publicity; a struggling writer (or a professional one, yet!) she asks to "help her get some ideas on paper." But she doesn't even use her own paper.

It seems sometimes to those not on the list, and in the beginning to a few who are, that success follows Susie like a faithful pup, or that it happens instantly. Maybe it does. For all Susie the Sponge has to do is to hang onto her list, add the blood, the sweat, the tears of her useful friends, and stir. With her broomstick.

TYPICAL ORIENTAL arrangement is displayed by Mrs. Howard S. Kittel of Fort Worth,. Texas, who will give a lecture and demonstration for the Monroe Garden Club, Monday, December 10 at 2 p.m. at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Japanese Arrangements To Be Demonstrated Here

Arrangements depicting the theme "Japanese Adaptations for Contemporary Living," will be demonstrated by Mrs. Howard S. Kittel of Fort Worth, Texas, at a lecture Monday, December 10 for members of Monroe Garden Club at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

A nationally known lecturer on flower arranging, Mrs. Kittel was recently elected president of Texas Garden Clubs Inc. as a culmination of 25 years in garden club work. An author, as well as lecturer, her latest took is entitled "Japanese Flower Arrangements for American Homes," from which she will base her theme for the local demonstration.

Her demonstrations will deal with the Oriental art of flower arranging of religious significance, surrounded by ritual and tradition. Her major emphasis is on the tried and true methods of making distinguished flower arrangements with readily available materials, enabling American women to make arrangements after the manner of outstanding Japanese arrangers using flowers, fruits and vegetables. The ideas behind the Oriental arrangements being to create a lasting background which can be freshened by change of blossoms or addition or subtraction of same.

Alpha Omicron Pi Dance Held In Colorful Setting

Traditional Christmas reds and greens set the scene Saturday night, December 1 for the annual holiday dance for Lambda Tau Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, social sorority at Northeast Louisiana State College.

A colorful, lighted tree accented one corner of the roof of the Frances Hotel, scene of the event, while gaily wrapped gifts emphasized the holiday air.

Silver, red and green streamers encircled the dance floor and a glittered curtain behind the bandstand featured the decor for music, which was played by Jerry Hawkins and the Jay Hawks, a Shreveport band.

Mistletoe branches and a small red candle completed the effect for the guest registry table at the door. White candles enclosed within brightly colored glass holders were set amid Christmas greenery for individual table decorations.

Guests attending the seasonal affair were Jeanne Rogillio and Jerry Harp, Betty Screpetis and Owen Van Manning, Nan Cheek and Robert Pfrimmer, Linda Humphries and John Wells, Kathy Harbert and Randy Mason, Paula Lawrence and Bucky Buckner, Carol Turnipseed and George Schultz, Deanna Furlow and John Hoyt, Georgia Burkett and Walter Meredith, Pamela Sims and Lonnie Walters, Madelyn Bruscatto and Wayne Nolan, Virginia Nolan and Ralph Thomas.

Bach Music Club Gives Program At Yule Party

The Gold Room of the Frances Hotel was scene of the annual Christmas party of the Bach Music Club held Saturday afternoon, December 1.

An arrangement of white poinsettias graced the piano and a focal point of the room was a silver Christmas tree, around which were bright Christmas packages for all members.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. C. H. Alexander, Mrs. Rucker Calvert, Mrs. W. H. Randall, Mrs. W. P. Worley, Mrs. Sam Ditta and Mrs. Joe Jacola.

Traditional Christmas carols were played at the piano by club members. A violin and piano duet was rendered by Ronnie and Randy Shultz, followed by a vocal duet by Ann and Danny Calvert, accompanied by Danny Calvert. All musical numbers were recorded by Mrs. Rucker Calvert while Danny Calvert took movies of the activities.

Members who assisted in serving refreshments from a table appointed in the holiday motif were Misses Cheryl Stringer, Becky Rachow, Pam Sampognaro and Gayle Randall.

Those present were club sponsor, Mrs. Alta Boyd and members, Misses Katherine Dana, Rheta Smith, Cherry Smith, Angie Smith, Nora Kay Bastian, Linda Ditta, Jaye Jacola, Susan Jacola, Ruthie Rachow, Becky Rachow, Cheryl Stringer, Gayle Randall, Barbara Alexander, Linda Holmes, Brenda Bastian, JoAnn Alexander, Linda Robinson, Theresa Watson, Jeanette Ludwig, Kay Wallace, Sharon Worley, Rickie Funderburk, Vickie Funderburk, Suzanne Miller, Wanda Joyce Carraway, Linda Ludwig, Pam Sampagnaro, Brenda Custer, Ann Calvert and Flora Rogers. Also Danny Jackson Jr., Dennis Ludwig, Kenny Custer, Danny Calvert, Randy Shultz and Vic Ditta.

Guests present were W. B. Robinson, Mrs. Ervin W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Jewett, Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, W. M. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Watson, Mrs. A. Carraway, Mrs. G. W. Rogers, Mrs. Burton Ludwig, Miss Susan Moore, Mrs. G. W. Wallace, W. C. Wallace, Mrs. H. M. Rachow, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Funderburk Sr., and the hostesses.

MRS. LYNN DALE POCHE

Miss Thompson, Lynn Dale Poche Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Thompson of St. Joseph, announce the marriage of their daughter, Maudine LaVerne to Lynn Dale Poche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lawrence Poche of Cloutierville.

The civil ceremony took place in Marshall, Texas on November 3 and the wedding was solemnized in the Immaculate Conception Church Sunday, November 25 by Father Donald Demiens. Attendants were Mrs. Jack Brittain and Donald Vercher.

The bride wore a pale turquoise suit with a white veil and white kid gloves. Her shoulder corsage was a white orchid. Mrs. Brittain wore a beige silk suit with gold accessories and an orange - tinted carnation corsage.

The bride's mother wore a blue print silk dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother chose a brown silk print with accessories to match. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

A reception honoring the couple was held Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack O. Brittain, where arrangements of chrysanthemums in shades of yellow, bronze and gold were used at focal points in the living room.

Miss Doris Cason of Coushatta presided at the bride's book which was placed on a table beside a milk glass container holding an arrangement of white camellias and fern. The refreshment table was covered with an imported cloth cross - stitched in fall shades. A silver coffee service and punch bowl were at opposite ends of the table which was centered by a tiered wedding cake, adorned with wedding bells. Mrs. William Benefield presided at the punch service and Mrs. Donald Vercher, sister of the groom, poured coffee. Mrs. Earl Rhodes served the cake.

Guests included the bride's parents and her sister, Carol Sue Thompson; parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Poche of Cloutierville; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vercher of Cloutierville and friends of the couple from Natchitoches and Cloutierville.

Mrs. Poche is a 1961 graduate of Northwestern State College where she was a member of Signa Kappa sorority. She is employed by the Louisiana Department of Public Welfare in Natchitoches and will transfer to Caddo Parish December 17.

Mr. Poche was graduated from Northwestern in 1961 and is employed by the Arkansas — Louisiana Chemical Corporation in Shreveport, where the couple plans to reside.

A CLIFF HANGER

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Dozens of patrons at a Phoenix drive-in theater say they got gypped.

It was late and the film, "Lolita," had one reel to go.

The projectionist didn't realize it, however, He closed up shop, climbed into his car and drove home.

MISS MARLENE SKETO, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sketo, Monroe, will become the bride of J. W. Hankins, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hankins, also of this city, on Friday, December 14. The ceremony will be performed at 7 p.m. in Memorial Park Baptist Church with the Rev. Floyd Pate officiating.

Style Briefs

Now It's Snake Hips

Women with several hundred dollars to spend for a pair of sports pants are buying snake hips. They are also covering themselves with alligator skins. The new, slinky sports trousers are one more faze in the craze for leather from one source or another.

Outer garments are so this-and-that that lingerie has had to compromise. The latest is a part-slip, part-pant.

The slip developed long lean legs to accommodate the sports pants rage. This became a popular apparel under slim shifts, but lacked shadow-proofing. The compromise is the slip-panti, lace-edged long pants with a panel across the front.

Because perfume changes its aroma after contact under certain conditions with metal, a French organization has spent two years working out a plastic and glass dispenser system. It is now on the market.

Hip fashions among the male teenagers are slacks that include hidden combs, and double-breasted, brass button jackets.

Designer Pauline Trigere is another who believes in doing things backwards once in a while. A part of her spring line includes jackets meant to be buttoned that way.

With the return of floor length evening gowns, and woolly ankle length hostess gowns have come long petticoats. Some are skin slim with side vents for walking room. Others fall slightly full from the hip and still others bloom at the hip line.

Cobra skin dyed jewel colors twinkle like stained glass windows. Designers are using the new effect for dazzling evening wraps.

Couple Lists Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson P. Miller of Vidalia, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to John Marvin Taylor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Marvin Taylor of Jonesville. The wedding is planned for December 23.

Miss Miller is a graduate of Slidell high school at Slidell and of the Natchez College of Cosmetology.

Mr. Taylor was graduated from Block high school at Jonesville and from Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

GRANDPA CAN'T ADD

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A 7-year-old boy was trying to persuade his grandfather to help him with an arithmetic problem.

"I could add it up for you but it wouldn't be right," the grandfather said.

"Well," said the youngster, "go ahead and try anyway."

White Accessories Taboo For Winter Formal Events

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

Q: To a formal dance I am wearing an electric blue cocktail dress with sequins in the same color. White accessories have been suggested to me. What do you advise?

A: Not in winter. White should be used for the gloves only. Plain silver pumps and bag would be best for this season.

Q: What kind of clothes should I take to Florida for the Christmas holidays? I am staying for two weeks.

A: Staying where? At the kind of hotel where you feel the need to be very dressy? With friends, where you would dress more simply? Florida dressing is mostly sportswear for day, swimsuits, and cocktail dresses for evening. But the simplicity or fashionableness of same can cover a wide range!

Q: I would like to stick to black as a basic color for my winter wardrobe, and have a black cashmere coat. For a jacket dress to go with it, can I choose another color? Would wool crepe be right?

A: Unless all black is strikingly becoming to you, and this is true of very few women, I would certainly advise the costume in a bold color like red or a bright blue. Wool crepe is fine for fabric.

Q: I will be in New Orleans with my husband at his company's convention in January. What kind of clothing should I plan to take? Would a cocktail length dress be right for acting as hostess at a dinner gathering?

A: Lightweight suits, jacket costumes, top coat should be bassis of wardrobe, both for comparatively mild weather and versatility over a day's activities. But as hostess I would advise a long dress, since this will make you easily spotted in a crowd, many of whom will probably wear short dresses. Choose a simple, covered up kind of dress, in crepe or chiffon.

MRS. EDGAR RAY SPRINGER JR.

Springer-King Nuptials Are Read In Baton Rouge

Miss Judith Ann King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alva A. King, Baton Rouge, formerly of this area, became the bride of Edgar Ray Springer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Springer of Houston, Tex., on November 22 at 3:30 p.m. in Parkview Baptist Church of Baton Rouge. Dr. Mack Stewart and Rev. Roger Johnson performed the double ring ceremony.

Baskets of chrysanthemums, gladioli and pompons against a background of fern trees formed a setting for the vows. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Miss Bernadette Barry, organist and Alvin Harrington, soloist, presented a program preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, styled on princess lines. Lavishly jeweled Alencon lace formed a spray design down the front panel with the same motif repeated down the back and along the hemline, which extended into a cathedral train. A double tier of illusion was held in place by a princess crown of jeweled petals and she carried a cascade bouquet of feathered carnations centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Wayne Kirkland, Beaumont, Tex., cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a dress of holly green peau de soie. Her headdress was a matching green peau de soie bow with nose veil and she carried a cascade of talisman roses with long bronze streamers. Miss Charlene Springer, Houston, Tex.; sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaid and was dressed identically to the honor attendant. Flower girl was Miss Mechelle Boothe of Harrisonburg, who wore a frock of yellow taffeta, fashioned with a scalloped hemline. She carried a nosegay of pale yellow pompons.

Buddy Roesler of Houston, Tex., attended Mr. Springer as best man and groomsman was Clifton Cornell, Houston. Serving as ushers were Wayne Kirkland, Beaumont, Tex., and Dr. Harold King, New Orleans. Ring bearer was Mark Ross, Houston, nephew of the groom.

For her dauther's wedding Mrs. King wore a sheath of pink peau de soie with lace trim, matching accessories and a lavendar orchid. The bridegroom mother wore a blue sheath with matching brocade jacket, blue accessories and a lavendar orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table covered in white tafteta held the tiered wedding cake which was served by Mrs. C. J. Reed. A centerpiece of white gladioli and pompons, flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers was noted on the punch table, which was covered with a white lace cloth over pink. Mrs. Clifton Cornell and Mrs. Nancy Moss poured punch and Mrs. Harold King presided at the guest register. Tea girls were Misses Jerrie Cornell, Houston; Rebecca King and Suzanne King, Ferriday; Cynthia Boothe, Harrisonburg and Pamela King, New Orleans.

For travel when the couple left for a resort in Texas the bride was wearing a beige wool suit with mink trim and mink hat. She wore matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Baton Rouge where both are students at Louisiana State University.

SONORAY SELECTS BREEDERS

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri livestock men have voted to use sonoray, a high frequency sound instrument, to measure meatiness of live animals as a means of selecting breeding stock.

Sonoray is based on the principle of the sonoscope used by the Navy to detect submarines. The sonoray sends out sound waves which are reflected back to the machine by the layers between fat, muscle and bone in livestock.

Using the sonoray, trained technicians can predict with reasonable accuracy the size of the loin eye of an animal. Size of the loin eye indicates meatiness of an animal and is an important consideration in selecting breeding stock. In the past animals have had to be slaughtered to get this measurement.

Improve Speech By Following Simple Rules

NEW YORK.—Hildegarde, the chanteuse who uses her voice as dexteriously as a magician uses his hands, says everyone can improve her speech, tonal quality and inflections.

She reveals a number of rules she has followed successfully. They are:

1. Practice deep breathing, inhaling through your nose and exhaling through your mouth. Do this very slowly. To speak properly, you must breathe properly.

2. Sit before a mirror, and talk to yourself in a conversational tone. Any time your lips do not curve and lengthen around the sounds you are making — STOP! Then start again, exaggerating the movements of your lips in an oblong way. Round, full sounds are essential for good diction.

3. Speak into a tape recorder to learn how your speech sounds to others. Using the trial - and - error method, talk first in your usual way. Listen impersonally and critically. If your voice sounds flat — the most common speech fault — practice rising or lowering your tones.

4. Never stay with any tone that produces strain. A strained voice will become hoarse and strident.

5. Check constantly, as you talk, to see that the roof of your mouth "feels" rounded and high. You will achieve this by having a completely relaxed, dropped jaw.

6. Move your jaws up and down. This is an absolute must.

7. Watch your vowels. A's, E's, and O's require your mouth to be opened as an oblong. I's and U's take the same lip formation you use when you say "prunes."

EARTHQUAKES DUG LAKE

HICKMAN, Ky. (AP) — Reelfoot Lake, partly in Kentucky and Tennessee, was created by a series of severe earthquakes in 1811-12. The earthquakes caused a large section of land, mostly in Tennessee, to sink and fill with water from the Mississippi River.

MISS NELIA FRANCES SHAW

Nelia Shaw Engaged To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. James Berton Shaw of Springhill, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nelia Frances to Robert Herbert Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Herbert Day of Trout, La.

The ceremony is planned for December 28 at 6 p.m. in Springhill Methodist Church. Rev. Ralph Cain will officiate. A reception will follow in Fellowship Hall of the church.

Miss Shaw is a senior at Northwestern State College School of Nursing in Natchitoches and will receive her degree in spring of 1963. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. A. R. Goree and the late Mr. Goree of Haynesville and of Mrs. J. B. Shaw Sr., and the late Mr. Shaw of Oak Ridge.

Mr. Day received his B.S. degree in social science from Northwestern State College this past May and presently is serving a six months' tour of duty with the Louisiana National Guard Reserve at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice Farmer,

"I have trouble keeping the neckline of cardigan sweaters from stretching. Would you please help me with your good advice?"

Miss D.M.

Dear Miss D.M.:

Thread tiny, round elastic on a needle and carefully weave it in and out of the neck edge of the sweater. Don't pull it too tight, just enough to hold the shape. It works like magic.

HEM MEASURE

"Dear Eunice,

"How can one measure and pin up hems in dresses and coats so they will be even all around, without asking friends and neighbors (they all seem so busy)?"

Mrs. I.M.B.

Dear Mrs. I.M.B.:

The only gadget I know about is a hem marker that stands on the floor and has a tube with a bulb on the end. The tube sprays a fine powder when you squeeze the bulb and it marks the hemline.

If anyone has any ideas or suggestions that have worked well, please let us know so we may share it with other women who sew alone.

CHRISTMAS GIFT

There still is time for you to make a clever patchwork robe, cobbler's apron or child's painting smock.

Hunt out all of your scrap material and make a crazy-quilt piece of fabric. If you have a new type sewing machine, you can zig-zag them together.

Lay one piece on top of the other and stitch about half an inch from the edge. After you have machine stitched, it will be easy to trim the excess off close to the stitching.

Cut the garment out after you have enough fabric in one piece.

"Dear Eunice,

"I have just finished a pair of slacks which had a curved waistband in the pattern. They fit so well that I am wondering if I can use this waistband on any pattern for skirts as well?"

Mrs. H.M.

Dear Mrs. H.M.:

If the contour of the skirt is the same at the waistline as the contour of the slacks which had the curved waistband, it should work out beautifully. If not, you could shape it the same by holding the one pattern over the other and trimming slightly until they are identical.

FANCY PANTS

"My children seem to grow taller before they grow wider. Their jeans and slacks are too short before I know it. I make plaid cotton flannel shirts and use a wide piece of the plaid for the facing of the pants (which have been pieced to lengthen). When the cuffs are turned up they make a matched set.

"If you aren't starting from scratch and have ready-made shirts, cut a strip off the tail, below where it is tucked in, and piece with a solid color. The piece you cut off could be used to face the pants and form a cuff."

This suggestion by Mrs. Fred Dillberg, Napa, Calif., is the winner of this week's Tailor Trix pressing board.

Mrs. A. F. W. says:

"I recently purchased some laminated suede cloth to make a coat. I found it easy to cut and mark. However, the foam backing would not go through the metal presser foot of my machine. I pinned wax paper on top of the fabric. It worked perfectly, easy to see through, easy to pull off, and eliminated the difficulty in machine stitching.

DECEMBER 21 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Glenda Sue Bawcom and Harold Watts, whose engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Bawcom of Bastrop. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Watts, also of Bastrop. The wedding will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the Church of Christ in Bastrop. Guss Eoff, minister, will perform the ceremony.

Cook Up Edible Trimming For Christmas Tree

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cook up an old - fashioned Christmas tree by making edible trimmings.

Here are recipes for cookie, candy and popcorn ball ornaments. Each may be wrapped, if desired, in colored or clear cellophane, aluminum foil, or transparent plastic wrap.

— Hangers are baked right into spiced Christmas tree cookies. Sift together into a mixing bowl 4 cups of sifted all - purpose flour, ½ cup of sugar, 1 teaspoon of baking soda, ½ teaspooon of salt, 3 teaspoons of ground ginger and 1 teaspoon each of ground nutmeg and allspice.

With two knives or a pastry blender, cut in 1 cup of shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add and mix well 1 cup of light, mild molasses that is hot but not boiling. Chill dough about three hours, or until it handles easily. Roll ⅛-inch thick on lightly floured board with lightly floured rolling pin. Cut with floured cooky cutter.

Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Place looped ends of 4-inch lengths of twine under tops of unbaked cookies. Press gently with a finger to make twine stick. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven 7 minutes, or until lightly browned around edges. Makes 8 to 9 dozen cookies.

If you decorate them with colored sugar, glace or candied fruit or nuts, press these into raw dough. Or you can decorate the baked, cooled cookies with confectioners' sugar and water icing applied with a paint brush. To hold string firmly, also brush a little icing on back of cookies where strings are attached.

— Make icing by blending 4 teaspoons of water into 1 cup of sifted confectioners' sugar. Add food coloring in drops to obtain desired colors.

— For raisin - nut popcorn balls, mix well together in a saucepan 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 cup of sugar, ¼ cup each of dark corn syrup, water, butter or margarine. Cook until syrup mixture registers 272 degrees on candy thermometer or until syrup separates into hard but not brittle threads.

Remove from heat. Add 1½ teaspoons of pure vanilla extract. Pour over mixture of 2½ quarts of popcorn, 1 cup of chopped nuts, and ½ cup of chopped raisins. Stir constantly to coat each kernel. Butter hands lightly and shape into 2 dozen 3 - inch popcorn balls. Wrap in cellophane, foil, or transparent plastic wrap and tie with ribbon loops for hanging.

— Cherry candy ornaments are easy to make. Place 2 cups of butterscotch pieces and 1 cup of semi - sweet chocolate pieces in top of double boiler. Stir over hot water until melted and blended. Add 1 cup each of flaked coconut and finely chopped walnuts and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Shape into 2 dozen 1½ - inch balls. Decorate with red maraschino cherries, using 1 cupful or about 40 cherries, drained and slivered. Insert wire ornament hangers in each. Chill well before hanging.

Soft Fit Forecast For Spring

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

While most women have been just getting around to buying a new winter coat, spring has already come to the fashion market. After a week of collection openings on New York's Seventh Avenue, here's the way things shape up for the fashion future.

Clothes are definitely going to be softer. If you've been hesitating over the curvier, more fitted lines being shown for fall and winter, don't. The curve is the look of the next few seasons.

Even sleeves are coming back. Ronald Amey is showing them in billowing lantern shape. Larry Aldrich goes for the poet type shirt sleeve, even on suits. Ceil Chapman has brought back her famous tight sleeves with wrist zippers.

There are two spring versions of the feminine look, and two which have vanished. What's in: open - air clothes with a gentled sportswear look, and high-waisted fitted clothes with seams. What's out: the furs and the high collars of fall and winter.

Suits are longer in the jacket, often looking like pullovers, often collarless to show the large collar or pussy - cat bow of the blouse beneath. Dresses are unbelted almost 100 per cent, fit without nipping in right up to the bosom, which is high and gently accented.

Newest Hat Is Reversible

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

Will a men's hat maker teach women's milliners something about selling more hats? The Hat Corporation of America has just gotten into the ladies' hat act by bringing out a convertible, cone-shaped pixie hat with one side in water - repellent poplin, the other in wool plaid.

The firm's president flung down the gauntlet thus: "We've spent so many years thinking style and quality, we forgot about changing modern life. Suburban living, sports, require more casual clothing."

The hat has a stitched edge, can be worn brim up or down, while the cone crown can be pushed into a flat crown. One size fits all heads, too.

Of course, conventional milliners haven't all been lacking in easy hats, as any hat bar can prove. But quality milliners have tended to stick with formal hats. Time for a change?

Winter Beach Wear Available

Off for a resort vacation? So many are, nowadays, that notions departments no longer clean out the beach wear as fall arrives.

Swim caps in flowers, polka dots and velvet now adorn notions counters for mid - winter vacations. Straw beach hats and cabana caps can be found, and sun glasses have become year - round items.

Not only are notions departments carrying these small items, but such larger ones as terry towels, wraps, clogs and bags. Many are pre - packaged in plastic, making them a notions department item.

Look, too, for bras to go under swim suits and brief pantie girdles for wear under suits and shorts.

While not all notions departments may carry winter beach items, those of large department stores do. In fact, many confine such items in winter to that department.

NEW McCOY FOR Y'S MEN

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — E. Jason McCoy of Canton has become president of the 18,000-member International Association of Y's Men's Clubs, worldwide service organization of the YMCA.

But he's not the first E. J. McCoy to have the responsibility. His father, the late Edgar J. McCoy, was president from 1927 to 1929. It is the first time in 37 presidents that a son has assumed the office previously held by his father.

COMFORT OVER SPEED

CHICAGO (AP) — Two would-be jail breakers were foiled in an attempt to escape from the Cook County jail because they preferred comfort to speed.

U. S. Marshal Joseph Tierney said guards caught prisoners Wayne Johnson, 41, and Craig Martin, 26, busily sawing through the bars of their cell in the jail's federal detention quarters.

The two men, recently sentenced to 25 years each for bank robbery, had already sawed through one bar and were hacking their way through a second when they were caught.

Tierney said the space created by sawing through one bar was enough to allow them to squeeze out of the cell window, but they apparently preferred more room.

RED HOT PUNT

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Tucson firemen blamed a football for setting a utility pole on fire.

They said a punt went astray, hit a ground wire and knocked it against a hot wire, thus starting the blaze.

56 YEARS WITH RR BOOKS

DENVER (AP) — When Earl F. Whitmore retired at 86, he was the oldest of the 4,700 employes at the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad, and also the longest in service, 56 years. He spent his entire career in the accounting department.

Slip Wardrobe Is New Need

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

Many women have been used to buying just one slip style. Fit, fabric and price suited them, and what else was needed? Plenty more, in today's fashion picture.

Take knits, as just one example. If the favorite slip has been a lace - encrusted model, it shows through a knit. A well-cut shadow panel slip is needed, devoid of any trim.

With the many kinds of dresses in mind, slip makers, are designing slip wardrobes. Plain slips for knits, lace - bodiced slips for sheer blouses, strapless slips for cocktail dresses and petticoats in dress silhouettes are some of them.

The full, tiered petticoat is back, for full - skirted dresses, but there are also flounced and princess - cut petticoats. Dresses hang better when the right slip or pettitocat is worn beneath them.

Nor should fabric choices be based solely on drip dry. Lingerie designers point out that the body of satin tricot is better under some sheer fabrics than is nylon tricot, ideal for knits. Taffeta makes a lovely swish under cocktail dresses.

Fit and proportion are still important. Most makers of better slips make them in proportioned sizes to fit the petite, medium and tall figures. So you no longer have to go on buying just one slip style because that's the only one which fits you.

As a basic slip wardrobe, makers suggest a strapless slip, a slim taffeta petticoat, a plain tricot, and an embroidered sheath slip. Others can be added as dress needs call for them. It's a good idea to hang each slip with its special dress so you always have the right one when needed.

Gift Wrap Reflects '30s Mood

This year's Christmas wraps use dramatic colors, rich texturing and sparkle to create gift papers unsurpassed in exquisite taste and high fashion sense. So says Mrs. Peggy Gilbert head of the design studio of one of the country's largest gift wrap manufacturers.

So wide is their elegance and adaptability that they can also be used to make a variety of smart decorations to add Christmas excitement to any room decor.

Reflecting the "thirties" mood of current decorating, brown and copper tones and all - over print motifs are prominent this year. Typical of the gift wraps in this field are "Snowflake Splendor," a handsome flocked paper in a coppery brown massed with huge golden snowflakes. "Holiday Gold" features glittering gold pine cones on a matte brown background. Particularly sophisticated is "Holly Drama." This is a gold embossed holly design on black.

In contrast to the brown range of colors, is "Rainbow Candles," a glowing paper, delicately frosted in pastels, picking up the apricot, pink and green tones also popular in the thirties.

Traditional reds and greens, beloved of every Christmas season are around too. But with a difference. This year glittering tone-on - tone papers abound like "Scarlet Brilliance" a red paper with horizontal stripes in sparkling red, and "Winter Green," and "Winter Red," flocked papers with self - color Christmas trees in sparkling glitter.

To round out the line and allow the individual gift wrapper scope for imaginative combinations of color and decorations, there is a wide selection of plain colored wrappings in matte, foil and glossy finishes.

Hat In Vivid Shade Accents Holiday Attire

A hat in a vivid color is the most beautiful way to accent this season's trend to neutral shades in dresses and coats, according to Balenciaga, the dean of Paris couture. Emphasizing the hat even further, the famous French designer says that accessories to the costume should be the same shade or blending, so that the only strong accent of color is in the hat.

To achieve this effect with the "festive" hat - the dressy hat to the exciting holiday season - Balenciaga suggests that an emerald green hat might be worn with a black outfit, a deep plum hat with beige, or a hat the color of ripe cantaloupe with a taupe costume.

Since this is the year of great glitter in dressy clothes, you can add a sparkly, shimmery effect to any outfit with a jeweled, beaded or sequinned hat, on a vivid color base. Try a black velvet pillbox and egret feathers with a gold or silver brocade dress. Contrast metallic lame turbans and toques with an all black outfit for drama. Wear a festive swirl of bright - hued maline sprinkled with brilliants as a hat to lift a simple dress into the realm of special occasion.

For flattery after five a hat is not just part of your costume but also part of your make-up, an important finishing background for your face and hair. Choose the color of your hat the same way you'd choose the color of your lipstick: to go with your complexion, your dress and your mood. If you've ever noticed the lovely effect of a blue eyed woman in a bright blue hat, you'll realize the color of your hat can intensify the color of your eyes and bring attention to them.

After dark hats are feminine and especially flattering. And what's best, they truly delight and intrigue the men.

PRESIDENTIAL PURCHASE

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — The area known as Jackson's Purchase includes eight counties in extreme southwestern Kentucky and is bordered on three sides by rivers — on the north by the Ohio, east by the Tennessee and west by the Mississippi.

It is so called because it was purchased by President Andrew Jackson on behalf of the United States in 1818. It was the last part of Kentucky to be settled.

AQUATIC GOOD DEED

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Three young men in an outboard motor boat are credited with preventing a serious collision between a runaway barge and an excursion boat carrying a party of older persons.

The youths scooted their boat between the two larger vessels, heading the barge off with its wake — then sped off to remain anonymous.

New School Instructs Art Of Hat Wearing

PARIS — (WNS) — The new chic school in Paris is called a "lycee papillon," or "butterfly school." Its subject is the art of wearing hats.

Instead of a blackboard, there's a Venetian glass mirror. Ostrich plumes and velvet ribbons take the place of dull textbooks.

Jean Barthet, the famed modiste whose brown wavy hair and spirited brown eyes make him like a musical - comedy star, is the principal. His students are 50 girls from 18 to 25 years old who are tired of wearing oversized kerchiefs in the Brigitte Bardot manner.

"Young ladies are really crazy about hats," reported Barthet. "They adore trying them on, but nowadays they are shy about wearing them in public."

Young Parisiennes, he reported, have tried all sorts of fads to form a bridge from the big scarf to the hat. "They have adopted the long chiffon head stole and even absurdities like Tyrolean felts and stiff debries, but without success."

Girls love to accompany their mothers to the modiste, and are gluttonous to try on every hat in the place.

"But they are afraid to come in alone," said Barthet. "Maybe they are afraid the hats cost too much, and maybe they are just afraid. At any rate I decided to help them by opening my lycee."

Enrollment costs $40 and covers one semester of six months. Besides instruction, each student is given one Jean Barthet hat. She also has the right to borrow hats for dates five times each month.

Subjects include:

1. How to choose a hat (a) to become you, (b) to complement your costume and (c) for each occasion.

2. How to put on a hat (a) at the most flattering angle, (b) without ruining your hairdo and (c) to create a harmonious silhouette with your entire ensemble.

3. How to care for a hat so that it keeps its shape, when and how to clean it and how to press a ribbon or change a faded flower.

4. How to hold your head "with that elegant Spanish neck" so that you carry your hat with perfection.

5. Proper correlation between hairdos and hats.

6. Correct mental attitudes to overcome embarrassed looks or self - conscious feelings when wearing a hat.

7. How to reply when a man says, "What a pretty hat!" "Or even when he asks, "Where did you get that hat?"

Barthet has limited his student body to 50 because "women in great numbers lose their charm. If we have 50 graduates every six months and they spread what they learn, the results will be tremendous."

His first class includes college girls, models, air hostesses, starlet ("the most beautiful movie stars have difficulty choosing and wearing hats"), debutants, secretaries and beauticians.

Their favorite hats for this season are brimmed models in polished leather, checked wool or printed velvet, and wool hats with matching scarfs.

"Le chapeau Diane," or hunter's hat, and the "Robin des Bois," or Robinhood, are popular brimmed shapes for sports, often trimmed with a quill feather or leather binding.

Jean Barthet also instructs women over 25, but reports that they want individual advice instead of general schooling.

"For instance, such a lady may ask for something for 'une grande soiree,' or big evening," he said. "I am apt to suggest smoothing back the hair, and I make her our engaging 'cache-chignon' ('chignon cover)' of beribboned or jeweled organide, of feathers, flowers or crushed tulle spiked with one important jewel, heirloom brooch or twist of real pearls."

Bachelors Note: Married Men Live Longer

By PATRICA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gloat no more, you bachelors.

Sure. You don't have all the nit-pickery and hen-pecking that your married brethren must deal with. You have more freedom.

But a new report shows married men tend to live longer and healthier lives. The suicide rate also is lower for the married men than it is for bachelors.

The report's enough to make a bachelor contemplate the big question: "Better wed than dead?"

The statistics were compiled by the Health Insurance Institute. They are based on several studies, including parts of the U.S. national health survey, the U.S. census for 1960, and insurance company mortality tables.

Some of the facts:

—The average stay for hospitalized husbands is 9.8 days versus 19.2 days for bachelors.

—The incidence of illness requiring hospitalization is 20 per cent lower for married men than for single men.

—Bachelors of different age groups have mortality rates ranging from 37 to 136 per cent higher than married men. For example, out of every 1,000 single men between the ages 24-34, there are an average of 3.6 deaths a year. The death rate of married men of the same ages is only 1.7 per 1,000. Divorced and widowed males have respective mortalities of 5.8 and 8.6 in the same age group.

"One explanation medical doctors offer for the apparent healthier state of the married is the general constancy of care and healthful advice married people extend to respective spouses in time of illness or threat of illness," the institute said.

"People living alone are not apt to get this kind of attention. Furthermore, married people probably are more attentive to diet and are more likely to take preventive measures against sickness than are single people."

Females also are better off married than single, the report showed.

The rate of hospitalization of wives on the one hand and single women on the other are almost the same—139 to 141 per 1,000—notwithstanding that the figures for wives include maternity.

"Eliminating the childbearing years, mature married women experience considerable less hospital confinement than do single women," the institute reported.

Duck Forecast May Be Off

With Sam Hanna

More Ducks Today

When the final shot is fired in the current duck season, after the calls are silent and the last mallard has gone north for the duration, the outcome will prove—more than likely — that the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission was right.

The waterfowl problems are not as bad as the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service would have you believe.

With almost four - million ducks in Louisiana, as reported in the surveys conducted by the state biologists, there are more ducks in the state now than there was at this time last year.

And Joe Herring, the chief of the fish and game division, says it looks as though Louisiana will have more ducks this year then we did at anytime last year. Recall the big post - season concentrations last year?

Yet so far the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service has remained silent on the waterfowl concentrations in the Mississippi Flyway this year. The federal service is responsible for the tight, two-duck limit on the Mississippi Flyway hunters.

As a result of the rough restrictions, duck hunting has dropped off in Louisiana and in Arkansas as well.

Commenting from his New Orleans office, Joe said the hunting has been fair to good in South Louisiana, especially across the coastal area. But he said there is not as much hunting pressure as in past years.

And at Little Rock, T. H. Holder, assistant wildlife director, said the Arkansas picture is much the same — that Arkansas has lots of ducks in areas where there is plenty of water, but added that the hunting pressure is light.

He said, in fact, that some of the private clubs didn't even open this season. The Arkansas season opened for 25 days at noon Thursday with a two - duck limit.

Holder, who said the sale of duck stamps is off in Arkansas, predicts, however, that duck hunting will bounce back, pointing out that the waterfowl problems were severe in the '30s.

In Louisiana, where a two-scaup bonus was obtained through the efforts of the state commission, duck hunters are having a tough time of telling the difference between scaup and blackjacks.

As a result, there probably are more potential game law violators hunting ducks than ever before in the history of duck hunting. Many innocent hunters will break the law without trying.

Yet, the game wardens still must enforce the law. Their job is the toughest yet.

When the last shot is fired, from the way it looks now the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service will have a lot of fences to mend in the Mississippi Flyway.

Louisiana Deer Kill

Louisiana's total deer kill has never approached that of the big deer hunting states, mainly because we don't have as many deer as states like Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York — just to mention a few.

But the kill this year on the Louisiana game management areas was a good one for the Pelican State. About 1,350 deer were killed on all the game management area with about 22,500 hunters participating.

This, however, won't come close to comparison with Arizona and Utah where about one out of every four or five hunters kills a deer. Even Arkansas won't compare, although the Razorback state has better deer hunting than Louisiana, but far from being the best in the country.

One thing that has held Louisiana back in its tabulation of the final deer kill is the lack of an adequate system to count noses. The deer tagging system is new in Louisiana, but still is not being supported by all deer hunters.

So don't forget to tag your deer and mail your report card to the state office at New Orleans. The system will go far in helping the commission manage the deer population better and as a result there'll be better hunting for all of us.

State Loses Biglane

Kenneth E. Biglane, a native of these parts and a graduate of Neville, is now with the U. S. Public Health, having resigned as executive secretary of the Louisiana Stream Control Commission.

Biglane is the second top biologist to leave the state's employ in recent months. John Newsom, chief of the fish and game division, joined a federal research project at LSU a few weeks back.

Louisiana loses too many of its biologists. For instance, Biglane's predecessor, Frank Coogan, left for private industry.

Biglane, who has been replaced by his assistant, Robert LaFleur, fought the pollution problems of the state for several years. He took particular interest in the Ouachita River pollution case and played an instrumental role in getting Arkansas to adopt a five-year program to clean up the Ouachita.

As a point of interest, one of the state's top game men, assistant director Richard Yancey, was honored recently by the New Orleans Sportmen's League. He was cited for his work on this year's waterfowl population studies, carrying the ball in Louisiana's fight against the federal government's tight duck hunting restrictions on the Mississippi Flyway.

City's Parrot Family

Over 100 parrots representing nine different varieties have been added to the growing animal, bird and reptile family at the Monroe city zoo in Bernstein Park.

Not a single parrot now on display at the zoo can be found wild in the United States. In fact, bird of this nature can be imported into the country only under the strictest supervision and quarantine.

Probably the most interesting of the parrots is the Cockatoo, since the Cockatoo will learn to talk. Best talker of the Cockatoos is the Greater Sulpher Crest —a pure white bird with a chest of brilliant yellow.

All total, there are five different kinds of Cockatoos from the Australian region now housed at the Monroe zoo.

Right now the birds are kept in a cage, but zoo director Kit Beecher says he will train them so that they can remain outside except on the colder days. Some of the birds eventually will learn to fly about the park without going away.

While some of the birds will be kept for reproduction purposes, others will be used to trade with other zoos, but eventually the zoo hopes to have one of the finest bird collections in the nation.

Little Man's Corner

It was cold as the bucks kept close to the briars and the mallards were on wing. And the little men made news afield.

A Monroe sport, Tony Danna, reports he has killed a silver - colored squirrel in Lafourche Swamp. Tony says the big male — of the fox squirrel family — weighed about four pounds.

He's having the rare bushytail mounted.

Meantime, a group of duck hunters, including some local people, had a good hunt on Catahoula Lake where the waterfowl concentration has been heavy. They were Vernon Tidwell, Kayo Tidwell, Vincy Tidwell, Tinker Tidwell, Cliff Tidwell, Leon Hendricks, Mack Owens and Bert Hatten.

From Monroe, old pro Merlin Milstead "tagged" a buck in Tensas.

And 15-year-old Bret Barham, son of Judge and Mrs. Mack E. Barham, of Bastrop killed his first buck—a 9-pointer in Morehouse Parish.

Locally, 16 - year - old John Wayne Peoples, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Peoples, killed a nice 8-point buck in Lafourche Swamp in Ouachita Parish.

Tow other local deer hunters, Uncle Honey Laningham and Neil Long, killed bucks. Uncle Honey's was a 4 - pointer and Neil Long killed a spike.

Also from Monroe, Harold Spillers got a 9 - point buck in Madison Parish. He said the deer dressed out at 225 pounds.

There have been several reports of big bucks killed that dressed out at well over 200 pounds, but most of the deer killed, and this is a guess, have been spikes.

And you don't see the big racks that these woods of ours once produced. More deer, yes, but not as many bucks with the rocking chair racks.

From Tensas, word comes that the Winnsboro Hunting Club, getting bigger every year, is killing a lot of deer. Clubs around Lake Providence are producing good kills also.

On Towhead Island near Lake Providence, 40 deer have been killed. Kenneth Price killed the largest — a 9 - pointer that dressed out at 202 pounds. Mrs. LeBane Clement got a 9 - pointer there also.

George Cooper killed at 7-pointer at Possum Point while Ray Edminston of Shreveport dropped a 12 - pointer in the Lake Providence area.

Palmer Defeats Player On Tour

KITWE, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., shot a 3-under-par 70 and defeated South African Gary Player by two strokes in the fourth match of their 6-match Southern Africa golf tour Saturday. Each now has won twice.

COACH JACK ROWAN of Northeast State points out spots of interest on the Northeast campus to Steve Regan after he signed the Pearl River (Miss.) Junior College end to an athletic scholarship. IN GOTHAM BOWL

Marvelous Mira Will Pilot Miami

NEW YORK (AP) — All-America quarterback George Mira, the passing wizard from Key West, Fla., will lead the University of Miami's football team from the warm friendliness of the Orange Bowl onto the frozen turf of Yankee Stadium next Saturday for a clash against the University of Nebraska in the second Gotham Bowl.

The game is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m., EST, with a possibility of national television.

Mira, a 6-foot, 175-pound junior, established a Miami career passing record this past season—one that when finally totalled after the 1963 season may be hard to top.

The slick Hurricanes' leader upped his career passing yardage to 2,372 yards, breaking Fran Curci's 3-year mark by 535 yards. Mira completed 122 passes for 1,572 yards in helping Miami to a 7-3 record. He's also tossed 18 touchdown passes in two years, including 10 in 1962, to break Curci's record of 13.

Nebraska is expected to counter Mira's aerial exploits with the all-around attack led by quarterback Dennis Claridge and half back Willie Ross, Claridge, also a junior, gained 370 yards rushing and added a hefty 829 through the air for 1,199. Ross was the mainstay of the Huskers' ground game, picking up 431 yards with a 4.8 average.

Miami, despite Mira's passing exploits, was no slouch on the ground. Nick Ryder led the Hurricanes with 607 yards and Mira added another 122 himself.

Nebraska lost only two games—to Missouri and Oklahoma—and won its first six under new Coach Bob Devaney. The Cornhuskers will be making their third bowl appearance. They have yet to win. They lost in the 1941 Rose Bowl to Stanford 21-13 and to Duke 34-7 in the 1955 Orange Bowl.

Miami has participated in seven post-season game, losing 15-14 last year to Syracuse in Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl.

The Gotham Bowl promoters have had difficulties getting their production off the ground, dropping out of the first venture in 1960 because of the lack of available teams. The finally paired Baylor and Utah State here last year in a last-minute arrangement and signed Nebraska only this past Tuesday. Miami accepted after closing its season last Saturday night with a victory over Florida.

Spink Services Held Saturday

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Funeral services for J.G. Taylor Spink, editor and publisher of The Sporting News, were held Saturday.

Spink died Friday in his suburban Clayton home. He was 74.

C.C. Johnson Spink, a son, was elected president of the firm Oct. 22 because of his father's illness.

Spink took over The Sporting News in 1914 and made it the voice of the baseball world.

Northeast Inks Junior College Grid Standout

Northeast State signed its first football prospect of the season Saturday. He's Steve Reagan, a star junior college end from Mississippi.

Coach Jack Rowan inked the player, who caught 33 passes with the strong Pearl River J. C. team last fall.

Reagan was an all - state choice as a prep player at Columbia, Miss., High and also made J. C. all - state at Pearl River. He stands 6-3 and weighs 190 pounds.

An accounting major, Reagan, 19, will enter Northeast at midterm.

Four ex - University of Kentucky players are with National Basketball Association teams. They are Adrian Smith of the Cincinnati Royals, Frank Ramsey with the Boston Celtics, John Cox with the Chicago Zephyrs and Cliff Hagan with the St. Louis Hawks.

Bobby Bell Is Named Top Lineman Of Year

By JOE SARGIS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bobby Bell, a knock-kneed quarterback at Shelby, N.C., High School who had to learn how to run, rewarded Minnesota coach Murray Warmaths faith in him Saturday when he was named college football's lineman of the year for 1962 by United Press International.

Bell, who started from scratch as a tackle at Minnesota four years ago and who earlier this week was named to the UPI All-America team, received twice as many votes as runnerup Lee Roy Jordan of Alabama, a center, in the nation-wide balloting among sports writers and sports broadcasters to determine the collegiate lineman of the year.

A total of only 12 linemen received at least five votes with end Pat Richter of Wisconsin a distant third. End Hal Bedsole of national champion Southern California and end Dave Robinson of Penn State tied for fourth. Bell finished with 144 votes, Jordan with 72, Richter with 31 and Bedsole and Robinson had 13 each.

"That's wonderful, you made a good choice," exclaimed Warmath when informed of UPI's choice. "Bell is the best lineman I ever saw play. There isn't anything he doesn't excell in in football."

The 22-year-old Bell, a physical therapy major, generally is credited for spearheading the Minnesota line which led the nation in rushing defense. At 6-4 and 214 pounds, Bobby is an extremely fast lineman who can run with the fastest backs for 40 yards.

He always had the speed, even when he was a quarterback at Shelby High, but he used to run flat-footed like a duck, thus nullifying any advantage he may have had over others. When he enrolled at Minnesota, Bell fully expected to continue as a quarterback because he could throw a ball 70 yards with accuracy.

But Warmath saw it differently, because he was gooming Sandy Stephens for quarterback and didnt want to waste Bell's natural talent. He flatly told Bobby he needed a tackle and that was the spot he wanted him to play. Bell demurred but the coach persisted and line coaches were given the job of training the North Carolina recruit, who at the time didn't even know a lineman's stance.

"He was knock-kneed and he ran slough-footed," recalls Minnesota line coach Denver Crawford. "His feet flapped like a duck's but with his great speed he learned fast."

Bell did learn fast and quickly proved Warmath's prediction that he would become the best lineman in the Big Ten.

"He plays by instinct and he has a lot of natural physical ability," Warmath says. "This boy's a real fine football player who has one of the best minds that I've ever coached."

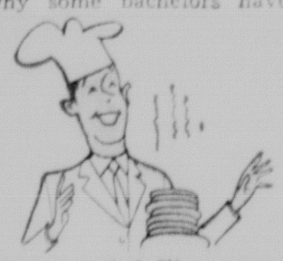
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE
I am a bachelor. You have no idea how we appreciate all your hints.

Now, I have a little something that I would like to pass on to the housewives: Men detest eating hot cakes and waffles on cold plates.

Perhaps this is one reason why some bachelors have never married. We are particular, you know! Here is the method I use for Sunday brunch get-togethers.



While your hot cakes and waffles are cooking, put a stack of plates in the kitchen sink and turn on the hot water faucet, letting the stream of water run over the plates until they become hot.

Just before each waffle or hot cake is finished and you are about to serve it . . . turn off the hot water, pick up the top plate and dry it quickly. Place your hot waffle on the warm plate. Just taste the difference in your breakfast!

Girls, it takes a little extra effort on your part, but I am sure that your husbands would be most pleased.

And, Heloise, I wonder if you could mention the fact that some of us spoiled bachelors, when invited to Sunday brunch by some of these spoiled career girls, would love a hot plate to have our waffles and hot cakes served on!

As one last thought to cooks who throw a cold fried egg on a cold plate . . . Uggh! try our bachelor method of quick-hot-plates. Perfection ! ! !

PIN-UP BOARD

DEAR HELOISE:
I believe that everyone who owns an ironing board, and there are many . . . should know how I cover mine.

Take a piece of sheeting the approximate shape of the board and large enough to cover the sides and underpart.

Taking ordinary safety pins, outline the under edge of the sheet with them. Use the pins for "holes" and take any available string that is sturdy and "lace" the ironing board cover on as you would with a shoe lace . . . on the underneath side!

Put the safety pins at about one or two-inch intervals.

When the cover is worn, use the same pins and string and just restring a new cover.

GRATE IDEA

DEAR HELOISE:
Before I grate cheese, I put a small amount of cooking oil on the grater with either a small pastry brush or a paper towel and rub a bit.

When washing the grater . . . all the cheese will immediately come off.

Lora

EMERGENCY FILE

DEAR HELOISE:
The other night I was out with my girl friend and she broke her fingernail. She asked me for a book of matches.

She took the emory part of the matchbook where you strike the matches and filed off the rough edges of her fingernail!

Richard

DEAR RICHARD:
You have found the answer to a catastrophe that happens to every woman once in a lifetime.

And . . . the matchbook does work!

TAXING METHOD

DEAR HELOISE:
Ideally, canceled checks and tax records should be kept in a safe-deposit box or a sturdy metal file. But who can afford that many metal files and what safe-deposit box is large enough to hold that much "stuff"? Don't laugh!

I take each years records and dump them into one and two-pound coffee cans, seal with friction tape, and label.

These cans may then be stacked conveniently in a closet and are safe from fire and water damage. When it is time to throw away one year's tax records, I just take down the can and throw away the whole shootin' batch.

Barbara

PIE TIN FRY

DEAR HELOISE:
While I am frying things I turn those throw-away pie tins upside down over the other burners on my stove and it keeps them clean. The tins are much easier to clean than the burners.

Frances Nontell

JALOUSIE TIP

DEAR HELOISE:
Since so many other women have been generous with their household helps, I thought I would contribute my two cents' worth.

I have white shuttered pantry doors, and they do collect soil!.

I could never clean these properly until I was told to use the rounded end of a table knife wrapped in a piece of turkish toweling. After " making" this, I dip it into a solution of detergent and water. I just run this along each slat and the shutters are clean in no time.

Helen B.

CEDAR IN THE AIR

DEAR HELOISE:
My cedar chest was 20 years old and seemed to be losing that good "odor".

I took fine sandpaper and, sanding with the grain of the wood, sanded all the inside carefully. My vacuum sweeper took all the crumbs and dust away and it now smells like it used to.

Phyllis Long

FLAT SHEETS

DEAR HELOISE:
Does everyone know that by sewing a narrow hem along the selvage of flat sheets it will prevent the edge from "rolling" when dried in a dryer?

This really saves time if one is "stuffy" enough to want sheets ironed . . . and I am!

Gladys Schier

PUNCH and JUICER

DEAR HELOISE:
To drain juice from canned food without a mess . . . just punch holes in the top of the can lid . . . hold the can over a bowl or container and then punch one hole in the other end of the can so that the air can get in the can, and the liquid will pour out!

This can be done by using an icepick or any type bottle or can opener. After the juice has drained out, open the can as usual and remove the contents.
